NOTE:

The Rev. Mr. Huntington's Genealogy of the Lothrop-Lathrop Family was substantially ready for the press in 1872-1873, the materials having been collected long before. The panic of 1873 and his untimely death in 1877 caused delays in the publication. The manuscript needed revision, there were corrections and additions to be made. Had the author lived, it is hardly possible there should have been no mistakes in such a work, and with him passed away all knowledge of many of the references and authorities which he used, and some of the errors were thus placed beyond correction.

In August, 1883, a friend, though overladen with business cares, kindly offered to see the work through the press, but without being able to give it any thorough editorial revision. Much new material has been added, a voluminous correspondence has been entered into, many corrections, made necessary by an illegible manuscript and other causes, have been made, and the publication has thus been unavoidably delayed until now.

Many acknowledgments should be made for kindly aid given by those who were interested in the work. To name them all would be impossible, to omit any would be invidious, and only the general thanks of a grateful heart can now be tendered.

THE ENGLISH LOWTHROPS.

LOWTHORPE.

LOWTHORPE is a small parish in the wapentake of Dickering, in the East Riding of York, four and a half miles northeast from Great Driffield, having about 150 inhabitants. It is a perpetual curacy in the archdeaconry of York. This parish gave name to the family of Lowthrop, Lothrop, or Lathrop. The church, which was dedicated to St. Martin, and had for one of its chaplains, in the reign of Richard the Second, Robert de Louthorp, is now partly ruinated, the tower and chancel being almost entirely overgrown with ivy. It was a collegiate church from 1333, and from the style of its architecture, must have been built about the time of Edward III.

There has been no institution to it since 1579. The church consists of a nave, chancel, and tower at the west end; the latter is finished with brick and clumsy pinnacles. It was formerly a very handsome structure, the windows being lofty, of three lights, with trefoil heads, and three quarterfoils in the sweep of the arch. The portion of the church now used for divine service is the nave, the chancel having been desecrated for a considerable period. In this part of the church are two large ash trees and some curious monuments, one of which is a brass tablet rendered illegible through the weather. Affixed to the north side of the nave is the following historical tablet in bad repair:

"The collegiate church of Lowthorpe was an ancient rectory, dedicated to St. Martin.

"A.D. 1333 it was endowed by Sir John de Haslerton, who founded in it six perpetual chantries.

"A.D. 1364, Sir Thomas de Haslerton added another chantry for the souls of himself and Alice, his wife. He endowed the church with the manor of Lawthorpe and the mansion house.

"A.D. 1776, the inhabitants of the township of Lowthrope repaired the roof of the church.

"A.D. 1777, the church was paved, and the chancel contracted and painted by Sir William St. Quintin, Bart., lord of the manor and patron of the living, descended from the family of the Haslertons."

Dugdale, in his Monasticon, Vol. VI, Part 3, 1474, gives these additional particulars of its endowment: "Here was a collegiate body or large chantrey, consisting of a Rector, six chaplains, and three clerks, founded in this church in the beginning of the reign of King Edward the Third by Sir John Haserlerton, patron, who got the archbishop to appropriate the parochial tithes for their maintenance."

In 1869 the south side of the chancel was entirely rebuilt, leaving, however, the tower and chancel as they have stood for many generations. The church is a perpetual curacy, and the present Patron is William Thomas, St. Quinton, Esq.

(I.) LOWTHORPE LOTHROPS.

The following are such notices of the Lowthorpes of this parish and its near vicinity as I could glean during my English search:

1216. WALTER DE LOWTHORPE, elected sheriff for Yorkshire.

1292. WALTER DE LOWTHORPE is summoned to answer to the king, Edward I, for attempting to regulate the "assize of beer" on all of his tenants in Lowthorpe and other places without a license from the king. He stoutly defended himself, insisting upon his unquestioned right "anent custom thro his ancestors without interruption, beyond the memory of man."

1287. ROBERT and RICHARD LOWTHORP, of Whepsted, Thingoe hundred, Suffolk, were licensed May 6th, 16th Edward I (1287) by the crown at the gate of St. Edmunds to give to the Abbot in Mortmain eighty-seven acres of land, five acres of meadow and twelve acres of wood, in Whepsted, for the support of certain chaplains celebrating daily in the Chapel of St. John. The above lands they had purchased of Peter de Bradfeld and his wife Agnes, and of William Mitchell. Gage's Suffolk, p. 397.

1317. ROBERT DE LOUTHORP is presented by the Abbey of St. Edmunds to the rectorship of Horningsheath. Ibid., 523.

1392. At the death of ROBERT LOWTHROP an inquisition was held regarding certain tenements in Beverley which he had given to the Church of St. John in that town, the revenues from which were to be appropriated for masses by the chaplains there, for the repose of his soul.

1450. ROBERT LOWTHORPE, of Bridlington, receives 20*s*., by will, from William Sywardley, Esq., of Sywardley, April 9, 1450. Surtees Soc., Vol. 2.

1474. Aug. 3, ROBERT LOWTHORP, of Bridlington, makes his will, which was proved at York on the 3d of the following November. He gives his landed estate to his relatives at Lowthorpe and Cherry Burton. The will gives us the name of his wife, Catherine ———, who was also his executrix. This will is printed as illustrating the position and character of the man, and as no children are named, as suggesting that he left no other family than his wife. This is also noteworthy as being the earliest will now preserved in the registry at York of any person of the name Lowthorp.

It is written in the abbreviated Latin peculiar to that period. The following is the translation:

"In the name of God, Amen, the third day of the month of August, fourteen hundred and seventy-four. I Robert Lowthorpe, of Bridlington, being of sound mind and memory make my testament in this manner.

"In the first place, I give my soul to God Omnipotent, and to the blessed Mary, and to all his saints, and my body to be buried in the church of the blessed Mary of Bridlington.

"Also, I give my best animal for my mortuary.

"Also, I give to the light of St. John of Bridlington one silver gilt zone with eighty pearls and ten silver gilt pendants, after the death of Catherine my wife.

"Also, I give to every Priest present at my funeral on the first, sixpence, and on the seventh day, fourpence.

"Also, I give to every Chaplain present the first and the seventh day, twelvepence.

"Also, I give for wax to be placed about my body, the first day and the seventh, four pounds.

"Also, I give to the fabric of the church of St. Peter of New York, twelvepence.

"Also, I give to the fabric of St. Mary of Bridlington, three shillings and fourpence.

"Also, I give to the parish altar of Bridlington one burde cloth (gold tissue), and one towell and twill.

"Also, I give to the high altar of Lowthorp one burde cloth and one towell and twill.

"Also, I give to the guild of the Holy Trinity of Bridlington three and fourpence.

"Also, I give to the guild of St. Mary of Bridlington, twenty pence.

"Also, I give to the Friars' Preachers of Kingston-upon-Hull, twenty pence.

"I give the residue of all my goods not above bequeathed, to Catherine, my wife, whom I make my executrix, to order and dispose thereof to the health of my soul, as may seem best to her.

"In witness whereof, I have placed my seal, these being witnesses: Anthony Kirby, Parish Chaplain; John Chapman, Richard Glover, Chaplain; William Hedon, John Brigham, John Somerby, William Edwards, John Sutton, and others.

"The present testament was proved the third day of the month of November in the year of our Lord aforesaid, and administration, committed to Katherine, widow and executrix in the same will."

In addition to the foregoing records of the English Lowthrops, by the kind, ness of Col. J. L. Chester of London, who has been so successful in his antiquarian researches for so many years among the English church and civil records, I am able to supply the following list. These records may be of future use in completing the genealogy of that branch of the English Lothrops from which the American family of the name is derived.

From Col. Chester's Oxford Matriculations the following two records are taken.

LATHORPPE, CHRISTOPHER, June 19, 1607, at Baliol College, his father being a plebeian, and he 16 years of age.

LOWTHROPPE, JOHN, Oct. 15, 1602, at Christ Church College, his father being a plebeian of York, and he 16 years of age.

It is probably the second of these two matriculations, which led to the mistake so often repeated in print, regarding the graduation of Rev. John, the American pioneer, from Christ Church College, Oxford. The following are from Col. Chester's parish register notes, and the several parishes are successively indicated.

MUMSBY, Lincolnshire.

LATHROP, ROBERT, son of Robert and Mary, baptized Oct. 7, 1655.
LATHROP, GERVICE, son of Robert and Mary, baptized Nov. 9, 1664 LATHROP, MARY, wife of Mr. Robert, buried Feb. 20, 1685.
LATHROP, ROBERT, Gent., buried Nov. 19, 1688.

LONDON.

LATHROPE, MRS., of Swan's Yard, buried in St. Leonard's, Shoreditch, Sept. 16, 1665.

MARTON, Lincolnshire.

LATHROP, MR. ROBERT, buried Sept. 12, 1670.

CHELSEA, London.

LATHROP, MR. ROBERT, buried in the church Sept. 14, 1719.

HALSTEAD, MARY HENRIETTA, grandchild of Mr. Lowthorp, buried Apr. 2, 1721.

LOWTHORP, REV. MR. JOHN, buried in the church Sept. 5, 1724.

LOWTHORP, FRANCIS, Gent., buried Jan. 29, 1726-7.

LOWTHORP, MRS. ELIZABETH, buried Aug. 15, 1739.

LOWTHORP, MRS. MARY, buried Dec. 1, 1739.

LATHORPE, SAMUEL, chirurgeon of the ship Swanne, makes his will Sept. 22, 1636. The will is found in Book Lee, of the London Will Office, page 95, and furnishes the following list of legatees:

MARGERY LATHORPE, his mother, at Bardnay, Lincolnshire.

SUSANNAH LATHORPE, his sister, at Bardnay.

ALICE LATHORPE, sister, at Bardnay.

Francis, son of Thomas Morley of Jathnell, Lincolnshire, and three other of the oldest children of Thomas Morley.

The poor of the parish of Bardnay.

Elizabeth Johnson, his sister-in-law.

Katherine Harryson, his sister-in-law.

Margaret, daughter of Elizabeth Johnson.

Mrs. Jeremy Sambroke of St. Stephens, Coleman's street, London.

Thomas Clark, his friend, and his wife Elizabeth.

John Prowd, comdr. and John Wilson, purser, of ship Swanne.

THOMAS LATHROPE, his brother, of Yorks, merchant, to be his residuary legatee.

From Bigland's Gloucestershire, the following records are taken:

LATHROPP, RICHARD, Gent., died Sept. 19, 1741, aged 39 years, in the parish of Clifton, in the hundred of Barton-Regis.

LATHROPP, HANNAH, wife of the above Richard, died Jan. 4, 1789, aged 72.

LATHROPP, ROBERT, their son, died young.

From Nichols' Leicester, p. 145:

LOWTHROP, JOHN, M.A., F.R.S., rector at Framland Hundred, Coston Church in 1686, at the Revolution, being a non-conformist he vacated his office.

LOWTHROP, JOHN, is reported in Nichols' Leicester, p. 420, as of St. John's College, Cambridge, and as degraded from the ministry in 1690, for his letters to the bishop of Sarum. He afterwards became librarian to the duke of Chandos. The same record reports his death at "Canons," the duke's seat, Sept. 2, 1724, and his burial Sept. 5th, in Chelsea. (See Chester's list, above.)

Manning & Bray's Surrey, Vol. 1, 144:

JOHN LOWTHORPE, instituted Vicar of Woking, Aug. 31, 1411.

The following names are found on subsidy rolls for the places and dates reported:

LOWTHROPE, ROBERT of Hornsay, 1558.

LOWTHROPPE, JOHN of Hessell Co., Kingston-upon-Hull, 1579.

LOWTHROPP, ROGER of Kingston-upon-Hull, 1579.

The following marriage is reported in Burke's History of the Commoners, Edition of 1836:

LATHROP, ROBERT, Gent., of Shrewsbury, married Susannah, daughter of Richard Scott and Susanna Gardner. This Richard Scott was born in 1648 and married in 1670.

His will, dated Sept. 4, 1538, was proved Nov. 9, 1539. An inquisition, post-mortem, was held Nov. 6, 1539, to determine what lands he held of the crown, and in the returns it is stated that he died Aug. 12, 1539, possessed of lands in Lowthorpe and adjoining villages, and that Christopher Lowthorpe was his son and heir, then aged eight years and more.

2. CHRISTOPHER, born about 1530, and married Elizabeth ——. His residence was in Lowthorp, where his will was made July 23, 1569. The will was proved June 17, 1570. In it he makes bequests to his eldest son Marmaduke of his mansion house with two closes thereto belonging, and one-half an oxgang of land, and to his younger son Christopher, one oxgang of land in Lowthorpe. His wife, Elizabeth, was to improve the mansion house, three closes, and one and a half oxgangs of land, until the sons should come of age. The MSS., 6,104, which gives the latest generations of this family, supplies the following blazon for the Arms: Quarterly, g sa. An eagle displayed. Ar. crest a cornish chough proper.

MICHAEL OF STAFFORDSHIRE.

From three different manuscripts the following three pedigrees were copied. I print the three with all the variations and contradictions, showing some of the difficulties attending the construction of family pedigrees, even with the aid of a College of Heraldry.

Our first MSS., No. 1173, page 105, contains the report of the visitation of Staffordshire, 1583, "maid by Robert Glover als (alias) Somersett Herauld Marshall to Willm Flower, als Norroy King at Armes, Anno Dom. 1583." A later hand had added to the same report whatever bears later date than 1583, and had affixed "—1614" to the former date.

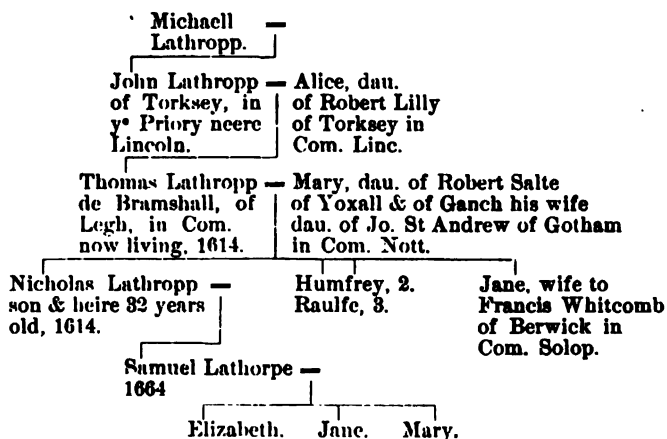
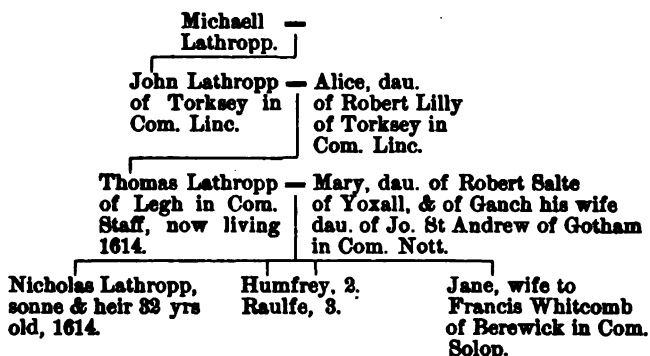
The pedigree of Michael Lathropp, Staffordshire, a branch of the family of Lowthorpe of Lowthorpe, Yorkshire, collated from the following Harleian MSS. in the British Museum:

I. The MSS. No. 1173—Visitation of 1583, by Robert Glover, Somerset Herald's Marshall to Wm. Flower.

II. The MSS. No. 1439—Visitation of 1614, by Richard St. George, Esq., Norroy.

III. The MSS. No. 6104—Visitation of 1663, reviewed 1664, by William Dugdale.


Quarterly. g sa. an eagle displayed ar.
crest a cornish chough proper.

The same pedigree is thus reported in Harleian MSS. No. 1439, visitation of 1614, "made by Richard St. George, Esq. als Norroy Knight at Arms in Anno Domini 1614":


In the visitation of Staffordshire, in 1663, by Wm. Dugdale, which was reviewed in 1664, we have reported in Harl. MSS. 6104 the same pedigree again, but beginning one, and ending two generations later.

II.

JOHN LOWTHROPPE OF LOWTHORPE.

JOHN LOWTHROPPE OF LOWTHORPE.

Our pedigree of that branch of the old Lowthorpe family which had its earliest known English seat in Lowthorpe, wapentake of Dickering, East Riding of Yorkshire, must begin in JOHN LOWTHROPPE, gr.-grandfather, to Rev. John Lothropp, the American pioneer. Early in the sixteenth century he was living in Cherry Burton, a parish about four miles from Lowthorpe. He was, though belonging to a junior branch of the family, a gentleman of quite extensive landed estates both in Cherry Burton and in various other parts of the county. In the 37th year of Henry VIII (1545), he appears on a Yorkshire subsidy roll, assessed twice as much as any other inhabitant of the parish. Of his parentage and of the names of his brothers and sisters, if he had any, we shall probably be unable to find the record, the early parish registers having disappeared. No record of baptisms before 1597, none of burials before 1561, and none of marriages before 1562, now remain.

This John Lowthroppe left the son ROBERT whose record we are able to give, and also three daughters whose families are mentioned, though their own names are not designated in the will of the son. Whether there were still other children we may never be able to learn.

1. JOHN. Cherry Burton.

2. ROBERT succeeded to the estates of his father in Cherry Burton, and during his lifetime made considerable additions to them. He had married Ellen ——, who survived him fourteen years, and at her death left a will, which supplies for us the names of some of her descendants which, but for this will, might not have reached us. The names preserved to us in this will are the eldest son Thomas, and his children Robert, Elizabeth, and Isabell, and Robert's wife, Alice Clarke; her son Lawrence, and his wife Elizabeth and their children, Edward and Agnes; her daughter Margaret, the wife of Robert Hodgeson, and her own sister Margaret. Her sons were the executors of her will.

Mr. Robert Lothrope died in 1558. His will, bearing date, North Burton (Sheributon), July 16, 1558, was proved at York, Oct. 20, 1558, and makes the following bequests. It will be seen that the later will of his widow, as reported above, confirms the list of his children as given in the will below. This will is thus fully reported as best setting before us the condition and social position of this representative of the Lothrop family more than three centuries ago.

8. CATHERINE, married June 12, 1607, William Akett, of Leckonfield, Harthill wapentake, East Riding of Yorkshire, who is named in the will of her brother Thomas, then rector of Dengie, Essex. In her father's will her children are named: Jane, Anne, Isabell, and Elizabeth Akeit.

9. AWDREY, who is reputed in her father's will as the wife of a Wickham. Her children are named in the will as: William, Thomas, and Jayne, and the family name is spelled Wykam.

10. ELIZABETH, married, Feb. 19, 1587–8, Thomas Rowood.

11. ANNE, baptized at Etton, Feb. 13, 1568–9, and died young.

12. ISABELL, baptized at Etton, July 3, 1570.

13. MARTIN, baptized at Etton, Oct. 21, 1572, and buried, Nov. 12, 1572.

14. ANDREW, baptized at Etton, April 23, 1574.

2d Wife's.

15. ANNE, baptized at Etton, July 29, 1576.

16. MARY, who is named in her brother Thomas' will, Oct. 20, 1628, as the wife of John Gallant.

17. THOMAS, baptized in Etton, Oct. 14, 1582, and was admitted to Queen's College, Cambridge, under George Mountaine as his tutor, June 30, 1601, and took his Bachelor's degree in 1604. He married Elizabeth ———, and in his will, which bears date Oct. 20, 1628, and which was proved in Consistory Court, London, May 6, 1629, he names as legatees his wife Elizabeth, and makes the following bequests: to eldest daughter Anne, when she shall come of age; to second daughter Jane, his Wilkes estate, Tillingham, Essex Co.; to his third daughter Elizabeth, lands in Allhorne, Essex Co.; to his youngest daughter Mary, the Yates gap land and Meale Field, Southminster, Essex; to his brothers John and William; to William Akett, of Leckenfield, his brother-in-law; to his sister Mary, wife of John Gallant, and to several servants.

18. JOHN, baptized in Etton, Dec. 20, 1584, and became the pioneer and founder of the LOTHROP-LATHROP family in America. His record and that of his descendants immediately follow this record of the English Lowthrops.

19. WILLIAM, baptized May 24, 1587, and is named in his brother Thomas' will, Oct. 20, 1628.

2d Wife's.

20. MARGARET, baptized in Etton, Feb. 13, 1590-1.

21. ISABELL, baptized in Etton, Sept. 29, 1592.

22. LUCY, baptized in Etton, Jan. 4, 1593-4, and married, June 16, 1618, Ralph Cawnsby.

23. RICHARD, baptized in Etton, Oct. 12, 1595, and married Dorothy Lowdon. He settled in Cherry Burton, where his will was made Feb. 8, 1640-1, and where his wife died in 1645. He left two sons, Thomas of Cherry Burton, and Richard of North Cave, near Cherry Burton, who died unmarried in 1659; and a Mary, a posthumous daughter. In his will, dated Feb. 8, 1640-1, and proved June, 1641, he remembers the poor of Cherry Burton, of Bishops Burton, of Etton, and of Leconfield; the Church of Cherry Burton; his eldest son Thomas, when of age; his unborn child, if it reaches majority; his wife Dorothy; his mother, Jane Coppendale; his younger son Richard, his brother Joseph, and his son Thomas; his brother Bartholomew; his sister Mary Garwood and her daughter Elizabeth, and to John, son of William Lowthrop.

The will of Dorothy Lowthrop, widow of this Richard, dated May 15, 1641, and proved May 9, 1645, names as legatees, son Thomas, son Richard, daughter Mary, mother Jane Brown, mother Jane Coppendale or dayk, brothers, sister Lowson, brother Lawrence Lowthrop and his children, and his brother Bartholomew Lowthrop.

24. MARK, baptized in Etton, Sept. 27, 1597. Mr. Somerby in his work prepared for Mr. Motley, before mentioned, says of this Mark: "He was among the settlers of West Bridgewater in Massachusetts, where he died about the year 1686. His children were Elizabeth, Mark, Samuel, and Edward," etc.

It would have greatly simplified my record of the American Lo-Lathrops if I had not soon found another record for this Mark. His will was brought to light in London just in season to save the perpetuation of the error in our American record.

Before his death he had removed to North Cave, near Cherry Burton, in Harthill wapentake, Hunsley Beacon, Yorkshire, when he probably had never married. His will bears date, North Cave, January, 1659-60, and was admitted to probate in London April 17, 1660. He names as his only legatees, his brother Bartholomew, brother William, Margaret Bateman, sister Lucy, and sister Jane. He also made his brother Bartholomew his executor and residuary legatee.

Of course the above will disproves of the supposition which for years misled my search, that this Mark Lothrop was the pioneer who settled in Bridgewater, Mass., and whose descendants I have not been able to connect with the family of the Rev. John.

25. LAWRENCE, baptized in Etton, Aug. 29, 1599, and is mentioned in the will of his nephew Richard, 1659, as the father of three children. He was, in 1641, one of the witnesses to his brother Richard's will.

26. JANE, baptized in Etton, March 14, 1600–1.

27. JOSEPH, baptized in Etton, Dec. 31, 1602. He and his son Thomas are mentioned in the will of his nephew Richard.

28. BARTHOLOMEW, baptized in Etton, March 1, 1604–5, and named in the wills of his brother Richard, 1641, and nephew Richard, 1659.

Of the places named in these wills and pedigrees, all are very near to Lowthorpe, Bridlington, and Napperton being in the same wapentake; Cherry Burton, North Cave, So. Dalton, and Etton in Harthill wapentake, Walkinton in Howdenshire wapentake.

REV. JOHN, THE PIONEER.

JOHN LOTHROPP, for this is the form in which he wrote his name, deserves, in this work, a much more complete biography than our sources of information will furnish. Of printed materials towards such a biography, we have but very few, and these very meager. Neal's "History of the Puritans"; Gov. Winthrop's "Journal"; Morton's "New England Memorial"; a "Biographical Sketch" written by Rev. John Lathrop, D.D., of Boston, for his kinsman of the Lathrop blood, Rev. Abiel Holmes, D.D., of Charlestown; and that brief but just sketch in Dr. Sprague's "Annals of the American Pulpit," and Mr. Otis' quite exhaustive collections printed in the Yarmouth paper, will exhaust the list. A few gleanings from English records, before his immigration to America, and a few from American records after that date, must complete the story as we are now able to tell it.

Baptized, as our English record shows, in Etton, Yorkshire, Dec. 20, 1584, he was educated, not in Oxford as Dr. Lathrop's sketch supposes, but in Queen's College, Cambridge, where he was matriculated in 1601, graduated B.A. in 1605, and M.A. in 1609.

Authentic records next locate him in Egerton, 48 miles southeast from London, in the Lower Half hundred of Calehill, Lathe of Scray, County of Kent, as curate of the parish church there. To this living he was admitted about 1611 by the Dean and Chapter of St. Paul. Our baptismal records, already given, show that he was there in the fall of 1614, and last report his family there in the fall of 1619. It was probably his first and only parish charge as a minister of the English Church. That he was an acceptable minister we have no reason to doubt. The church in which he officiated was an ancient structure, standing on the summit of a rounded hill, and could be seen from a great distance. The site was very beautiful; the church itself, dedicated to St. James, consisted of two aisles and a chancel. At the west end rose its square tower with a beacon turret, altogether constituting a feature which gives a charm to so many a pleasant English landscape.

Here Mr. Lothropp labored faithfully as long as his judgment could approve the ritual and government of the Church. But when he could no longer do this, we find him conscientiously renouncing his orders and asserting the right of still fulfilling a ministry to which his heart and his conscience had called him.

Accordingly, in 1623 his decision is made. He bids adieu to the church of his youth, and with no misgivings, now in the fullness of his early manhood, subscribes with a firm hand to the doctrines, and espouses with a courageous heart the cause of the Independents. Henceforth his lot is with conventicle men in his mother land, and with the exiled founders of a great nation in a new world. We will not stop to justify his renunciation, nor his espousal.

If the story we are to tell fails of doing this, any other proof we could summon would equally fail.

The date of his leaving Egerton is 1623, and the next year he is called to succeed the Rev. Henry Jacob, an independent minister who, having been for eight years the pastor of the First Independent Church in London, resigned his place to remove to Virginia. This church, at that date, was situated on Union St., Southwark, and from the burial lot attached to it, was still later known as the Deadman's Place. Not a vestige now remains above ground to show the locality. One single stone, still buried, or which certainly was lying buried July 20, 1872, when I visited the spot, beneath the rubbish and earth in the rear yard of ——— Barclay & Perkins great brewery will yet testify for that old house. At that date the congregation of dissenters to which he ministered had no place of public worship, their worship itself being illegal. Only such as could meet the obloquy and risk the danger of worshiping God in violation of human statute, were likely to be found in that secret gathering. Yet in goodly numbers, in such places in Southwark as they could stealthily occupy, they held together and were comforted and instructed by the minister of their choice. For not less than eight years they so worshiped. No threats of vengeance deterred, and no vigilance of officious ministers of the violated law detected them. More watchful grew the minions of Laud. Keen-scented Church-hounds traversed all the narrow ways of the city whose most secret nooks could by any possibility admit even a small company of the outlaws. One of the wiliest of these pursuivants of the bishop, Tomlinson by name, tracked Mr. Lothropp and his followers to their retreat. They had met for worship as had been their wont, little thinking that it would be their last gathering with their beloved minister. How far they had gone in their service we shall probably never know. What words of cheer they had spoken or heard we may not repeat. Their private sanctuary, a room in the house of Mr. Humphrey Barnet, a brewer's clerk in Black Friars, is suddenly invaded. Tomlinson and his ruffian band, with a show of power above their resistance, sieze forty-two of their number, allowing only eighteen of them to escape, and make that 22d day of April, 1632, forever memorable to those suffering Christians, by handing them over in fetters to the executioners of a law which was made for godly men to break. In the old Clink prison, in Newgate, and in the Gatehouse, all made for felons, these men, "of whom the world was not worthy," lingered for months. In the spring of 1634, all but Mr. Lothropp were released on bail. He, their leader, the chief offender, was deemed too dangerous to be set at liberty. Like the gifted Hooker, it was felt that his words and his example had "already more impeached the peace of our Church," than the church could bear. "His genius will still haunte all the pulpits in ye country, when any of his scolers may be admitted to preach."

And so his prison doors swung to again and seemed to leave him no hope of release or escape.

During these months a fatal sickness was preying upon his wife, and bringing her fast toward her end. The "New England's Memorial," by Nathaniel Morton, published in 1669, and then near enough the date of the incidents given, to be a credible witness, gives us these touching incidents of that imprisonment: "His wife fell sick, of which sickness she died. He procured liberty of the bishop to visit his wife before her death, and commended her to God by prayer, who soon gave up the ghost. At his return to prison, his poor children, being many, repaired to the bishop at Lambeth, and made known unto him their miserable condition, by reason of their good father's being continued in close durance, who commiserated their condition so far as to grant him liberty, who soon after came over into New England."

The State Papers in the New Record Office, Fetter Lane, London, have preserved some of the Star Chamber records of those days during which Mr. Lothropp was thus imprisoned. The following copies from these records will tell their own story:

"June 12, 1634. John Lathrop of Lambeth Marsh. Bond to be certified, and he attached if he appear not on next court day.

"June 19. Bond ordered to be certified and to be attached for non-appearance.

"Oct. 9. John Lathrop and Samuel Eaton, to be attached for non-appearance.

"1634–5, Feb. 19. John Lathrop and Sam. Eaton for contempt in not appearing to answer touching their keeping conventicles, their bonds ordered to be certified and they attached and committed.

"1634, Apr. 24. John Lathrop enlarged on bond to appear in Trinity term, and not to be present at any private conventicles."

This last record was probably the order of the court which opened the way for the escape of Mr. Lathrop to America. At any rate the year had not ended before the following record showed him to be a freeman in a land in which he rejoiced to find

A Church without a bishop
And a State without a king.

The record is found on page 71 of Gov. Winthrop's Journal, under date of Sept. 18, 1634:

"The Griffin and another ship now arriving with about 200 passengers. Mr. Lathrop and Mr. Sims, two godly ministers coming in the same ship."

The next page of the journal has this item, which shows how tender the conscience of Mr. Lothropp was on a question of Christian propriety.

"Mr. Lathrop had been pastor of a private congregation in London, and for the same, kept long time in prison, upon refusal of the oath, ex-officio, being in Boston upon a sacrament day, after the sermon, desired leave of the congregation to be present at the administration, but said that he durst not desire to partake in it, because he was not then in order, being dismissed from his former congregation, and he thought it not fit to be suddenly admitted into any other, for example sake, and because of the deceitfulness of man's heart."

On reaching Boston with that portion of his London flock who had accompanied him, he found already the preparations begun to welcome him to a new home in Scituate. At least nine pioneers had built their houses in that new settlement, and to it, with such of his people as were ready to accompany him, he repaired Sept. 27, 1634. Sometime near the end of September he makes an entry in the private journal to preserve the names of those pioneers who had so prepared the way before him. Their names, Hatherly, Cudworth, Gillson, Anniball, Rowlyes, Turner, Cobbes, Hewes, and Foster, show them to have been mainly London and Kent men; and would suggest that they had known of Mr. Lothropp's previous career and had called him to come among them as their minister. A letter, written in December by one of them, James Cudworth, to the Rev. Dr. John Stoughton, of St. Mary's Church, Aldermanbury, London, confirms this supposition. In referring to the unsettled plantations near Boston, of which he names three, Duxbury, Scituate, and Bear Cove, he then speaks of the second:

"Oures, Cittewate, to whom the Lord has bine verey gracious, & his p'vidence has bine Admoralely sene oure beyenge to bringe vs oure Pastor, whome wee so longe expected—M^r Lathorpe, who the Lord has brought to vs in safety, whome wee finde to bee a holy, Reuerat & heuenly minded man."

This shows that in some sort the new home and field of ministerial labor had been already prepared for Mr. Lothroppe at Scituate. Of his cordial welcome to it, we have this pleasant testimony from the pen of Mr. Otis.

"The kindly reception which was extended to him, and the cordial welcomes with which he was greeted, were most gratifying to his feelings, and he resolved that Scituate should be his future home—the fold into which he would gather together the estrays of his scattered flocks. His grateful heart believed that the hand of God had opened this door for him,—had at last given him a resting-place from his toils. Here, protected by law, he could build up church institutions, and here he and his family could dwell together in peace, surrounded by the loving friends of his youth. Willing hands quickly built a house for his family, of "meane" proportions, and of "meaner" architecture, yet it was a shelter from the storm—a place that he could call his own—a blessing from 'Him who had not where to lay His head.'"

Of the house which is thus characterized as of "meane proportions," Mr. Otis gives this description:

"The walls were made of poles filled between with stones and clay, the roof thatched, the chimney to the mantel of rough stone, and above of cob-work, the windows of oiled paper, and the floors of hand-sawed planks."

The following record, preserved for us in the handwriting of the Scituate pioneer, is perhaps the only record extant regarding his call and settlement in the ministry at Scituate:

"Jann: 19, 1634, att my house, uppon w^ch day I was chosen Pastour and invested into office."

Whatever the service of investiture may have been, there can hardly be room for doubt that it was as simple and unpretending as the times and the people calling for it compelled. Previously to this date the services had been held in Mr. James Cudworth's house; and afterwards, for some time, we find the congregation worshiping in private dwellings.

But of the beginning of his work in Scituate we have fortunately a record preserved in the copy made by the Rev. Dr. Stiles, President of Yale College in 1769, from the original in the handwriting of Mr. Lothropp himself. The following extract from this copy, which was printed in the Historical and Genealogical Register for July, 1855, is worthy of preservation in this sketch:

"Touching the congregation (& church) of Christ collected att Scituate. The 28 of September, 1634, being the Lord's day, I came to Scituate the night before & on the Lord's day spent my first Labours, Forenoon & Afternoon.

"Upon the 23 of Novemb. 1634 o^r Breathren of Situate that were members at Plimouth were dismissed from their membershipp, in case they joyned in a body att Situate.

"Upon January 8, 1634 (O. S.) Wee had a day of humilation & and then att night joyned in covenaunt togeather. So many of us as had beene in Covenaunt before."

Then follow the names of eight brethren and the wives of four of them, and the eleventh, "myselfe," shows that this pioneer minister at Scituate counted himself as one of the infant church, which he was called to serve.

That Mr. Lathrop was still a widower at this date is probable from the manner in which his own record is made. But that he soon married again is shown by the records of his church, made by himself in 1635. Record No. 25 gives us this knowledge: "My wife and Brother Foxwell's wife joyned having their dismission from elsewhere, June 14, 1635." Who this second wife was we shall not probably be able to learn, save that her Christian name was Anna. That she was the mother of all of his children born in this country is doubtless true. Mr. Otis supposes her to have been the daughter of William Hammond of Watertown, and says that she was a widow. He also gives the date of her marriage Feb. 17, 1687-8, which, as Mr. Lathrop had been dead over thirty years, could not have been. He also says that she died Feb. 25, 1687-8, which is possible.

The settlement at Scituate was increased by a large addition in the summer of 1635, mainly by a new immigration from Kent. The worship of the people had thus far been held in the house of Mr. Cudworth. On Monday, Jan. 29, 1635, a meeting was held in Mr. Lothropp's house, a meeting for humiliation and prayer. In that private dwelling, by the votes of the brethren assembled, Mr. Lothropp was formally chosen the minister of the place, and by the laying on of their hands he was, as he fully believed, in true Apostolic manner once more inducted into the pastoral office.

Down to Nov. 11, 1638, Mr. Lothropp had entered on this record sixty-two names, and among them from his own family circle the following:

No. 36 and 37. Isaac Robinson & My Sonn Fuller joyned having their Letters dismissive from the church at Plimouth unto us Novemb. 7, 1636.

No. 51. My Sonn Thomas Lothropp joyned May 4, 1637.

No. 60 & 61. My Brother Robert Linnell & his wife having a letter of dismission from the church in London joyned to us, Septemb. 16, 1638.

The records made by Mr. Lothropp, from which we have now copied, are a good witness to us of what we shall have occasion to note hereafter, his unusually methodical and efficient business habits. They have been deemed of such importance as to have been copied not less than five times, at least all of them which survived the wear of that first century of change. Taken to Connecticut by the Rev. Elijah Lothrop of Gilead, No. 295, and falling into the hands of the Rev. Dr. Ezra Stiles of Yale College, in 1769, he made a copy of them, which are now among his manuscript papers in Yale Library. The Rev. Mr. Carleton, of Barnstable, copied Dr. Stiles's copy, and from this copy, collated with another, made by the Rev. Jonathan Russell, Mr. Otis prepared the copy of the "Scituate and Barnstable Church Records," which was printed in Vols. IX and X of the New England Historical and Genealogical Register.

On his consenting to settle in Scituate, the court granted him a farm, which their committee laid out, according to Mr. Deane, on the southeast side of Coleman's hill. It was "nigh the first Herring brook when it approaches nearest to the Sand hills; bounded by Josiah Chickett's land west, by John Hewes' land & the high way south, & by Humphrey Turner's east." He was also assigned shares in the New Harbor Marshes between his house and the North river.

Though welcomed to this field by some who must have known him in England, and who probably had been his parishioners there, we learn from Mr. Deane that his ministry in Scituate "was not prosecuted with great success or in much peace." The principal reason assigned for his early removal to Barnstable has been the difference between himself and some of his people on the question of baptism. While this or some other cause of alienation in the church is most apparent in the records which he left, another ground of dissatisfaction at Scituate, is the only one formally named in the letters which follow, and which are here introduced for the two-fold purpose of explaining the removal which so soon followed the settlement, and also to preserve the only authentic document from his pen—excepting the church records—now known to the author to exist. That copies of his "Queries respecting Baptism" were printed in London, a few years after his removal to Barnstable, we know from "Hamburg's Independents," in which he refers to them. Yet probably no copy of the issue can now be recovered; certainly none is indexed among the Lothrop collections in the British Museum, and no antiquary of whom I enquired in England had ever seen it.

The letters which now follow were found among Mr. Winslow's papers, and were published in the first volume, second series of the Massachusetts Historical Collections:

"Situate, February 18, 1638.

"To the right worthy and much-reverenced, Mr. Prince, governor—Grace, mercy and peace be forever multiplied.

"Sundry circumstances of importance concurring towards the present state of myself and the people in covenant with me, presse me yett againe to sett pen to paper, to the end that the busyness in hand might with greater expedition be pressed forward, if it may be: not willing to leave any lawful means unattempted, that we are able to judge, to be the means of God, that soe we might have the more comfort to rest in the issue that God himselfe shall give in the use of his own means. Yett I would be loth to be too much pressing herein, least the more haste on our part should occasion the less speed, or overspurring, when by reason of abundance of freeness, there needs none at all, I should dishearten, and so procure some unwillingness. But considering your godly wisdome in discerning our condition and presuming of your love unfeigned to us-ward, which cannot but effect a readiness on your part, in passing by and covering of our infirmitye, I am much emboldened, with all due reverence and respect, both to your place and person, to re-salute you.

"The truth is, many greviances attend mee, from the which I would be freed, or att least have them mitigated, if the Lord see it good. Yett would I raither with patience leave them, than to grieve or sadd any heart, whose heart ought not to be grieved by me, much lesse yours; whom I honour and regard with my soule, as I do that worthy instrument of God's honour, together with yourselfe, Mr. Bradford, because I am confident you make the advanceing of God's honour your chiefest honour. And the raither I would not bee any meanes to grieve you, inasmuch as I conceive you want not meanes otherwise of grief enough. But that I be not too tedious, and consequently too grievous. The principal occasion of my present writing is this: Your worthy selfe, together with the rest joyned and assisting in government with you, much reverenced and esteemed of us, having gratiously and freely uppon our earnest and humble suites, granted and conferred a place for the transplanting of us, to the end God might have the more glorye and wee more comfort: both which wee have solidd grounds to induce us to believe, will be effected: For the which free and most loveing grant, we both are and ever remain to bee, by the grace of the highest, abundantly thankeful. Now here lyes the stone that some of the breathren here stumble att; which happely is but imaginarye, and not reall, and then there will be no need of removeall. And that is this, some of them have certaine jelousies and fears, that there is some privie undermineing and secrett plotting by some there, with some here, to hinder the seasonable successe of the work in hand, to witt of our removeall, by procuring a procrastination, in some kinde of project, to have the tyme deferred, that the conveniencye of the tyme of removeing beeing wore out before we can have free and cleare passage to remove, that soe wee might not remove att all. But what some one particular happely with you, with some amongst us here, may attempt in this kinde for private and personal ends, I neither know, nor care, nor fear, forasmuch as I am fully perswaded that your endeared selfe, and Mr. Bradford, with the rest in general, to whom power in this behalfe belongeth, are sincerelye and firmelye for us, to expeditt and compleate the busyness as soon as may be, so that our travells and paines, our costs and charge, shall not be lost and in vaine herein, nor our hopes frustrated. Now the trueth is, I have been the more willing to endite and present these few lines, partly to wipe away any rumour that might bee any wayes raised upp of distrustfullness on our partes, especially, to clear my own innocencye of having any suspition herein; as alsoe to signifye since the place hath been granted and confirmed unto us; some of the breathren have sold their houses and lands here, and have put themselves out of all. And others have put out their improved grounds to the half increase thereof, upon their undoubted expectation forthwith as it were to begin to build and plant in the new plantation. Wherein if they should be disappointed, it would be a means to cast them into some great extremitye.

Wherefore lett me intreate and beseech you in the bowells of the Lord, without any offence, both in this respect, as also for other reasons of greater importance, which I will forbear to specifye: To do this further great curtescy for us, to make composition with the Indians for the place, and priviledges thereof in our behalfe, with that speed you cann; and wee will freely give satisfaction to them, and strive to bee the more enlarged in thankefulnesse to you. I verily thinke wee shall never have any rest in our spiritts, to rest or stay here; and I suppose you thinke little * * otherwise, and am therefore the more confident that you will not neglect any opportunitye, that might make for our expedition herein. I and some of the breathren have intreated our brother John Coake, who is with you, and of you, a member of your congregation, to bee the best furtherance in such occasions, as either doe or may concerne us, as possibly hee may or cann, who hath alsoe promised unto us his best service herein. Thus wishing and praying for your greatest prosperitye every wayes, I humbly take my leave.

"Remaining to be at your command and service in the Lord.

"JOHN LOTHROPP.

SECOND LETTER.

"To the right worthy and much-honoured Mr. Prince, our endearoured governor of Plymouth,—Grace, mercy, and peace be multiplyed.

'My dear and pretious,

"Esteemed with the highest esteeme and respect, above every other particular in these territoryes; being now in the roome of God, and by him that is the God of gods, deputed as a god on earth unto us, in respect of princely function and calling. Unto whom wee ingeniously confesse all condigne and humble service from us to bee most due. And if we knowe our hearts, you have our hearts, and our best wishes for you. As Peter said in another case, doe wee in this particular say, it is good for us to be heere: (wee mean under this septer and government) under which wee can bee best content to live and dye. And if it bee possible we would have nothing for to separate us from you, unless it be death. Our souls (I speak in regard of many of us) are firmely lincked unto your worthy self, and unto many, the Lord's worthyes with you. Wee shall ever account your advancement ours. And I hope through grace, both by prayer and practice, wee shall endeavour to our best abilitye, to advance both the throne of our civill dignitye, and the kingly throne of Christ, in the severall administrations thereof in the midst of you. Hereunto (the truth is) we can have no primer obligation, than the straite and stronge tyes of the gospell. If we had no more, this would alwayes bee enough to binde us close in discharge of all willing and faithful duetye both unto you and likewise unto all the Lord's annointed ones with you. But seeing over and above, out of your gratious dispositions (through the grace and mercy of the Highest) you are pleased to sett your faces of favour more towards us, (though a poor and contemptable people) than towards any other particular people whatsoever, that is a people distinct from yourselves. As wee have had good and cleare experience hereof before, and that from tyme to tyme; soe wee now againe in the renewed commiseration towards us, as most affectionate nurseing fathers, being exceeding willing and readye to gratifye us, even to our best content, in the point of removall: Wee being incapacitated thereunto, and that in divers weighty considerations, some, if not all of which, are well known bothe to yourselfe, and to others with you. Now your love being to us transcendent, passing the love you have shewn to any without you, wee can soe much the more, as indebted unto our good God in praises, soe unto yourselves in services. We will ever sett downe in humble thankfullness in the perpetual memory of your exceeding kindnesse. Now we stand stedfast in our resolution to remove our tents and pitch elsewhere, if wee cann see Jehovah going before us. And in very deed, in our removeing, wee would have our principal ende, God's own glorye, our Sion's better peace and prosperitye, and the sweet and happie regiment of the Prince of our salvation more jointly imbraced, and more fully exalted. And if externall comfortable conveniences as an overplus, shall bee cast in, according to the free promise of the Lord, wee trust then, as wee shall receive more compleate comfort from him, soe he shall receive more compleate honour by us: for which purpose we humbly crave, as the fervencye of your devotions, soe the constancye of your wonted christian endeavours. And being fully perswaded of your best assistance herein, as well in the one as in the other, wee will labour to wait at the throne of grace, expecting that issue that the Lord shall deeme best.

"In the intrim, with abundance of humble and unfeigned thankes on every hand on our parts remembered, wee take our leave, remaining, obliged forever unto you, in all duety and service.

"JOHN LOTHROPP.

"From Scituate, the 28 of this 7th month, [September] 1638."

N. B. Three names are subscribed beneath the name of Mr. Lothropp, which are not perfectly legible: the first appears to be Anthony Aniball; the second, ——— Cobb; the third, ——— Robinson; to which are added the words, "In behalf of the church." [Superscribed thus:]

"To the right worthy and much-reverenced Mr. Prince, Governor at Plimouth."

Leaving the foregoing letters to explain as they may the reasons for a removal, we find the following statement of Mr. Otis as to its date: "Mr. Lothropp and the large company arrived in Barnstable, Oct. 11, 1639, O. S., bringing with them the crops which they had raised in Scituate. Pressed as they must have been with the preparations needed for wintering comfortably in their new home, they did not forget that the main object of their pilgrimage from the mother land, was the service and glory of God. With no house of worship yet built, they meet and worship in the rude pioneer house of one of their number," poor Mr. Hull. Ten days after their arrival they gave a whole day to fasting, humiliation, and prayer, whose object was "For the grace of God to settle us here in church estate and to unite us together in holy walking, and make us faithful in keeping covenant with God and one another."

Eleven days later, on the eleventh of December, they set apart another day for religious worship, this time for the worship of thanksgiving. "The day was very cold, and after the close of the public service they divided into three companies to feast together, some at Mr. Hull's, some at Mr. Mayo's, and some at brother Lumberd, Senior's."

What sort of thanksgiving service they had under the lead of Mr. Lothropp, appears from the records of the Scituate church, in reporting the first Thanksgiving in the new town, Dec. 22, 1636, the record covering not only the religious offering of the public service, but also the festive and social offerings in their several homes, afterward. It is here quoted as setting before us, clearly, a practical estimate of the pioneer minister and his people:

"Beginning some half an hour before nine, and continued until after twelve o'clocke, ye day being very cold, beginning with a short prayer, then a psalm sung, then more large in prayer, after that another psalm, and the WORD taught, after that prayer, and then a psalm. Then making merry to the creatures, the poorer sort being invited by the virtue."

On coming to Barnstable, he built, according to Mr. Otis, a small house where Eldridge's hotel now stands. Mr. Palfrey tells us that "Four acres for a house lot had been assigned to Mr. Lothrop, soon after his arrival, on the east side that inclosure which probably had been used for interments from the first settlement." But the first home of the new pastor was both too small and uncomfortable. His second was a more substantial building, and made ready for occupancy about 1644. That it was built of solid and enduring material is well attested in the simple fact that its frame still stands. Mr. Otis thus testifies concerning it: "The house has undergone many transformations, but the original remains. It is now one of the prettiest buildings in the village, and is occupied for a parsonage and a public library."

It was with no ordinary emotions that I called to see that house in which the last years of the worthy pioneer of a large proportion of our Lothrop and Lathrop race in this country had closed his mortal life. Though more than 229 years have passed away since its frame was built, here is still somewhat left us, as a hint at least of the work and worth of the day of Puritan beginnings here. Its foundation builders were no mere fancy men, were in no sense fast men—they were content by humble, hard toil to work God's best materials into most enduring forms, on which the coming generations could build in all time to come the worthiest monuments of these stout-hearted, truth-loving pioneers.

Mr. Otis, who has written more upon the American life of our pioneer than any other writer, and who being on the ground where he spent the last years of his ministerial life and thoroughly familiar with all the records of the church and town, and perhaps had facilities for forming an estimate of his character and influence which no other man has used to the same extent, has at several points in his weekly articles on "John Lothropp and his descendants," given glimpses of the man which we can do no better than to preserve.

In No. 230 of his articles, he says: "John Lothrop and his followers were held by the people to be martyrs in the cause of Independency. No persecutions, no severity that their enemies could inflict, caused him, or one of his followers to waver. They submitted without a murmur to loss of property, to imprisonment in loathsome jails, and to be separated for two years from their families and friends, rather than subscribe to the forms of worship that Charles and his bigoted prelates endeavored to force on their consciences."

In No. 245, he says of him and his sons: "Mr. Lothrop was as distinguished for his worldly wisdom as for his piety. He was a good business man, and so were all of his sons. Wherever one of the family pitched his tent, that spot soon became a center of business, and land in its vicinity appreciated in value. It is the men that make a place, and to Mr. Lothrop's in early times, Barnstable was more indebted than to any other family."

From No. 231, we take the following: "Whatever exceptions we may take to Mr. Lothrop's theological opinions, all must admit that he was a good and true man, an independent thinker, and a man who held opinions in advance of his times. Even in Massachusetts, a half century has not elapsed since his opinions on religious toleration have been adopted by the legislature."

Mr. Lothrop fearlessly proclaimed in Old and in New England the great truth that man is not responsible to his fellow man in matters of faith and conscience. Differences of opinion he tolerated. During the fourteen years that he was pastor of the Barnstable church, such was his influence over the people that the power of the civil magistrate was not needed to restrain crime. No pastor was ever more beloved by his people, none ever had a greater influence for good, * * * * To become a member of his church, no applicant was compelled to sign a creed or confession of faith. He retained his freedom. He professed his faith in God, and promised that it should be his constant endeavor to keep His commandments, to live a pure life, and to walk in love with the brethren."

Mr. Morton, who "thought meet in his Memorial to nominate some of the Specialest" of the worthy ministers whom God had sent into New England, names as the fourth on his list "Mr. John Laythorp, sometimes preacher of Gods word in Egerton," and elsewhere in the Memorial he testifies to his former fidelity in London, in witnessing against the errors of the times. Still again he says of him: "He was a man of humble and broken heart spirit, lively in dispensation of the Word of God, studious of peace, furnished with godly contentment, willing to spend and be spent for the cause of the church of Christ."

Mr. Lothropp died in Barnstable, Nov. 8, 1653, the last entry on his church records in his own hand having been made June 15, 1653.

A will was made by him which he failed of signing, though it was, without objection, admitted to probate. Letters of administration were however granted March 7, 1653–4 to "Mrs. Laythorpe," and Mr. Thomas Prence was "appointed and requested by the court to take oath unto the estate at home." The following is a memoranda of the will as left by Mr. Lothropp:

"To my wife my new dwelling house. To my oldest son Thomas, the house in which I first lived in Barnstable. To my son John in England, and Benja min here, each a cow and £5. Daughter Jane and Barbara have had their portions already. To the rest of the children, both mine and my wife's, each a cow. To each child one book, to be chosen according to their ages. The rest of my library to be sold to any honest man who can tell how to use it, and the proceeds to be divided," etc.

The inventory estimates the rest of the Library to be worth £5.

SECOND GENERATION.

SECOND GENERATION.

REV. JOHN. Barnstable, Mass.

2. JANE, born in England and baptized in her father's church in Egerton, County of Kent, Sept. 29, 1614. She came with her father to America in 1634, and was married in Scituate, April 8, 1635, "yᵉ 4th day of the weeke," by Capt. Miles Standish, of Plymouth, to Samuel Fuller. This marriage was solemnized at the house of Mr. James Cudworth. Mr. Fuller was a son of Edward Fuller and his wife Ann, who had come over in the Mayflower with his parents, and who, as Savage informs us, "outlived the hardships" of that immigration. Both the father and mother died the first winter, and Samuel was left in the care of his uncle Samuel, who had also come over in the Mayflower, and who proved to be one of the most valuable members of that primitive community, and memorable as the first physician who came to New England to settle. He died Oct. 31, 1683, one of the last survivors of the Mayflower. They had nine children:

Hannah Fuller, who married, Jan. 1, 1658, Nicholas Bonham.

Samuel Fuller, "sonn of my sonn Samuel Fuller," baptized Feb. 11, 1637–8, and married Anna, daughter of Capt. Matthew Fuller.

Elizabeth Fuller, married ——— Taylor.

Sarah Fuller, born in Scituate and baptized in Barnstable, Aug. 1, 1641, and died young.

Mary Fuller, born in Barnstable, and baptized June 16, 1644, and married Nov. 18, 1674, Joseph Williams, son of John of Haverhill, who was born April 18, 1647.

Thomas Fuller, born May 18, 1650.

Sarah Fuller, born Dec. 14, 1654, and married —— Crow.

John Fuller.

A child, born Feb. 8, 1658, and died 15 days later, as Savage has it, "one of the latest Mayflowers."

3. ANNE, baptized in Egerton, England, May 12, 1616, and buried April 30, 1617.

4. JOHN, baptized in Egerton, England, Feb. 22, 1617–18. This child probably died before the family came to America; certainly before the birth of the second John in 1644–5.

5. BARBARA, baptized in Egerton, England, Oct. 31, 1619, and married, July 19, 1638, John Emerson. Her father's record of this marriage is: "My sonn Emmersonn & and my daughter Barbarah marryed at Duxberry by Captain Standige."

That they settled at least for a time in Scituate is shown in this record in Mr. Lothropp's own hand: "One Linkes slaine by a bow of a tree in yᵉ cutting down of the tree, March 6, and buryed in the way by John Emmersonn's house near Goodman Stockbridge, March 10, 1637."

Mr. Savage supposes this John Emerson may have been of Ipswich, Massachusetts, and that John, who came over in the ship Abigail, 1635. He is entered on the ship list as a baker, age 20, and as Mr. Coffin supposed, the son also of a John Emerson.

6. THOMAS, born in England, and probably in Egerton, about 1621, as we infer from his own deposition, taken April 4, 1701, in which he states that he is "about 80 years of age." The will of his father designates him as his eldest son, which is proof that the John who was baptized in 1617-18 was not living. The probability is that his birth succeeded the withdrawal of his father from the curacy of the parish church in Egerton, Kent, where the older children were recorded. At least this is certain, that the baptism of his older sister is the last baptism at Egerton found on the copy of the baptisms which the father made.

At the age of about thirteen he came with his father to Scituate, at which place we find this first record regarding him in this country: "My sonn Thomas Lothropp joined May 4, 1637."

This was his admission to the church in Scituate, from which he removed with his father to Barnstable, in 1639, where he soon gained distinction among the pioneers of the new town.

The second record we find is in Barnstable, as follows: "My sonn Thomas and brother Larnett's daughter, widow Ewer, were married in the Bay (Boston) Dec. 11, 1639." The "daughter" above referred to, was Sarah, daughter of William Larned, and widow of Thomas Ewer.

Elizabeth, a daughter of this Sarah Ewer by her former husband, was baptized April 9, 1641, and was married, as we learn from a third record from the same hand as the above, to Thomas Blossom, June 18, 1645, "at my sonn Thomas his house," the Thomas Blossom above having been born in Leyden about 1620.

In 1641 Thomas Lothrop is reported as land surveyor at Barnstable, and in 1643 as one liable to bear arms.

He became quite a large landholder and an enterprising business man. He was enrolled as freeman June 3, 1656. He served the town in several offices, indicating his standing as in honor among his fellow townsmen. His death took place in 1707.

7. SAMUEL, born in England, and came with his father to Scituate in 1634, thence to Barnstable, where he married, Nov. 28, 1644, Elizabeth Scudder, who had been dismissed from the church in Boston Nov. 10, 1644, to remove her church relation to that in Barnstable. She is reported in Savage as a sister to that John Scudder who was in Barnstable in 1640. He had made the acquaintance of Miss Scudder in Boston, where he commenced his business life as house builder, afterwards combining with this extensive farming operations. Their marriage was recorded by his father on the Barnstable Church Register as follows: "My sonn Samuel & Elizabeth Scudder marryed at my house by Mr. Freeman, Nov. 28, 1644."

They settled in Barnstable, where his house stood next that of John Scudder.

He is reported, in 1643, as one of the five Lothrops at Barnstable liable to bear arms.

In 1648 he removed to New London, Connecticut, then called Pequot. We now find Mr. Lothrop mentioned in two letters from Governor Winthrop to his son John, Jr., at Pequot. In one of these, bearing date Aug. 14, 1648, on the subject of obtaining a minister for the settlement, he writes: "Your neighbour Lothrop came not at me (as I expected) to advise about it," etc.

His house lot in the new plantation was the third in order from that of John Winthrop, Jr., Esq., and his name is one of the first eighteen to whom were assigned lands on the east side of the "great river" of Pequot, and for these the lots were drawn on the 17th and 31st of January, 1648-9.

Almost at once Mr. Lothrop is assigned by his new townsmen to places of responsibility and honor. The General Court of the State, in May, 1649, organized a local court at Pequot, having for its judges John Winthrop, Esq., Samuel Lothrop, and Thomas Minor, giving them power to sit in the trial of all causes between the inhabitants in which the differences were under forty shillings.

In 1650 he appears with fifteen other townsmen in town meeting "to arrange a system of co-operation with Mr. Winthrop in establishing a mill to grind corn."

He received a large grant of land, also, on the west side of the Pequot river north of the settlement. It was about five miles up the river at a place called Namussuck. A farm of 260 acres at this place remained in the family until 1735, when it was sold by his grandson Nathaniel, after settling all claims, for 2,800 pounds.

His "cattle marks" were recorded before 1650. When, in 1657, Uncas, routed by the Narragansetts, had been chased into the fort at the head of the Nahantick and was there beseiged, Lieut. James Avery, Mr. Brewster, Samuel Lothrop and others, well armed, succeeded in throwing themselves into the fort and aided in the defence.

He sold his town homestead in 1661 to the Rev. Gershom Bulkley. This house stood beyond the bridge over the mill brook, on east side of highway toward Mohegan, "probably where now (1852) stands the Hallam House."

In 1679 is recorded a contract of Mr. Lothrop for building the Second Church in New London.

He removed to Norwich in 1668. Miss Caulkins in history of Norwich says, "after the first thirty-eight proprietors the next inhabitants who came in as grantees of the town are John Elderkin and Samuel Lothrop." A house lot was first granted to John Elderkin, who, finding it too far from his business, had it conveyed to Samuel Lothrop.

Mr. Lothrop appears to have erected a house on the town street before 1670, which from that time became his home. The house built by Dr. Daniel Lathrop, his great-grandson, about 1745, probably stands upon the same site—now Mrs. Gilman's.

The house lot of about seven acres on which he settled, covered mainly that hill side enclosed by the streets and lanes, as now, which lies south of the present residence of Daniel W. Coit, Esq., and extending down to the present

Main street. He added during his life time successive tracts of land amounting to about four hundred acres.

The town records of that time are very imperfect, but we find Samuel Lothrop recorded as "Constable" in 1673 and 1682, and as "Townsman" in 1685—dignified local offices in those days.

After the death of his first wife, of which no record is preserved, he married in 1690, in Plymouth, Mass., a maiden lady, Abigail, the daughter of Deacon John Doane of Plymouth. She was born January 29, 1632, and lived until 1734, Mr. Lothrop having died February 29, 1700. The following notice of the second Mrs. Lothrop is found in Miss Caulkins' history of Norwich: "On her hundreth birthday a large audience assembled at her house, and a sermon was preached by the pastor of the church. At this time she retained in a great degree the intelligence and vivacity of her earlier years. At the time of her decease the descendants of her husband amounted to 365."

Mr. Lathrop left a nuncupative will, proved in 1701.

8. Joseph, born in England, probably in Lambeth, London, in 1624. He probably also came over to America with his father in 1634. The first record known to the author regarding him in this country is that of his marriage—the last Lothropp marriage recorded by his father in the registers of the Barnstable church:

"Joseph Lothropp and Mary Ansell marryed alsoe by him (Brother Thomas Hinckley) Dec. 11, 1650." He settled and lived in Barnstable, where his name on the local records show him to have been an enterprising and honored man. He was a deputy for the town in the general court of the State for fifteen years, and for twenty-one years served as one of the selectmen of the town. On the organization of the county he was appointed the register of the probate court, and recorded in 1666 the first deed put on record in the county. The court had appointed him in 1653 to keep the ordinary of the town. He was admitted freeman, June 8, 1655. In 1664 we find him an acting constable, and in 1667 a receiver of excise. That he was also in the military line is shown in the titles of lieutenant and captain which successively mark his name.

Mr. Freeman, in his history of Cape Cod County, speaks of him as a "conspicuous member of the Council of War in 1676." He also reports Lieut. Joseph Laythorpe and his brother Barnabas Laythorpe as commissioned to hold select courts in Barnstable in 1679; and names both of these brothers among the agents for the settlement of Sippecan.

His standing is still further shown in a letter from Capt. William Basset written from Casco, in September, 1689, to Gov. Thomas Hinckley, reporting his skirmishes with the Eastern Indians. At the close of this report the captain presents his own and his lieutenants service to the Governor, Esq. Lothrop, and Mr. Russill. We know enough of that day to be assured that none but a prominent and public man would be thus complimented.

Mr. Lothrop probably had no collegiate education, yet he must have been a well educated man—probably with a legal education. His will bears date Oct. 9, 1700, and was proved Apr. 9, 1702, between which dates his death, of which no record is preserved, must have occurred.

He names in his will as heirs, his four sons, Samuel, Barnabas, Hope, to whom he left the homestead, and Thomas; and his two daughters, Mary Denes and Elizabeth Fuller.

In the inventory of his estate are reported 27 volumes of law books, and 43 volumes of classics and sermon books, the inventory amounting to £8216. One other item of the inventory—"three negroes,"—shows that it belonged to an age past now beyond recall.

9. BENJAMIN, born in England, and brought over in 1634, to Boston. He married in Barnstable, Martha ——, and settled in Charlestown, Mass., where he was a man of note, holding the office of first selectman in 1683.

Goodwife Martha Lathrop was admitted to the church in Charlestown in the year 1660.

10. BARNABAS, "Bernabus, son of John Lothropp," as his father wrote it in the baptismal record, baptized at Scituate, Mass., June 6, 1636, and married (1) Dec. 1, 1658, Susanna Clark, daughter of Thomas and Susanna (Ring) Clarke of Plymouth, granddaughter of the Thomas Clarke who was the mate of the Mayflower. She died, as her headstone shows, Sept. 28, 1697, aet. 55. (2) Wid. Abigail Dodson, who died Dec. 21, 1715, aet. 72. The church records report that she was "dismissed from the 1st church in Boston, and removed here, Feb. 23, 1706–7." She died, so the church records show, in Boston, Dec. 21, 1715, at 72 years of age. He was also a noted man. He became the first judge of probate in Barnstable on the organization of the court, having his brother Joseph as clerk. Was Deputy from 1675 to 1682, Judge of Common Pleas 1692, and the same year appointed counsellor with Governor Hinckley, Governor Bradford, and John Walley, to represent New Plymouth at Boston, under the new charter. Died Oct. 26, 1715. On his headstone his title is Esq. The inscriptions on these three stones in the old burying lot near the county jail in Barnstable are as distinct as when first cut. In his will, dated June 8, 1713, and probated Nov. 27, 1715, he names the following legatees, with the relationship indicated: his wife Abigail; his only son Barnabus; his grandson Barnabus, the "only son of my son John, deceased"; grandson John, son of "my son Nathaniel, deceased"; his brother John and two sisters, Abigail Clark and Bathshewa Marsh; his daughter-in-law, Elizabeth Crocker; his grandson, Joseph Lewis, son of Ebenezer Lewis; and "my seven children now remaining; my kinswoman Bethya Hinckley, now dwelling with me, my six daughters, Abigail Sturgis, Susanna Shurtlef, Bathshewa Freeman, Anna Lewis, Sarah Skeffe, and Thankful Hedge; and Bethya Claghorn "who is my daughter-in-law."

11. "A child born in Scituate, July 30, 1638, and died the same day."

12. ABIGAIL, baptized in Barnstable, Nov. 2, 1639, O. S., "the first record since our coming to Barnstable, Oct. 11, 1539." She married Oct. 7, 1657, James, son of Thomas Clark and Susanna, daughter of widow Susanna Ring. They settled in Plymouth, to which place the father had come in the ship Ann, in 1623.

13. BATHSHA, as spelled in the records made by her father, baptized in Barnstable, Feb. 27, 1641, and married Alexander Marsh. She was probably his second wife. They lived in Braintree, Mass., where his will was made Mar. 19, 1697, and he died March 7, 1698. His will calls his wife Bathsheba, whose death, Jan. 8, 1723, age, 82, is certified by her gravestone in the Dorchester burying lot. Their children were:

John Marsh, a minor at the date of his father's will, 1697.

Rachel Marsh.

Phebe Marsh.

Ann Marsh, who became the wife of Samuel French, of Braintree, Mass., and had a family of 8 children: Samuel, born Nov. 17, 1680; Samuel the second, Hannah, Mary, Alexander, Josiah, Nathaniel, and Benjamin.

His widow's will, whose former husband is said to have been John Fuller, bears date Oct. 7, 1738, and is recorded in Book V, p. 362. It was proved Oct. 19, 1738, and names as legatees: son Benjamin; the heirs of son John Fuller, deceased; grandson John Lothrop; daughter Reliance Prince; daughter Bashua Webb, and daughter Phebe Thacher. Executor, son-in-law, Elisha Thacher.

Hannah was the second wife of Dr. John, son of Matthew Fuller, and by him had a daughter Bethia, Dec., 1687; John, born Oct., 1689, and Reliance Sept. 8, 1691. These names will make the names in the will intelligible.

14. JOHN, born in Barnstable, Mass., Feb. 9, 1644, and married Jan. 3, 1671–2, at Plymouth, Mass., Mary, probably daughter of James and Mary (Tilson) Cobb of Scituate, where she was born Dec. 3, 1653. His name on the marriage record is Laythrope, and she is called Mary Colsgain. He married (2) Dec. 9, 1695, Hannah, widow of Dr. John Fuller. He died Sept. (18) 27, 1727, at 11 o'clock A. M., and is recorded as 85 years old, on the Barnstable church records.

On Mr. Otis' authority we know that he was a man of note among the seafaring men of the coast in that early day, sailing as captain in command of his own vessel. On the New Haven, Conn., records is found this evidence of his seamanship.

"These certify I received on board of yᵉ Swan, John Lothrop, Mr., 8 bbls. pork, 48 bush. wheat of Sam'l Hemingway of New Haven, for use of Capt. Elisha Hutchinson of Boston, and doe promis to deliver yᵉ same on paying freight 3*s*. d. per bbl. and 6*d*. bush. Apr. 1, 1691. Jo. LOTHROP."

His will, Book IV, p. 407, dated Mar. 9, 1726–7, and probated Feb. 9, 1727–8, names as his legatees his wife Hannah; son John's son Joseph; the children of his daughter Mary Howland, and those of his daughter Elizabeth Lewis; and his sons, Barnabas and Benjamin. His son Barnabas and his wife Hannah are executors.

15. —— "a man childe of John Lothropp dying immediately after it was borne, buryed Jann. 25, 1649."

John Lothrop, 1672, at Swansey, was admitted an inhabitant of the second rank. If this is the person so admitted, he probably did not remain there long, since his children are all recorded in Barnstable.

THIRD GENERATION.

16. MARY, born Oct. 4, 1640, and married as his second wife, in Barnstable, Dec., 1656, John Stearns of Billerica, Mass. He died March 5, 1668–9, and she married May 6, 1669, Capt. William French of Billerica. Capt. French died Nov. 20, 1681, aged 78. She married for her third husband, in 1684, Isaac Mixer, Jr., of Watertown, and she was his third wife. She was living in 1735 "very aged." John Stearns was the eldest son and third child of Isaac and Mary Stearns of Watertown. This Isaac came to America with his wife and three children, as Bond supposes, in the same ship with Gov. Winthrop in 1630, and settled in Watertown where five more children were added to his family, and where he died in 1670. The children of Mary Lothrop, by her first husband, were: Isaac Stearns, born April 17, 1658, and died Oct. 9, 1659; Samuel Stearns, born Sept. 3, 1659; Isaac Stearns, born Dec. 21, 1661; Nathaniel Stearns, born Nov. 30, 1663; Thomas Stearns, born Dec. 6, 1665. Her children by her second husband were: Mary French, born April 30, 1670, who married Nathaniel Dunkler of Watertown and had three children, Hezekiah, Nathaniel, and Damaris; Sarah French, born Oct. 29, 1671, and married Joseph Crosby of Billerica, and had ten children; David, William, Thomas, Robert, Sarah, Rachel, Mary, Prudence, Deborah, and Hannah; Abigail French, born April 14, 1673, and died April 13, 1674; Hannah French, born 1676, and married John Child.

17. HANNAH, baptized in Barnstable, Oct. 18, 1642.

18. THOMAS, baptized July 7, 1644, and was living in 1697.

19. MELETIAH, baptized Nov. 22, 1646, married May 20, 1667, Sarah Farrar, daughter of Thomas and Elizabeth (Hood) Farrar of Lynn, Mass. He died Feb. 6, 1712, and his widow, May 23, 1712, aged 64 years. He and his sister Elizabeth were married at the same time by Commissioner Daniel Wetherell, and the record appears among the other records of the Commissioner's Court. The next year we find him called to Wallingford, as the following vote on record shows:

"Sept. 10, 1677. Vote to send for Jo. Lothrop to come and conclude arrangements for building the mill."

By some marvel of dispatch which we could hardly look for in those early days, within three days' time he had already entered on the work of building the mill. The only explanation of it seems to have been in the pressing necessities of the new town, which would not allow them to wait even for the usual settlement of the terms on which the mill should be built, as the following record will suggest:

"Sept. 18, 1667. Vote that if Jo. Lothrop go on with all speed and complete his mill which he hath begun—leaving all agreement to a convenient time—the town grants him his 80 acres."

That grant covered the site of the mill. To it were added two other grants, one of 44 acres "peculiar" to it, and one of 40 acres upland. The town also remits his tax for building the mill.

In 1681, the entire control of the mill was put into his hands. His heirs sold the property in 1704, but to this day the meadow is called the "Lotrop Lot." He died, as the Wallingford records show, Aug. 25, 1688, Æt. 44. Ruth, his widow, in Feb. 19, 1689-90, drew lot No. 4, in the distribution of that date. The inventory of his estate was presented to probate May 18, 169–, and is recorded in Book No. 2, of the New Haven probate records, and in it he is named "John Lothrop, late of Wallingford."

He filled acceptably every town office which he held, and represented the town in the General Court of the State. He died Sept. 7, 1743, and his widow Oct. 19, 1757. His will, dated Feb. 17, 1742, and witnessed by James Warner, John and Geo. Watson, and Edward Winslow, had his son Isaac as sole executor. Its bequests were to wife Elizabeth, of his personal estate, £500; son Melatiah, the John Holme's land; "yet if he contend in law that I owe him for his liveing with me," nothing; daughter Elizabeth Bartlett, £1,000, besides what he had already given her; son Isaac, the house I now live in; grandsons Isaac, Nathaniel, Thomas, and Caleb, when 21 years old; granddaughter Elizabeth Bartlett, when 18 years old. His inventory proved, in April, 1744, amounted to £1,741, 16*s.* 8*d.* The celebrated farm, "Playne Dealing," occupied by Governor Prince in 1666, was bought by him in 1711, and is still in possession of his descendants, and is now known as "Lothrop Farm."

81. JOSEPH, born Dec. 15, 1675, and married, Jan. 14, 1695, Abigail, the sixth child of Richard and Mehitable (Dimmock) Childs, born June 16, 1672. He always lived in Barnstable, and occupied the house in which his great grandfather had last lived and died. He was also a man of note.

His will, Book VIII, pp. 33 and 51, bears date Feb. 10, 1747, and was probated March 26, 1748. 21. JOHN. Wallingford, Conn.

86. SAMUEL, born, probably, in Norwich. His location in the family is indicated by the following testimony of his uncles, on record in Wallingford, in the year 1728:

"Israel Lothrop, æt. 69, & Joseph Lothrop, æt. 67, both of Norwich, sayeth that Samuel Lothrop, of Wallingford, was the first child & eldest son of our eldest brother, John Lothrop, and Ruth, his wife."

He married Ruth ———, who died June 8, 1738. That he succeeded his father as proprietor of the grist mill is abundantly shown in the town records. Under date of Yalesville, July 22, 1695, we have this record:

"If Samuel Lothrop grinds every man's corn well he may keep the mill two months longer, but he will be turned out on complaint of the committee forthwith."

The next year we find his name, among other petitioners to the town, in opposition to certain oppressive taxes with which they were threatened. In 1701 he is reported on the grand list at £36, which was considerably above the average of the list. The will of this Samuel is dated Feb. 26, 1744, and in it he is defined as "of Wallingford." Only two legatees are named—his wife, Lydia, to whom he gives one-half of his farm and house, and his "Sabbath-day house at town until my daughter Ruth come of age;" and Ruth, who is said to be "my only child." The inventory of the estate, as exhibited by the executors, Capt. Ezekiel Royce and Lieut. Joseph Royce, amounted to £1,504, 16*s*. 1*d*., and in it was a "great bible," 40 shillings.

87. RUTH, born, probably, in Norwich, as her birth is not recorded in Wallingford, and married, March 17, 1697-8, Samuel Post, son of John Post and Hester Hyde, of Norwich. He was born in Norwich, March 8, 1668, and died April 25, 1735, and she Aug. 10, 1750. Their children, all born in Norwich, were: Samuel Post, born Dec. 22, 1698, and married, Jan. 11, 1733, Sarah Griswold, of Guilford, by whom he had six children—Samuel, Samuel 2d, Sarah, Anne, Ruth, and Dorcas. John Post, born July 30, 1700, and died Aug. 26, 1718; Nathaniel Post, born Sept. 6, 1702, and married (1), Abigail Birchard, and (2), Experience Griswold. They removed from Norwich to Charlestown, Mass., and thence to Bennington, Vt.

88. ELIZABETH, born probably in Wallingford, Conn., certainly recorded there, April 15, 1678.

89. JOHN, born, and recorded in Wallingford, May 19, 1680, and married (1), Abiah ———, before 1710; married (2), in Norwich, Feb. 14, 1721, Lydia Palmeter. These two marriages have seemed to be justified, the husband having removed from Wallingford to Norwich about the time when the birth of his daughter Abiah was entered on the record in 1728. Reported on the grand list of Wallingford, in 1701, at £18. His will, dated at Norwich, Aug. 4, 1753, names as legatees, his wife Lydia, his sons Barnabas and John, and his daughter Bethia.

He and his brother Joseph had purchased, in 1695, a large tract of land in that part of Norwich which is now Lisbon. On which, after his marriage, he settled. He became one of the wealthiest and most honored citizens of Norwich. He was admitted inhabitant in due form in 1701, and died there Jan. 15, 1741-2. 94. ELIZABETH, born Nov. 1, 1679, and married, as his first wife, Nov. 5, 1701, John, born in March, 1670, second son of Thomas Waterman, the pioneer of this name in Norwich, and his wife Miriam, daughter of Lieut. Thomas Tracy. She died Oct. 5, 1708, and her husband married again, Sept. 27, 1709, Mrs. Judith Woodward, and again, April 16, 1721, Elizabeth Basset. Miss Caulkins says that by his first wife he had a family of six or seven sons and two daughters. The only children of this Elizabeth of which I have found any records, are: Elizabeth Waterman, born Oct. 5, 1702; a child, unnamed, born June 22, 1704; John Waterman, born June 8, 1706, and died April 23, 1730; Hannah Waterman, born Sept. 28, 1708, died Aug. 15, 1758.

He became a thriving man, having a good record as a Christian citizen. Letters of administration on his estate were taken out Oct. 22, 1774, by his brother Joshua and Joseph Coit. The inventory of his estate £4452, 9*s*. 10*d*. That of Mrs. Lothrop was £5852, 6*s*. 10*d*.

96. MARGARET, born Oct. 1, 1683, and died April 1, 1696.

97. SAMUEL, born Jan. 6, 1685, and married, July 24, 1715, Deborah Crow. Their names are both on the roll of the First Church in 1717. In the probate records he bears the title of Esquire. His will bears date Oct. 30, 1754, when he is said to be of "Newent," and the legatees are his wife, son Ezra, son Elisha, and daughter Deborah Avery. The same parties are mentioned in the distribution. He died Nov. 7, 1754.

98. SIMON, born May 3, 1689, and married, (1) Mary Lothrop, No. 105, daughter of Israel Lothrop and Rebecca Biiss. (2) March 24, 1714, Martha Lothrop, No. 106. Their names were both entered on the roll of the First Church of Norwich in 1721. Mr. Lothrop soon exhibited his large business talent, attaining early to the first rank among his townsmen. His name early appears as one of the pioneers in occupying and improving the locality which was soon to become the site of the City of Norwich. In 1721 a square of 20 feet is granted him, with two of the Huntingtons and Daniel Tracy, on the west side of Rocky Point, on which to lay the foundations of their business prosperity. In 1724 the town vote him liberty "to build a wharf at the Landing place at his own charge, provided it shall be free to all mortals." Ten years later the town give him the special right of building a warehouse on the hillside opposite his dwelling house, 30 feet by 40, to hold for his personal use during the town's pleasure. In addition to his prominence as an enterprising business man, he became still better known as a military officer. The history of Norwich, by Miss Caulkins, says of him: "Col. Simon Lothrop was a man of more than ordinary renown. He commanded one of the Connecticut regiments in the successful expeditions against Annapolis and Louisburg, and was valued for his judgment in council as well as for his gallant bearing in the field. At one period he was left for a considerable time in the chief command of the fortress at Cape Breton." He had entered the service as Lieut.-Col. commanding the Connecticut regiment for the above expedition, and received the commission of Colonel Oct. 29, 1745.

Mr. Lothrop was several times a representative from Norwich in the General Assembly of the State. He was often under appointments from the Assembly on important commissions, relating alike to the interests of business and religion. Of his home-life we have these touches in the history before quoted: "He was an upright man, zealous in religion, faithful in training up his family, and much respected and esteemed for his abilities and social virtues." Of both his military popularity and his business thrift we have preserved for us the following hearty tribute in the spirit of the times which produced it:

"Col. Lotrop he came on,
As bold as Alexander;
He wa'n't afraid, nor yet ashamed
To be the chief commander.

Col. Lotrop was the man,
His soldiers loved him dearly;
And with his sword and cannon great,
He helped them late and early.

Col. Lotrop, staunch and true,
Was never known to baulk it;
And when he was engaged in trade,
He always filled his pocket."

His will is dated April 2, 1772, and names as his legatees, wife Martha; son Elijah; son Rufus; daughter Martha Devotion of Windham; daughter Mary Bingham, to whom were given the land and buildings bought of Col. John Dyer in Canterbury; Eunice Huntington; Lucy Fitch; granddaughter Hannah Truman; grandson David Nevins; and granddaughter Eunice Carew, and her husband, Ebenezer Carew.

In the distribution of widow Martha Lathrop's estate, April 20, 1776, the legatees named are: Elijah and Rufus Lathrop; Eunice Huntington; Mary Bingham; Hannah Truman; and grandson Simon Fitch.

His death occurred Jan. 25, 1774, and that of his widow Oct. 16, 1775. Their remains lie interred side by side in the Norwich Town burying ground.

99. NATHANIEL, born July 15, 1693, and married, April 25, 1717, Ann, daughter of Joseph and Elizabeth (Huntington) Backus, who was born in Norwich, Jan. 27, 1695, and died Aug. 24, 1761. He settled first on the Namussuck farm, which his great grandfather had owned in New London, but in 1735 sold that farm and removed to Norwich. He was, with his older brother the Colonel, in the Louisburg expedition, having been commissioned lieutenant Dec. 12, 1745. He died in Norwich, as his gravestone attests, March 20, 1774.

26. ISRAEL. Norwich, Conn.

100. ISRAEL, born in Norwich, Feb. 1, 1687, and married, June 20, 1710, Mary Fellows. Her name appears on the roll of the West Farms Church as early as 1721. After her death he married (2), June 9, 1747, Mrs. Sarah Tuttle. He settled on the eastern declivity of Blue Hill, in the southwest part of the present town of Franklin, Conn. He was considerably in official life, both military and civil, and was an active man in promoting all the interests of society. His will, bearing date March 22, 1758, named as legatees, his wife Sarah; his deceased son Israel's three daughters, Ann, Lois, and Ednah; his daughter Mary Birchard; daughter Catharine Hackly; youngest daughter, Prudence; and his sons, Jedidiah, Simeon, and Ezekiel.

101. WILLIAM, born in Norwich, Sept. 20, 1688, and married Dec. 18, 1712, Sarah, daughter of Dea. Simon and Lydia (Gager) Huntington, [See Huntington Family.] They settled on Plain Hills, in the north part of Norwich. He was a farmer, and his record was that of an enterprising business man, and a good citizen. In religion he was an earnest and zealous disciple, scarcely satisfied with what he looked upon as too rigid and formal, the modes adopted in the established Congregational Church, with which he united in 1732—his wife having been a member from 1717. After her death, which occurred April 20, 1730, he married (2), August 5, 1731, Mary Kelly, who, the same year united with the First Church of Norwich. It was during her lifetime that the great outbreak occurred from the Separatists, and both she and her husband were among the leaders in that disturbing movement. Both of them were warned to appear before the church August 28, 1745, and answer for their presumption in joining with others to "set up" a separate meeting. Mr. Lothrop assigned five reasons for his separation, viz.: 1. "The minister (Rev. Dr. Lord), denying the power of godliness, though not in word, yet in practice. 2. Insisting on imprudencies, and not speaking up for that which is good. 3. Not praying for their meeting (the Separatist) and not giving thanks for the late glorious work (that which attended the preaching of Mr. Whitfield). 4. Not a friend to lowly preaching and preachers, particularly not letting Mr. Jewett preach once, and once forbidding Mr. Crosswell. (These were both separate and revival preachers, and therefore obnoxious to the standing order). 5. Not having the sacrament for six months in the most glorious part of the late times; and often enough since the church is in difficulty, and oftener now than ever."

Mrs. Lothrop assigned these reasons for her withdrawal: 1. "As to communion in the church at the sacrament, I did not commune because I was in the dark, and thought I was not fit. 2. Another reason, because I was not edified. 3. Because the power of godliness, it seems to me, is denied here, and is elsewhere. 4. By covenant I am not held here any longer than I am edified."

Mrs. Lothrop died in Norwich, April 19, 1760, and he married (3), May 20, 1761, Phebe French. He died Sept. 27, 1778, as his gravestone, still standing quite by itself on the south side of the old part of the Norwich Town cemetery, testifies. His will, dated Oct. 25, 1771, names as legatees, his wife Phebe; son Andrew; granddaughter Sarah, only surviving child of son Ezra; Jeremiah, Eunice, and William, children of son Jeremiah, deceased; son Ebenezer; son Jonathan; son John, and son Zachariah.

In the distribution of the estate, Nov. 21, 1778, the following parties are named: Phebe, widow; Capt. Andrew; granddaughter Sarah Barret, wife of Ezekiel Barret, and only daughter of Ezra, deceased, son of Wm. Lothrop; Jeremiah, grandson; Eunice Elderkin, only daughter of Jeremiah, deceased, and wife of Rodolphus Elderkin; William, grandson and youngest son of Jeremiah; Capt. Ebenezer, second surviving son; Jonathan, third surviving son; John, fourth surviving son, and Zachariah, youngest son.

They settled on Meeting-House Hill, West Farms parish of Norwich, now Franklin. He and his wife united with the church in West Farms, in 1720. He was prominent in the church and town. Dr. Woodward, in his excellent record of the town, gives this testimony: Clergymen and distinguished individuals from abroad were often his guests during their temporary sojourn in the place.

Letters of administration on his estate were given to his widow Elizabeth, May 5, 1752. In the division of the estate, Nov. 14, 1752, the heirs named are: the widow and the children, Zebulon, John, second, Azubah, Bethia, Elizabeth, Rebecca, Ann, and Rhoda.

He was a man of note in town, both in civil and military affairs, and was known best by his military title of captain. He died Jan. 28, 1781, and the only portion of the sandstone inscription now visible on the gravestone of his wife is "——dia consort of Cap—— Lothrop." In the distribution of his estate, in 1778, the following legatees are named and defined: eldest son, Ebenezer, of Windham; second son, Zephaniah; third son, Jedidiah; daughter, Mrs. Sybel Tracy; daughter, Zipporah Huntington; daughter, Mrs. Lydia Lathrop; daughter, Zerviah Lathrop; daughter, Anna Perkins; and the heirs of daughter, Mrs. Sarah Coit.

"From memoirs which he left, and from letters which he wrote to his particular friends, and which I have seen, I have formed an opinion of him, as a person of early and eminent piety, of good natural talents, and of more than a common education for that day. This idea has been confirmed by information from some of his contemporaries. In his writings I have seen very serious and grateful acknowledgments of the wonderful preservation of his life in a moment of imminent danger when he was a youth."

After his death, which occurred May 10, 1733, his widow married, May 29, 1739, Matthew Loomis, of Bolton, Conn. 126. JOSEPH, born Nov. 10, 1698, and married, in 1725, Rebecca Palmer. They lived in Barnstable, where his will was made. It was dated Feb. 4, 1731–2, and proved Aug. 30, 1732. 128. BENJAMIN, born in Barnstable, Oct. 18, 1697, and married, May 26, 1720, Mercy, daughter of Dea. John and Anna (Annable) Baker, of Windham, who was born Aug. 18, 1699. This Dea. John Baker was son of Samuel Baker, of Hull, who married Fear, daughter of Isaac, the son of Rev. John Robinson, of Leyden. Samuel Baker was son of Rev. Nicholas Baker, of Hingham, Eng., who was born about 1611, and was ordained third minister of Scituate in 1660, having been a graduate of St. John's College, Cambridge, England, in 1631. As the first five of his children are recorded in Barnstable, he probably was settled there until he purchased, Aug. 26, 1731, his home lot in Windham, Conn., some three months after the birth of his fifth child. The lot which he then bought, No. 3, was the original Cates' homestead, the most prominent lot of the new settlement at Windham. The price, for those times, was very great, £500, indicating Mr. Lothrop to be a man of means. From the first he took an influential place among the citizens of Windham. He united with the Congregational church at Windham in 1734, his wife having joined by letter in 1732. He died in Windham, June 16, 1758, and his widow June 16, 1777.

129. JOHN, born in Barnstable, Oct. 3, 1699, and purchased 120 acres of land in Tolland, Conn., June 4, 1726, and in the deed is said to be "now a resident in Tolland." He had come, so Waldo says, from Falmouth, Barnstable County, Mass. He stood among the first men in Tolland, as is evident from the offices he held, as selectman for five years, as justice of the peace and as representative of the town in the State Legislature for five sessions—1748-1751. He was also town clerk in 1722. He died Oct. 17, 1752, and following this is the strangely incomplete record, "Mrs. Ann Lathrop died." Though imperfect, it preserves for us at least the Christian name of John Lathrop's wife.

A record made by her son Josiah states that "this family," that of his father Melatiah, "commenced in Connecticut, whence they removed in 1755 into Duchess county, N. Y., then town of Dover, where they were chiefly brought up." He died Sept. 5, 1787, and his wife, whose name in the record of her son is Marah, was born Aug. 6, 1718, and died in Columbia Co., N. Y., Oct. 16, 1788.

He settled in Tolland, where he was a man respected alike for his good business tact and for his piety. He was selectman from 1764 to 1773, the last year being first selectman. settlement of Tolland, Conn. He was the first tavern keeper, and the first military officer in Tolland—being commissioned captain in 1725. His descendants are still living in Tolland. By Rebecca Lothrop he had four children: Lemuel Hatch, born Feb. 29, 1735; Rebecca Hatch, born June 8, 1737, and died Sept. 14, 1739; Ebenezer Hatch, born Apr. 21, 1740; Timothy Hatch, born Aug. 14, 1741.

Its legacies are made to his mother Elizabeth, his sisters, Elizabeth Marsh, Susanna Sturgis, Sarah Howes, Marcy, and Thankful; and to "Nathaniel, sister Elizabeth's son," a silver-hilted sword, which was my grandfather Lothrop's. He died Mar. 29, 1734, as his gravestone in the jail hill burying ground in Barnstable shows.

166. ELIZABETH, born in Barnstable, Sept. 3, 1692, and died Nov., 1694, as her headstone shows, and her name is spelled Lathrop. These two stones, of hard fine slate, have still their inscriptions as distinct as when first cut.

183. A Daughter, born in Plymouth, Oct. 28, 1699, and died Nov. 19, 1699.

184. Melatiah, born in Plymouth, June 29, 1701. He is named as legatee in his grandfather's will, Oct. 29, 1711, and died, single, July 6, 1771. His nephew Isaac was appointed administrator on his estate on the 20th of the same month, and for bondsmen two of his nephews, Nathaniel and Thomas — the bond being £1,000. The inventory of the estate, rendered Aug. 13, 1771, was £987, 15*s*. 6*d*.

185. Elizabeth, born in Plymouth, Apr. 15, 1705, and married Samuel Bartlett, Esq., of Plymouth. She died Nov. 17, 1745, and he married Elizabeth Wetherell, and had by her three children: two Samuels and an Elizabeth.

The children of the first wife were: Lothrop Bartlett, born Aug. 16, 1723, and died Sept. 20, 1723; a daughter, still-born, Oct. 10, 1724; Elizabeth Bartlett, born Aug. 25, 1725, and died Sept. 30, 1730; Margaret Bartlett, born Apr. 22, 1728, and died Apr. 25, 1728; Hannah Bartlett, born Aug. 15, 1731, and died Apr. 21, 1732; Margaret Bartlett, born Apr. 15, 1737, and died Dec. 31, 1739; Elizabeth Bartlett, who was living Feb. 17, 1742, when her grandfather's will was made, and at that date not eighteen years of age.

186. Isaac, born in Plymouth, Feb. 13, 1707, and graduated at Harvard College in 1726. He married (1) Hannah, daughter of Edmund Freeman, Esq., of Harwich. She died Dec. 11, 1730, at the age of 30 years. He married (2) Priscilla, daughter of Caleb Thomas of Duxbury, and widow of John Watson, Esq., of Plymouth, who had died Sept. 9, 1731. After his death she married the Rev. Noah Hobart of Fairfield, Connecticut, to whom she had been affianced before her marriage to Mr. Watson. The story of her successive marriages is told very pleasantly by the Rev. John L. Watson, D.D., of Orange, N. J., in the New England Historical and Genealogical Register for January, 1873. She died in Plymouth, to which place she had returned from Fairfield after the death of her third husband, June 23, 1796, in the 90th year of her age — her last years having been spent in the house in which she had lived with her second husband. By her first husband she had two sons: William and Elkanah Watson. The children whom she bore to Mr. Lothrop will be fully reported in their place in the next generation. She had no children by the third marriage.

Mr. Lothrop always lived in Plymouth, and soon became one of the best known and most honored citizens in the Colony. The following testimonial from Thatcher's "Plymouth" expresses the public sense of their great loss at his death:

"Died in this town greatly lamented, Isaac Lothrop, Esq., at the age of 43. He was one of the Justices of the Court of Common Pleas, and his death occasioned a general gloom in the town and throughout the county. At the opening of the next Court, May 15, Nicholas Seaver, Esq., Chief Justice, and Peter Oliver, Esq., one of the Justices of the said Court, both expressed from the bench the grief and sorrow with which the Court and Bar were affected by the melancholy event, and observed that Colonel Lothrop was held in profound regard as a Judge, and was greatly respected for his moral and Christian virtues. He possessed a large estate, and transacted extensive business in the mercantile line, in which he sustained an honorable and upright character. Few men have been more affectionately beloved, nor any whose death could diffuse more heartfelt sorrow among the poor, and in every social circle."

His gravestone on Burial Hill bears this testimony:

"This stone is erected to the memory of that unbiassed judge, faithful officer, sincere friend and honest man, Colonel Isaac Lothrop, who resigned his life on the 26th day of April, 1750, in the 43d year of his age."

Letters of administration were granted, May 21, 1750, to his widow Priscilla. In the inventory, proved Nov. 2, 1751, is an item of land in Connecticut, and another of two pews, one of which was in the third or north parish of the town, for his widow and children. The inventory was a large one for the day, £23,803, 6*s*. 3*d*.

In Pilgrims Hall, at Plymouth, may yet be seen the commission, given in 1732, by Jonathan Belcher, Esq., Gov. of Massachusetts, to this Isaac Lothrop.

81. HON. JOSEPH. Barnstable, Mass.

187. Mehitabel, born Oct. 22, 1701, and married, Apr. 12, 1722, Dr. John Russel, and died in 1747. They had five children, all born in Barnstable, and named in the following order in their grandfather's will: Abigail Russel, Rebecca Russel, Martha Russel, John Russel, Jonathan Russel.

86. SAMUEL. Wallingford, Ct.

188. Barnabas, born probably in Wallingford, May 6, 1705. That he died before 1744 is reasonably certain from the will of his father at that date, which calls Ruth his only child.

189. Ruth, born probably in Wallingford, Mar. 15, 17—. The following probate records reveal new family relations: On the first Monday of April, 1752, Enas Tuttle, jun., of New Haven, administrator on estate of Ruth Lothrop, "heiress of Samuel Lothrop," exhibits the inventory of her estate, amounting to £2,459, 8*s*. 6*d*. This Mr. Tuttle had been appointed administrator in March of that year, "in right of his wife Martha, who was Martha Brocket, half-sister to the deceased." On "Sept. 3, 1775, John Post of Norwich, in behalf of Nathan Post and Joseph Bingham, in the right of his wife Ruth, all of Norwich, which said Nathan is son, and said Ruth daughter, to Ruth Post late of Norwich, which Ruth Post was Ruth Lothrop, sister to Samuel Lothrop, the father of Ruth Lothrop, a minor of Wallingford, deceased."

89. JOHN. Windsor and Norwich, Conn.

190. "ABIAH, born in Windsor, May 10, 1710, and here (Norwich) entered December, 1728, at the desire of her father, John Lothrop."

He married (2), May 10, 1750, Hannah Bellows, whose death was not on the records. He married (3), Apr. 29, 1752, Dorcas Andrews. These three marriages are together on the Norwich records, and as no children are recorded to either marriage there probably were none. He died before Dec. 11, 1753, when his widow took out letters of administration on his estate.

193. JOHN, born in Norwich, Feb. 17, 1728–9, and married, July 15, 1752, Sarah, daughter of Simon Peck of Uxbridge, Mass. She was born Oct. 24, 1735. They settled in Bethel, Vt. For his children's records I have been largely indebted to his grandchildren.

95. THOMAS.

194. DANIEL, born in Norwich, May 1, 1712, so the Norwich records state. He graduated at Yale College in 1733, with the degree A.M. in course. After his graduation he went to England, and as Dr. Ezra Stiles's manuscript records show us, studied "chirurgery" in St. Thomas's Hospital in 1737. He returned to his native town, where he became prominent, if not first, among the business men of the town. As importer of drugs he and his brother Joshua built up a wide reputation and large estates for their day.

He married, Dec. 13, 1744, Mrs. Jerusha, daughter of Gov. Joseph Talcott, who was born in Hartford, May 3, 1717. In the language of Mrs. Sigourney, she was "a lady of noble bearing, cultivated intellect, and eminent piety. Though far advanced in years, when I first beheld her, time had not impaired either her physical or mental system. Her tall, majestic form was unbowed, her step elastic, and her heart in ardent, healthful action. My early life retains no more cherished or indelible picture than her beautiful age. Dr. Lathrop was one of the most liberal of the sons of Norwich in devising for the prosperity of the church and the improvement of the town. His own mansion was a model of elegance beyond anything which had before been built.

His will, dated Sept. 9, 1776, names as legatees: His wife; son Joshua; Mrs. Abigail Wadsworth; Mr. Daniel Huntington, of Woodbury, son of my deceased friend; Ezekiel Huntley and Lydia Howard, £25; Daniel Lathrop Coit; Daniel Lathrop, son Brother Joshua; Yale College, £500; First Society of Norwich, £500; Norwich School, £500.

He died Jan. 9, 1782, and his widow, Sept. 14, 1805, at eighty-nine years.

Jerusha's will, Dec. 9, '99.—Brother Mathew Talcott; grandchildren of brother Samuel Talcott; three children of Sister Hooker, viz.: James, Horace, and Eunice Ellery; William, grandson of Brother Samuel Talcott, silver tankard; Eunice and Elizabeth, daughters of Sister Wadsworth, deceased, silver porringer; Esther Russel, wife of Thaddeus Learned; Daniel L. Coit, silver butter cups; Thomas Coit, son of Brother Thomas Coit; heirs of Joshua Coit; children of Elizabeth Leffingwell, deceased; Thomas Lathrop, Daniel Lathrop, and Lydia Austin, children of Brother Joshua; Daniel, son of Brother Joshua, Jerusha, daughter of Thomas; Hannah Huntington, granddaughter of Brother Joseph Coit, deceased; Ezekiel Huntley; First Society.

195. LYDIA, born in Norwich, April 10, 1718, and married, as his second wife, Jan. 1, 1739–40, Joseph, son of John and Mehetabel (Chandler) Coit. They settled in New London, where he was a ship-master and engaged in commercial pursuits, until the period of the Revolution, when he removed to Norwich, where he died, April 27, 1787, and she, Jan. 10, 1794. They were both noted for their uniform and cheerful piety. Of their descendants, a fuller list will be found in the Coit Family. Their children, all born in New London, were:

i. Lydia Coit, born June 17, 1741, and married, Aug. 28, 1764, William Hubbard, of Boston.

ii. Elizabeth Coit, born April 5, 1743, and married, Aug. 28, 1764, Col. Christopher Leffingwell, for whose eminence among the citizens of Norwich, and for whose numerous descendants, see Leffingwell Family.

iii. Lucy Coit, born July 2, 1746, and married, Nov. 26, 1766, Gen. Andrew, son of Gen. Jabez and Elizabeth (Backus) Huntington, of Norwich. For their family record in full, see Huntington Family.

iv. Lucretia Coit, born April 15, 1748, and died unmarried.

v. Joseph Coit, born Sept. 23, 1750, and married, Feb. 10, 1773, Elizabeth Palmes, of Preston. He settled in Hartford, in the drug business. He died on a visit to Norwich, Dec. 18, 1779, leaving two children; and his widow married Capt. William Coit, and became stepmother to a large family of children. She died Aug. 29, 1803.

vi. Thomas Coit, born July 17, 1752, and married, (1), April, 1778, Frances Mary Baker, who died Oct. 13th of the same year, aged twenty-one. He married, (2) October, 1782, Sarah Chester, of Wethersfield, who died Dec. 6, 1834.

vii. Daniel Lathrop Coit, born Sept. 20, 1754, and married, Nov. 23, 1786, Elizabeth, daughter of Capt. Ephraim and Lydia (Huntington) Bill. They settled in Norwich, where he had served his apprenticeship in the drug business with his uncles, Lathrop. Of his large success in business, and of the eminent social position of his children, we have a pleasant record in the Coit Family. Their oldest son, Daniel Wadsworth Coit, is still lingering among us — a much-beloved resident of his native town. Three of the daughters became the wives of Prof. James L. Kingsley, of Yale College; of Peletiah Perit, the eminent merchant of New York, and of the late William C. Gilman of Norwich. Mr. Coit died, Nov. 27, 1833, and his widow, in New York, Mar. 8, 1846.

viii. Jerusha Coit, born June 21, 1756, and died, single, Sept. 19, 1776.

ix. Joshua Coit, born Oct. 7, 1758, graduated at Harvard in 1776, and became a lawyer. He married, Jan. 2, 1785, Ann Boradill, daughter of Nicholas and Elizabeth Hallam, of New London. They settled in New London. He soon became popular in his profession, and was called to serve his town and State in civil life. As the representative of the town in the State Legislature, he was repeatedly Clerk and Speaker of that body. He was also chosen Representative from his Congressional District in 1793, and continued to serve until his death, which occurred Sept. 5, 1798. His widow survived him forty-six years, and died Mar. 22, 1844, aged eighty years.

196. JOSHUA, born in Norwich, May 8, 1723, and graduated at Yale College in 1743. He became eminent among the business men of his native town. His brother Daniel and himself are reported in the sketch of Dr. Woodward as having been "successively the most celebrated druggists of their day in Connecticut. Importing medicines directly from Europe, they not only supplied a wide area of country about home, but also received orders from New York."

He married, May 21, 1748, Hannah, daughter of David and Rachel (Schellinx) Gardiner. Her paternal grandparents were John and Sarah (Coit) Gardiner, great-grandparents, David and Mary (Herningman) Gardiner, and her great, great-grandparents, the pioneers of Gardiner's Island, Lion and Mary (Williamson) Gardiner. She died, July 24, 1750. He married, (2,) Nov. 5, 1761, Mercy, daughter of Rev. Nathaniel Eells, of Stonington.

The following tribute, from Mrs. Sigourney's Past Meridian, is well worth a place in this family memorial:

"Among childhood's unfading sketches of my native place, is the figure of a beautiful old man of eighty-four, Dr. Joshua Lathrop, who, until the brief illness that preceded dissolution, took daily equestrian excursions, withheld only by very inclement weather. Methinks I clearly see him now; his small, well-knit, perfectly upright form, mounted upon his noble, lustrous black horse, readily urged to an easy canter, his servant a little in the rear. I see the large, fair, white wig, with its depth of curls, the swarthy cocked hat, the rich buckles at knee and shoe, and the nicely plaited ruffles, over hand and bosom, that in those days designated the gentleman of the old school. Repeated rides in that varied and romantic region, were so full of suggestive thought to his religious mind, that he was led to construct a good little book, in dialogue form, on the works of nature and nature's God, entitled, 'The Father and the Son,' which we younglings received with great gratitude from its kind-hearted author. His quick, elastic step in walking, his agility in mounting his steed, as well as his calm and happy temperament, were remarkable, and a model for younger men."

His will, dated May 29, 1795, names as legatees his wife, "Mercy, son Thomas, daughter Lydia Austin, friends and neices Abigail Gardiner, Hannah Thomas, Mehetabel Carew, and Sally Eells, living with me."

His death occurred Oct. 29, 1807, and that of his widow, July 7, 1833, at ninety-one years of age.

The Norwich History, page 520, which has preserved so much of the past of that delightful town, adds this touch to the picture sketched by Mrs. Sigourney of this eminent son of Norwich:

"He was the last in Norwich of the ancient race of gentlemen that wore a white wig. This, with the three-cornered hat, the glittering buckles at his knee and in his shoes, the spotless ruffles in his bosom, and the gold-headed cane, made him an object of admiring wonder to young eyes."

The Panoplist has also preserved for us a very pleasant memorial of this worthy patriarch of the family, from the sermon preached by his pastor, Rev. Dr. Strong. Vol. iii, p. 575.

They settled in Norwich, where he died, Aug. 25, 1795, and she, Nov. 7, 1800. They had two children: Lucy Rockwell, born May 18, 1743, and married Jacob McCall; Josiah Rockwell, born May 18, 1743, and married Lydia Marsh.

"Mansion house" and five acres, beginning at guide-post at the corner of the road from Lathrop's bridge to the court house, and the road from said bridge landing; Asher Lathrop; the heirs of Mrs. Hannah Pitcher, wife of Elijah; Mrs. Sally Justin, wife of Ira; and Mrs. Anna Smith, wife of Elisha.

280. Barnabas, born in Norwich, Apr. 19, 1738, and married, July 7, 1757, Sarah Davis. This member of the family, after long research, I was able to identify from the very clear statements, made separately, but in perfect agreement, by his grandson Daniel, and his granddaughter Mrs. Lamson.

He became a Baptist preacher, and after a somewhat roving life, died in New Milford, Conn. In the distribution of his father's estate, in 1758, he is designated as the second son.

281. Joseph, born June 9, 1740, and had died probably before the father's estate was settled in 1758.

282. Zebadiah, called in his father's distribution, youngest son. This is probably the Zebediah who is reported, on the Franklin Church records, as dying in 1788.

283. Mary, who is named the only daughter, in the distribution of the father's estate.

118. SOLOMON. Norwich, Conn.

284. MARTHA, born in Norwich, Dec. 1, 1729, and died July 15, 1733.

285. JOSEPH, born in Norwich, Oct. 20, 1731, and married, May 16, 1759, Elizabeth Dwight.

[The following memoir was furnished by the Rev. Geo. F. Cushman, D.D. of New York city.]

Few of the descendants of Lathrop, the pioneer, have reached greater distinction, or conferred more luster upon the name, than the Rev. Joseph Lathrop, D.D., for sixty-five years the pastor of the Congregational Church in West Springfield, Mass. As a husband, father, and citizen; as a scholar and divine, a thinker and writer; as a wise counselor and friend; as a faithful shepherd, he was honored alike in life and in death. He was beloved and revered by his contemporaries, and at the centennial of his ordination, late generations strove to pay to his memory the deserved tribute of praise. His fame has gained rather than lost by the lapse of time. Even in his life-time it had crossed the seas; it was bounded by no sectarian lines. He was a Congregational minister, in the days when it meant more than it does now, but an eminent Episcopal clergyman could say, "The best works in my library are those of the Rev. Dr. Joseph Lathrop." He was a distinguished light to those without as well as within his own fold. His influence in the valley of the Connecticut was almost without limit. He was ranked with the most distinguished of the New England divines. He was a man of the ripest intellect, of the deepest piety, and now, five generations since his birth, his name is lovingly recalled, and, like the alabaster box of ointment exceeding precious, its fragrance fills the land, so true is it that

> "The sweet remembrance of the just > Shall flourish when he sleeps in dust."

Joseph Lathrop was born in Norwich, Connecticut, October 20, 1731. His father was a man of good repute for his piety and talent, and possessed such advantages of education as the times afforded, but died while his son was still in infancy. Left to the care of his mother, she was equal to the responsibility, and she not only instilled into her son those principles of piety which characterized his after life, but she taught him the rudiments of learning. At sixteen he had determined, at any cost of his little patrimony, to obtain a collegiate education, and he was prepared for college by the Rev. Mr. White of Bolton. He entered Yale College in 1750, and was graduated in 1754. Though his mind was already made up to enter the Congregational ministry, after his graduation he became a teacher in Springfield, Mass., meanwhile pursuing his theological studies. In 1756 he applied for admission to the ministry, and the same year was called to the charge of the Congregational Church in West Springfield. He accepted the call, entered at once upon his duties, and three years later, 1759, he married Miss Elizabeth Dwight, with whom he lived for more than sixty years, and who survived him.

Mr. Lathrop was found admirably qualified for his duties as a minister, and his parish grew and prospered under his care. He was faithful and pains-taking, a diligent preacher, his face was familiar in the houses of his flock, and he was an illustration of the truth that "a house-going parson makes a church-going people." In the pulpit he taught his congregation what they were to believe and do; in his daily walk and conversation he was an example to his flock, giving now a friendly warning and now a word of praise, and happy was the child upon whose head in earnest blessing the hand of Parson Lathrop was laid. He was in every way identified with his people, he made their interests his own. He was a student of books, but he was no less a student of men, and as he went from house to house he conned the most important lessons of wisdom, to be reproduced afterwards in his sermons. Day by day he thus strengthened the bonds that united him to his charge; the people trusted to his wisdom, and he was strengthened by their love. But notwithstanding, the sky was sometimes overcast, and the waters were troubled. Evil came from without. There was at one time some fear of the spread of Baptist principles; at another a roving imposter who proved to be a wolf in sheep's clothing, like Alexander the coppersmith, threatened to do much harm in Mr. Lathrop's hitherto united fold. He was prepared for the emergency and contended earnestly for the faith once delivered to the Saints. With great plainness he instructed his people in what he believed to be the truth, and the "tyranny was soon overpast." The sermons he delivered upon the latter occasion, were masterpieces of controversy, and general in their application, and at the instance of his people they were published, and soon went through some twelve editions, so great was the demand for them. Under the title of "Wolves in Sheep's Clothing" they were reprinted in Edinburgh, Scotland, and now, after nearly a hundred years they may be read with pleasure and profit. In our age there would seem to be something of severity even in the title page, but Mr. Lathrop could not be indifferent to the truth, and as a faithful shepherd it was his duty to protect his flock; he was no hireling, to flee at the approach of danger. This was afterwards well illustrated during, and at the close of the war of the Revolution. The continental currency was so depreciated as to become almost worthless; the people were poor and suffered great privations. These sufferings Mr. Lathrop willingly shared. At times he was reduced to great straits for want of money; his small salary was irregularly paid and a large sum in arrears accummulated. These arrears Mr. Lathrop voluntarily forgave; when the clouds began to disappear he could not endure to see the parish struggling under the burden of a debt to himself. St. Paul was a tent-maker and labored with his own hands, and Mr. Lathrop did not think it misbecame him to eke out his salary by personal labor upon his little farm. He had taken his parish, as was common in those days, for better or for worse, and he cheerfully shared their ill as well as their good fortune. In their prosperity, the people had willingly offered themselves for him, and when need was, he was as ready to endure for them, and so while he followed the plow or swung the scythe, he reaped lessons of spiritual husbandry. No honors, no offers of emolument could tempt him away. His fame extended far beyond the parochial bounds. In 1791, Yale College conferred upon him the honorary degree of Doctor in Divinity, as did Harvard University in 1811. In 1792, he was elected a Fellow of the American Academy of Arts and Science, and in 1793 he was appointed a Professor in Divinity in Yale College. Yale was his Alma Mater; the position was one congenial to his tastes. Students in Divinity had come to him in his quiet parish, at least a score, and among them Dr. Appleton, the late President of Bowdoin College; he would have the advantages afforded by the companionship of scholars and by the college library; his salary would be doubled, and there would be a hope that he might make some provision against the infirmities of age. But none of these things moved him. Great as the temptation was, he resisted it, and said to his people, "I shall not go; the Lord do so to me and more also, if aught but death part me and thee."

The life of Dr. Lathrop was thence forward not more eventful than would be the life of most ministers of equal distinction in a country parish. His people appreciated the man and the sacrifices he had made for them; they were enriched by his growing fame. They built him a new barn, it was followed by a new meeting-house. When councils were called in neighboring parishes, Dr. Lathrop was a foremost man among them; he was often selected to preach occasional sermons, and, as far away as Boston was, his services were brought into use there. He was the exemplar of an industrious man. He was in no sense a sensational preacher, they are the product of our times, but he improved all occasions, he found

> "Tongues in trees, books in the running brooks, > Sermons in stones, and good in every thing."

Tradition relates, it seems incredible, that he wrote above five thousand sermons in the course of his long ministry. Many of them were published in pamphlet form, and passed through several editions. Six volumes of his sermons were issued during his lifetime, and after his death a seventh volume with an autobiography was published and several of these volumes came to a second edition. He was also the author of a volume of miscellany, consisting of political, moral, and entertaining papers. For a further account of the publications of Dr. Lathrop, with lists of many of his sermons, and the occasions and reasons of their being printed, we refer to his Autobiography, and to the Memoirs of him in Sprague's "Annals of the Christian Pulpit." Very few of our American divines have written so many sermons or written them so well, and fewer still have left behind them so many published volumes. To publish a volume of sermons is easy; the sermons of Dr. Lathrop have the honor not only of being published, but of being read, and they survive to our own day as a monument of his learning and piety.

Dr. Lathrop's ministry was continued through many years, and his eye was not dim and his natural force was not abated. At the age of eighty he preached a sermon in review of his long ministry, as he did five years later at the close of its sixtieth year. This was in 1816. Two years later, growing infirmities, he was now eighty-eight, compelled him to ask for an assistant or colleague, and he was fortunate enough in securing one like-minded with himself in the Rev. William B. Sprague, D.D., afterwards the distinguished author of the "Annals of the American Pulpit." Dr. Lathrop still sometimes assisted in the services of God's house, but the work of his life was done. Like Samuel, the venerable man had anointed his successor; like Simeon, he was now ready to sing the Nunc dimittis. On the last day of 1820, full of honors and of years, he entered into the rest that remains for the Israel of God, and heard the "well done" of the Master whom he had served. His death, though not unexpected, was a cause of sorrow, not only to his people, but wherever he was known. Every thing was done to pay honor to his lifeless remains. Multitudes gathered to his burial, his young colleague delivered a memorial discourse, and in the Town House Cemetery, all that was mortal of that man of God, Dr. Joseph Lathrop, awaits the resurrection of the just. Thirty-six years later the centennial of his ordination was celebrated in the parish in which he lived and died, and the numbers present, of his kinsmen and of the friends of the church, showed in what loving remembrance he was still held. The Rev. Dr. Sprague of Albany, the colleague of 1820, delivered a glowing memorial discourse of the venerable Father in God; tributes were paid to him in many other addresses, and the proceedings were published in a pamphlet of more than a hundred pages. In 1874, occurred the centennial of West Springfield. The historical address was by Dr. Thomas E. Vermilye, the proceedings make a pamphlet of one hundred and forty-five pages, and large portions of the space are given to Dr. Lathrop. It is not too much to say that he was the central figure in the history of that town, and to his teachings it owes much of its deserved fame.

But we must draw this imperfect sketch of a remarkable man to a close. We have already exceeded our limits and have been tempted to forget that we were preparing a genealogy and not writing a life. Those who desire further information are referred to Dr. Lathrop's Autobiography, to Sprague's "Annals of the American Pulpit," to the Encyclopædias and to the Centennial Pamphlets. They will there find abundant proof that we have not overrated the worth of Dr. Lathrop. He was a man of large intellect, a deep and original thinker, a ready writer, an impressive preacher, a faithful pastor, with a heart full of all virtues, of manners devout and dignified, and yet agreeable, a man who would have made his mark in any age and in any country, and in a family of the notable sons of the Pioneers, it is easy to regard him as facile princeps.

John Wales of Paynham, Mass. He was a graduate of Yale in 1749 and became a minister of the Congregational denomination and settled in Gilead society in Hebron, Conn., in April, 1752, where he continued to labor successfully until his death, Aug. 3, 1797. His wife died Oct. 15, 1799. We are indebted to him for preserving for us so much of the Scituate and Barnstable Church record as have reached our times. In 1769, the Rev. Ezra Stiles, D.D., afterwards president of Yale College, on a visit at his house, with his own hand, copied about 30 pages of the record which Rev. John Lothrop of Barnstable had kept while pastor at Scituate and Barnstable. This copy of Dr. Stiles has been several times copied, and in 1855–6 was printed in the New England Historical and Genealogical Register, and has been of great service to many Antiquarians and Genealogists. It is to be hoped that the balance of those old records may some day be recovered. Mr. Lothrop was active among the ministers of the State in all the work of caring for the churches, being often reported in the exercises of the Association to which he belonged, and of councils of which he was a member. His name, which in the beginning of his ministry was spelled Lothrop, in 1756 as member of the "Presbytry," there assembled in Kensington to ordain Mr. Samuel Clark, he is enrolled Latrop of Gilead; and in 1762 the same man as Elijah Lathrop was Scribe of the Association Meeting at Stepney.

296. Rev. BENJAMIN, born in Barnstable, Mar. 27, 1726, and married in Windham, July 8, 1751, Sybil, daughter of John and Sybil (Whiting) Backus who was born in Windham, Mar. 1, 1728–9. Her mother, Sybil Whiting was daughter of Rev. Samuel Whiting of Windham, and her father was son of John Backus, the pioneer of this name in Windham, and Mary Bingham. Mary Bingham was the daughter of Dea. Thomas Bingham also a Windham pioneer. Mr. Lathrop became a prominent man in Windham. He became also a preacher of the Baptist denomination after having been for years a member of the Congregational church. He died in Windham, July 16, 1804; his widow surviving him until the June of 1822. His gravestone bears this inscription: "Dedicated to the memory of Elder Benjamin Lathrop, who after faithfully discharging his duty as a minister of the gospel of Christ, worn out with bodily infirmities, calmly resigned his breath on the 16th of July, 1804, in the 79th year of his age." Of his character and that of his family we find this affectionate tribute in the Personal Memoirs of the late Joseph T. Buckingham of Boston. "My mother was offered an asylum in the house and family of a Mr. Lathrop, an offer that was gladly accepted. Here she remained several years, earning something by needle-work, but charged nothing for food or house-room beyond what assistance she might be able to render to the family. I feel it a pleasure as well as a duty to pay a tribute of respect and gratitude to this gentleman and christian, and his family. BENJAMIN LATHROP was a plain honest farmer and a blacksmith,—a man of powerful intellect, and much given to theological controversy. Some years before my remembrance he had seceded from the Congregational church, and held separate religious services with a small party of friends,—sometimes alternately at the dwelling house of each, and sometimes in a school-house. This society, to which Mr. Lathrop constantly preached on Sundays, while during the rest of the week he labored on his farm or at the anvil and forge, were called Separatists, and the term was considered as a by-word and reproach. In process of time they adopted the distinguishing tenets of the Baptists, and Mr. Lathrop was ordained by ministers of that denomination from other towns, over the little flock to which he was attached. The ordination services were performed under the shade of a large and beautiful oak, in a pasture near his dwelling. An intimacy had for several years subsisted between the family of this worthy gentleman and my elder brothers. His children were near the same age. He and his wife had frequently visited my mother in her days of sickness, poverty, and affliction. He was not in affluent circumstances, and was dependent entirely on the product of his farm and an occasional job of work at his anvil for a living: for it was a fundamental principle on which he and his associates had separated from their fellow worshipers at the church that a preacher of the gospel should not preach for hire, and that all taxes for the support of preaching were illegal and unchristian. Yet my mother kept her room and sat at his table gratuitously; and her children, whenever they visited her, were welcomed with cheerfulness and affection. Mr. Lathrop and his wife were to her as brother and sister, friend and physician. They have long since gone to receive their reward, where I trust the widow's thanksgiving and the orphan's gratitude will be accepted and acknowledged as testimonials of their obedience to the precepts of Him who has invited those that feed the hungry, visit the sick, and receive the stranger to their dwelling to sit at his right hand and partake of the glories of his kingdom." In a letter to the Author in 1859, Mr. Buckingham also thus testifies to his regard for this benefactor of his boyhood. "If age and physical infirmity did not forbid I would not hesitate to make a journey to Stamford to tell a grand-daughter of Benjamin Lathrop how much I revere that name.

Pierpont Edwards and Eunice Lothrop were appointed administrators on the estate of John Lothrop late of New Haven, deceased, Aug. 3, 1790. General Ebenezer Lothrop, though a man of large prominence in the community in which he lived and died, left but few records behind him, but among them is the record of his baptism, the very day of his birth, which would indicatē that, like so many of the Lothrops, he came of God-fearing parents. His education, as the word is commonly used, was confined to such advantages as were afforded by the village school. These advantages were greatly improved by his natural force and ability, and by the acute observation which characterized him; and it may well be said that his books were men. He secured universal respect among his fellow citizens, who often looked to him for counsel and guidance.

He was all his life, and until his sudden death in 1814, a worker in iron, and especially the iron that was used in ship-building, agricultural implements, etc., and he brought up several of his sons to his own calling. At his place of business he was brought in contact with the prominent men of the day, who marked his energy and worth. While still a youth, he was fired with military ardor, and volunteered in the colonial service for duty in Nova Scotia. It was in this service, that on the weary marches he was often relieved of his pack by a Marshpee Indian, who in after years was a frequent visitor at the home of the General, and was always gladly welcomed by the family.

When the time came that tried men's souls, and the mutterings of the coming war of the Revolution were heard, he proved himself an ardent lover of his country, and was ready to make any sacrifice for her good. While in the service, his family, as well as himself, endured many privations and hardships.

In November, 1775, he was First-Lieutenant of a company commanded by Captain James Davis, and during the whole period of the struggle, his time and means were devoted to the cause. He served chiefly as coast guard, but he was often called into the Continental service for duty outside the State, in Rhode Island and elsewhere. In June, 1776, with General Joseph Otis and other citizens of Barnstable, thirteen in all, he signed a patriotic protest. The regiment in which he served was in the brigade of General Otis. In 1796, Mr. Lothrop was himself commissioned as Lieutenant-Colonel of the regiment by Governor Samuel Adams, and the next year was made, by Governor Increase Sumner, Brigadier-General. The regiment was the First Regiment of the Third Brigade of the Fifth Division of the Militia of Massachusetts, and it should be noted that Nathaniel Lothrop was, during the war, a Captain in the same regiment. As a soldier, General Lothrop was a stern disciplinarian. On one occasion, when a man of wealth and position came to the mustering ground in his carriage, and remained in it, showing no disposition to take his place in the ranks, a file of men, by General Lothrop's orders, took the man from his carriage, and marched him at a double quick to the place assigned him. The patriotic fire of General Lothrop did not die with him, but survived in two of his sons, one of whom became a Captain in the war of 1812.

From 1807 to 1809, General Lothrop was a Representative in the Great and General Court of Massachusetts. His wife, Elizabeth, a daughter of Captain James Davis, (in whose company General Lothrop served,) who survived him, is well remembered as a woman of great energy of character, and as well fitted by her natural abilities to be a brave man's counsellor and friend. General Lothrop, who in person was tall and slender, and of a florid complexion, was widely respected in life, and honored in death. He was a man of ability and integrity, and one of those patriotic sires who left to his descendants something better than houses and lands, the precious legacy of an unstained name.

894. ISAAC, born in Plymouth, Dec. 11, 1735-6, O. S. He probably never married, as no record of any family remains to him. He became early a prominent man among his townsmen. He evidently took more than an ordinary interest in all that pertained to the early history of New England, in whose oldest town he had his birth, and spent his life. It was doubtless this interest which made him the register of probate for the county from 1778 for the rest of his life. He was a representative to the Provincial Congress in 1774 and '75. To him, probably more than to any other person, we are indebted for the organization of the Old Colony Club, Jan. 16, 1769. The seven names subscribing at that date the original constitution of that club, were: Isaac Lothrop, Pelham Winslow, Thomas Lothrop, John Thomas, Edward Winslow, Jr., John Watson, and Elkanah Cushman; of whom four, either by name or marriage, belong to the Lothrop family. Of them, Isaac Lothrop was chosen their president; Thomas Lothrop, his younger brother, their secretary; and Elkanah Cushman, who had married Mary Lathrop, their steward. All honor to these seven sons of Plymouth for that first commemoration of Forefathers' day. It was the same interest in the early history of New England which made him one of the incorporators, in 1794, of the Massachusetts Historical Society. His will bears date July 4, 1808, and the inventory of his estate was witnessed in court the next year. The legatees named in the will are: Harriet, wife of Chandler Robbins, and Caleb Lothrop, "children of my brother Thomas"; his brother, Nathaniel Lothrop; and his sister, Priscilla Burr.

895. NATHANIEL, born in Plymouth, Nov. 26, 1737; graduated at Harvard in 1756, at the head of his class; and devoted his long and useful life to the study and practice of medicine. He married (1) Helen Hobart, daughter of Rev. Noah Hobart of Fairfield, Conn. She was born in Fairfield, Oct. 26, 1741, and died in Plymouth, June 1, 1780. He married (2), May 30, 1802, Lucy Hammett of Plymouth. She died April 17, 1824, and he died Oct. 20, 1828. He had no children. He lived, though greatly beloved and honored, even beyond his desire for life. His will bears date Feb. 19, 1828, and is notable for the number of its bequests, and for their distribution outside of the Lothrop name. The names are appended, and their connection will be easily inferred from the intermarriages found in this branch of the family: Barnabas Hedge, $1,500, in trust for Priscilla Lothrop Buckley, wife of John Bulkley of New York; Pilgrim Society, $500, towards completing Pilgrim Hall; Eunice D. Hedge, wife of Barnabas; Isaac Lothrop Hedge; Thomas

Hedge; Ellen Hobart Hedge; each of the daughters of Barnabas and Eunice D. Hedge; Nathaniel Lothrop Hedge; Betsey Dunham, widow; Isabella and John B. Thomas; ——, wife of William Simmons; Eliza, wife of Isaac Goodwin; Lucy Lothrop Goodwin; Lucy Hammett West, daughter of Dr. Samuel; four daughters of Gershom Burr; and Charles William Capers, son of my niece Abigail Capers, deceased.

396. THOMAS, born in Plymouth, Feb. 10, 1739, and married, Jan. 31, 1778, Lydia, daughter of Nathaniel Goodwin.

son of ——— Motley of Boston. She died in April, 1864, and he, March 7, 1865. Their children were:

i. Thomas, married Maria B. Davis.
ii. John Lothrop, married Mary Elizabeth Benjamin.
iii. Edward, married Ellen Rodman.
iv. Emma, married Samuel William Rodman.
v. Preble, died unmarried.
vi. Anna Lothrop, married Alfred Rodman.

Of these children, John Lothrop Motley, born April 15, 1814, in Massachusetts, graduated at Harvard in 1831. He completed his studies on the Continent. Returning to America he read law, but soon afterward devoted his attention to literature. He was Secretary of Legation to St. Petersburg in 1840, and, having decided to write a history of Holland, passed several years in Holland and Germany preparing himself for that work.

The first of his series of histories was entitled "The Rise of the Dutch Republic," and was published in three volumes in London, in 1856. It is a work of rare merit, and has been successful from the day of publication.

This was followed in 1860—'67 by "The History of the United Netherlands." This was followed by "The Life of John Barneveld" in 1874, which was more of a history than a biography, and was really an introduction to what he purposed to make his greatest work—"The Thirty Years War," which, however, Mr. Motley did not live to write.

In 1861 Mr. Motley was sent as Minister Plenipotentiary to Vienna, and in 1869 as Minister to England.

His wife died in 1874, and he May 30, 1877, and was buried in Kensal Green Cemetery, near London.

The Edinburg Review, in reviewing his "United Netherlands," gives us this estimate of his character as a historian: "Mr. Motley combines as a historian two qualifications seldom found united. To great capacity for historical research he adds much power of pictorial representation."

The following tribute is from the Westminster Review: "We lay down the first two volumes of this noble work (The United Netherlands) with a high appreciation of Dr. Motley's great and varied abilities. For diligence in research, for sound and extensive knowledge, for vigorous language and for living dramatic representation he is entitled to hold a foremost place among the first historians of our age."

In 1860 he received the degree of D. C. L. from the University of Oxford, and that of LL. D. from Harvard. He also received the degree of LL. D. from the University of Cambridge, England.

Its beginning was in the days which called for self-denying patriotism; and he entered with youthful interest into such service as he could render. He "possessed more than ordinary abilities. When young, he passed for what in those days was called a wild young man, but his wildness ended with youth and he early became a very steady man and a most exemplary Christian. He was a member of the Methodist denomination and was a local preacher. His public performances were creditable for fervency, candor, and sincerity. He had a good knowledge of human nature, and had a shrewdness peculiar to himself in his remarks upon almost every topic. Mr. Lathrop was proverbial for integrity and uprightness in all his dealings, and constant and true in his friendships. He was highly esteemed by his acquaintance, and never seemed to be more happy than when he was doing them some good. He was twice elected to the General Assembly, but never appeared to be over-anxious for political preferment. The influence of his example was most salutary, and a recollection of his guilelessness and simplicity will cause his memory to be long respected. He died Sept. 14, 1844." 705. SALMON, born in New Concord, Columbia County, N. Y., Jan. 5, 1781, and married, Aug. 28, 1805, Aurelia Noble, eldest daughter of John and Lydia Noble, who was born in Benson, Vt., July 18, 1790, and died in Carbondale, Penn., April 13, 1872.

The following obituary is from the Carbondale (Pennsylvania) Advance: The passing away of the oldest resident of our town, at the advanced age of nearly ninety years, and of one whose life for so many years had been identified with its welfare and progress, seems to demand something more than the simple announcement of his decease. Mr. Salmon Lathrop, the subject of this sketch, who died in this city on the morning of Wednesday, November 4, 1868, was born on the 5th of January, 1781, in Columbia County, in the State of New York. At an early period in his life he removed with his father's family to the town of Sherburne, Chenango County, New York, then a comparatively wild and unknown region of country. Here his youth was spent on his father's farm, clearing away the wilderness and developing the resources of that now most beautiful and productive region of the Empire

State. With slight advantages of education, as may well be presumed, it was a matter of no little difficulty to procure the knowledge which his mind thirsted for, yet he succeeded in fitting himself for a school teacher, which business he followed for some years in the winter months.

In the summer of 1805 he was married to Aurelia Noble, with whom he lived most happily for nearly sixty-four years. The responsibilities of a family now led him to seek a wider field for his enterprise; and a few years later, when the great mind of that eminent man, DeWitt Clinton, had planned and finally succeeded in putting under way that gigantic work now known as the Erie Canal, he undertook the building of many miles of that famous work. He continued in this line of business at intervals for many years, having built large portions of the Pennsylvania Canal, Chenango Canal, New York and Erie Railroad, and other public works.

Removing to Carbondale in 1827, at the request of the Messrs. Wurts, who were then laying the foundation of what has since become the extensively ramified works of the Delaware and Hudson Canal Company, he commenced the development of the then unknown and slightly valued resources of the Lackawanna coal region. Under his supervision the first steps were taken towards laying bare the vast and unexplored coal fields which now so much contribute to the wealth of the country, and give employment to myriads of people. With a few others who had been attracted to the place by the reported discoveries of coal, he commenced the laying out and building up of the town, which has since become a city of 10,000 inhabitants, and the seat of one of the most extensive coal operations in the United States.

The first frame building erected in the place was built by him as an addition to the log structure (now destroyed) known for so many years as the "log tavern." Soon after he commenced the erection of the store and dwelling combined, on what is known as the "Richmond corner," and of the large frame hotel known as the "Mansion House," of which latter place he was for so long a time the host.

Through preëminently a man of active life, and more than usually ambitious to succeed in worldly enterprises, he did not neglect the cultivation of the heart and mind; and for a good part of his life he was a most earnest and devoted Christian. Indeed, as he grew older in years he grew riper for Heaven; and to those with whom he came in daily association his example and deportment were a precious earnest of his simple and Christ-like devotion to the Master's work. Though his general character is sufficiently described by the term "Christian," yet he had certain traits, for which he was more particularly remarkable. Not that they form any basis for undue exultation or boasting, but they so strongly marked the man that they should be mentioned in detail to leave upon record the truth, and as an incentive to the youth of the land who aim at a higher excellence in life.

He was a man of unusual simplicity and tenderness of heart. His ear was ever open to the cry of distress, and while possessed of means he was ready to aid the deserving and to sympathize with the comfortless. To the benevolent operations of the church he was a bountiful contributor, and his heart was particularly wrapped up in the anticipated conversion of the heathen world to the light and liberty of the gospel of Christ.

He was a man of the strictest integrity. Through a most intimate acquaintance, extending over a period of more than forty years, the writer of this sketch has never known him to swerve from the path of rectitude in his business relations. Though engaged in the most active business of life, and handling large sums of money, he was never known to wrong a fellow-being, even the most humble and unprotected, of a penny. Frequently suffering himself from the dishonesty of others, and finally losing by this means all his worldly possessions, not a single stain of dishonesty was upon his character.

He was a man of extreme modesty. Never fond of display, though a man of strong prejudices, and of a mind unusually faithful to its convictions, he was not forward or obnoxious in the presentation of his views—either religious or political—and he preferred both in church and State rather to follow than to lead. This disposition led him to decline office when tendered, and frequently to acquiesce, for the sake of peace, in measures not exactly in accordance with his better judgment. But he never shrank from the discharge of known duty. However it may have conflicted with his natural retiring disposition, it was but necessary for him to see his path clear and he was sure to walk in it.

He was a man of untiring industry. It is no figure of speech to say that he was never idle. Every moment of the time usually devoted to business, found him usefully occupied, and his ambition to labor with his hands never flagged, even up to a short period prior to his decease. In fine, in all the characters he bore, he proved himself faithful and diligent. As a husband he was affectionate and considerate, never for a moment wavering in fidelity and devotion to the wife of his choice; as a father, though stern and uncompromising in his demands for implicit obedience, he was kind and forgiving; and it was the pride of his heart to see his children grow up to be respected as men and women, and to make, without exception, the choice of the same God, who, for so many generations, had been worshiped by his ancestry. As a citizen, his heart and life were devoted to the interests of the government. His love of country was unbounded; and during the late rebellion, by his words and acts of patriotism, he contributed not a little to incite the youth of his acquaintance to buckle on their armor for the defense of their native land. As a friend, he was constant and warm-hearted, though from his unobtrusiveness the circle of his intimate acquaintances was not largely extended.

His death was calm and peaceful — even triumphant. The approach of the "King of Terrors" did not cause him dismay or grief. His "house was in order," and he had the near presence of the Saviour who had in His own person conquered the "last enemy." His wish that his surviving children, three in number, should be near him in his last sickness, was gratified; and his dying pillow was smoothed in a great measure by the abundance of their filial sympathy and affection. Nine of his seventeen grandchildren were also gathered around his bed of death, who ministered with tender love to his necessities; all receiving his parting blessing, and cherishing up in their hearts the memory of his precious example.

May we not say in conclusion, in view of the long and useful life and happy death of this aged pilgrim, in the words of the text chosen by his dear widow for the funeral discourse, "Precious in the sight of the Lord is the death of his saints." C. E. L.

735. JOHN HIRAM, born in Sherburne, New York, January 22, 1799; graduated at Yale College in 1819; studied law as a science and was admitted to the bar, but became a teacher by profession. After teaching at various points in New England, he was called to Hamilton College in 1829, as Professor of Mathematics and Natural Philosophy. August 15, 1833, he married Frances E. Lothrop, daughter of John Hosmer and Jerusha (Kirkland) Lothrop, of Utica, New York. In 1835 he was advanced to the Maynard Professorship of Law, Civil Polity, and Political Economy in Hamilton College. In 1840 he was elected first President of the University of the State of Missouri, and, accepting the trust, devoted more than eight of the best years of his life to organizing and building up a broad and liberal system of collegiate education in the then far west. In the year 1845, the degree of Doctor of Laws was conferred upon him by Hamilton College. In the autumn of 1849, he accepted the Chancellorship of Wisconsin State University at Madison, to which he had been elected the previous spring. Here his skill and experience as an organizer of a State educational system were brought to bear upon much the same condition of things that he had found in Missouri eight or nine years before, and the highest measure of success crowned his efforts. After nearly ten years residence in Madison, amid the pleasantest social relations, he was induced to accept the twice offered Presidency of Indiana State University, a well established institution, though under temporary embarrassments, which his administration hoped to relieve. After a year devoted to this end, he felt strongly inclined to lay aside the cares of administration with which he had been burdened so many years, and accept a professorship in the Missouri University, a retreat in the growing shade of the tree planted and watered by his own hand in time gone by. He returned to Columbia in 1860, as Professor of English Literature in the University, but the complications of the civil war soon brought his administrative power again into requisition, and after preserving the continuity of the institution for four years as Chairman of the Faculty, he was, in 1865, officially confirmed President for the second time.

Under the new and promising conditions of peace in Missouri, he matured plans in accordance with his cherished idea for making the University such in the fullest sense, by the establishment of schools for the various professions and arts in connection with the academic department. He put on foot efforts for securing the agricultural college fund to the University, and everything seemed to point to a great step forward in the history of the institution. Suddenly he was stricken down by an acute attack of typhoid fever, and died in the midst of his labors, in the full vigor of his mind, on the 2d of August, 1866. He rests in the cemetery at Columbia, and a spire of Massachusetts granite records the leading events of his useful and beneficent life.

He possessed a clear, logical mind, capable of broad generalization and disciplined by years of critical study. His humor was refined and graceful; his sarcasm keen and delicate, and his diction finished and elegant. He was an extensive writer, communicating with the public in lectures, pamphlets, addresses, and the daily press, upon a variety of subjects for which his varied learning and sound philosophy especially fitted him. Education, finance, free trade, internal improvements, agriculture, besides the philosophies of his class lecture-room, were some of the matters of general importance that engaged his able pen from time to time. He carried on a large literary and social correspondence, and his letters might be taken as models of their kind. During his long and varied professional life, he filled every chair of instruction common to the universities of the day, showing a rare extent and versatility of learning. His favorite department was the philosophy of morals. His lectures on ethics were an original and forcible development of the subject,—combining and harmonizing the advanced views of modern thinkers with the fundamental truths and faith of Christianity. It is to be regretted that in the busy routine of his life he failed to carry out his intention of editing, in book form, his system of ethics, and other valuable matter, to which he had given much thought and research. He held many advanced views, some of which are already sanctioned by the logic of events. Early in life he took the then startling position that there was no necessary connection between the professions of teaching and theology; that either the one or the other should absorb the entire energies of the man, as in law or medicine. And the growing distinctness of the profession of the "educator" proves this view of the case to have come into general recognition. He was of the opinion that no restriction should be put upon the education or vocation of woman,—and his belief that the higher institutions of learning would be thrown open to all who could pass the necessary examinations successfully is sustained by present facts. Socially, it is perhaps not too much to say of him that he was "facile princeps." Universally affable and approachable to all classes of society, with fine conversational powers united to a dignified and courtly address, he left an uneffaceable impress upon all communities with which he was associated. Though naturally of a delicate constitution, by the same conscientious observance of the laws of health which he gave to all law, human and divine, in his perfectly regulated life, he rarely lost a day from illness,—and at sixty-seven years of age no symptom of old age had diminished his power of endurance or limited his usefulness—only a few days before his sudden prostration by the acute disease that so soon proved fatal, he writes playfully to his old friend, Gerrit Smith: "Age is ripening you and me; decay we don't admit. We will continue to sow seed-thoughts while we may; the harvest is by and by."

The character of one so modest in asserting his own claims and so unselfish in his labors for the general good as he, usually meets its fullest and most thorough appreciation among those who knew it least,—and to those who enjoyed personal friendship with him, and to his army of students scattered all over this and into other countries, who held him, almost without exception, in respect and love amounting to veneration, he was "the noblest Roman of them all;" and in the tender relations of family, he was the beloved husband and father, the guide, philosopher, and friend. His religion was that of humanity, of charity, with a faith in the benevolent government of the universe by a Supreme Power, and a hope of immortality of progression and development beyond the grave. He had no sectarian bias, though an unfailing attendant upon church service, contributing to all churches alike. Late in life he was confirmed in the Episcopal Church, having long had a preference for its mode of worship. The exalted Christian philosophy which had regulated his life sustained him in the hour of death.

In an address delivered upon his installation as Chancellor of Wisconsin University,—he gives his conception of the ideal professor,—a description that might well be applied to his own character,—and in that we find a fitting answer to what was once said by some baffled inquirer, that it was impossible to find out his politics or religion. He was, to use his own words in closing his tribute to the ideal educator, "too intensely American to be partisan, too profoundly Christian to be sectarian."

His widow is still living.

He was called home by the death of his mother, and thinking it his duty to remain at home with his father he abandoned study and turned his attention to mercantile pursuits.

In the spring of 1834 he was married to Mary Angeline, daughter of Levi and Tryphena (Foster) Ray of Norwich, N. Y., and soon after settled in Brockport, N. Y., as a merchant.

He was a man of unblemished character—scrupulously honest in all his dealings—sympathetic and kind to the poor and beloved and respected by all. For many years he was the superintendent of the Sabbath School in the Presbyterian Church, and when about forty years of age was elected a Ruling Elder, which office he filled with acceptance till ill health compelled him to relinquish the active duties of life.

He died at Brockport, August 30, 1854, in the joyous hope of a blessed immortality through Jesus Christ. His widow married (2), Rev. Dr. Wm. A. Hallock of New York. See No. 914.

911. CHARLES CHRISTOPHER, born in Norwich, in 1794 ; was a member of the Senior Class in Yale College when he died, Dec. 8, 1814. His classmates erected a monument to his memory, on the College lot in the New Haven Cemetery, bearing this tribute to his character and promise : "Lathrop as a son and brother was dutiful and affectionate, as a friend and companion faithful and kind, and as a student diligent and successful, as a member of the Church of Christ irreproachable in his life and conversation."

912. HARRIET WADSWORTH, born in Norwich, Apr. 9, 1796, and early resolved to devote her life to missionary work. She married in Norwich, Jan. 11, 1819, Rev. Miron Winslow, then under appointment to Ceylon. He had been a merchant at Bean Hill in Norwich, where he had learned of her zeal in promoting the interests of religion at home, and when the time came for him to enter on his missionary work, he could find none better fitted to accompany him. She gave herself, with no reserve, to her missionary work. From the time of sailing from Boston June 8, 1819, to the date of her death, at Oodooville, Ceylon, Jan. 14, 1833, there was for her no respite from the service to which she had given herself. Her love for her work, and her zeal in the service, are the most characteristic features of those busy years.

The story of this devotion was well told by her husband, who, better than anybody else, knew how deep and true it had been. Her memoir will always be prized as one of our most instructive Christian biographies.

After her death Mr. Winslow married again, in 1835, Mrs. Catherine (Waterbury) Carman, by whom he had one daughter, Catherine Waterbury, who died in infancy. He married, for his third wife, in 1838, Anne Spiers, an English lady of Madras, and had by her two children, Miron Winslow, Jun., and Archibald Spiers Winslow.

He married for his fourth wife in 1845, Mrs. Mary W. (Billings) Dwight, widow of Rev. R. O. Dwight; and for his fifth wife, in 1857, Ellen Augusta Reed of Boston, Mass. His own death occurred at Capetown, Cape of Good Hope, Oct. 22, 1864.

Rev. Mr. Winslow, D.D., LL.D., was born Dec. 11, 1789, in Williston, Vt., and was son of Nathaniel and Anna (Kellogg) Winslow, whose ancestors were Nathaniel, Kenelm, Nathaniel, and Kenelm of Marshfield, Mass., who was son of Edward Winslow of Droitwich, England. Two of his brothers, Gordon and Hubbard, were also Doctors of Divinity and eminent men. (See Historical and Genealogical Reg., July, 1865, p. 272.)

His children by his first wife were all born in Ceylon: Charles Lathrop Winslow, born Jan. 12, 1821, and died May 24, 1832. His memoir is published by the American Tract Society, and is a pleasant tribute to the youthful promise and piety of the missionary son; Harriet Maria Winslow, born Feb. 28, 1822, and died in November, 1825; Joanna Winslow, born Feb. 5, 1825, and married (1), Rev. Mr. Clark, and (2), George S. King; George Morton Winslow, born May 12, 1827, and died Aug. 15, 1828; Harriet Lathrop Winslow, born Apr. 19, 1829, and married Rev. John W. Dulles. They went in 1848 as missionaries to Madras, where she died Sept. 1, 1861; Eliza Coit Winslow, born Jan. 4, 1831, and married Henry M. Leavitt. She died Aug. 11, 1861.

913. Daniel Whiting, born in Norwich, Conn., June 17, 1798. He united with the First Congregational church in Norwich, in 1814, and soon became a teacher and a student of theology in New Jersey. At the request of the Connecticut Missionary Society he was ordained to the work of the ministry, by the Presbytery of New Jersey, at Bloomfield, in 1823, and entered into the service of the Missionary Society. He married in Brooklyn, N. Y., June 8, 1824, Abby W., daughter of Nathaniel and Elizabeth (Coit) Howland, of Brooklyn. They settled in Elyria, Ohio, where he gathered the first Presbyterian church of the place, and where he was installed by the Presbytery of Portage, in November, 1824, its first pastor. Here he remained in the work to which he had been ordained, until his health necessitated a respite. An interruption of six years followed, during which he was engaged in literary pursuits. He was the second time installed as pastor, by the Presbytery of Elyria, at Wellington, Ohio. During the interim of his pastorates, his time had been devoted as an agent of the American Home Missionary Society, in looking after the interests of the churches in the vicinity of his home; and, in 1848, he resigned his second pastorate, and removed his family to New Haven, where they have since that date resided. He has since his ordination adhered to the Presbyterian form of church government "not as the only admissible one, but as being in his view quite as Scriptural as any other." Since October, 1870, he has been the stated preacher of the Temple street Congregational church, New Haven.

The following tribute to his memory is from the Journal and Courier, New Haven, Conn., Friday, April 20, 1883: Rev. Daniel W. Lathrop, who died in Jackson, Michigan, March 27, and whose remains were deposited in his burial lot in Grove street cemetery on Wednesday, accompanied to their final resting place by his only remaining son, George H. Lathrop of Jackson, his son-in-law, Mr. James H. Dunham of New York, and other members of their families, together with friends of New Haven, was for twenty-four years a resident of our city. Although, from failure of his voice, unable to speak from the pulpit except occasionally, he was still actively engaged in earnest Christian work, and will be well remembered by many of our citizens. He came here to reside after having spent a quarter of a century in useful service on the "Western Reserve" in Ohio, most of the time in Elyria, in which place he was the first pastor of the Presbyterian church, which he himself helped to organize. The Sabbath following his decease that church in Elyria held a memorial service, the pulpit being draped in mourning and bearing upon it beautiful emblems, one of which was a sheaf of wheat fully ripe. A lady present on that occasion writes: "It was a lovely commemoration of a lovely Christian. The congregation was large and after the service many stopped to give their personal recollections. It was like children speaking of a father." Mr. Lathrop was a man strong in his convictions, always standing up boldly for what he considered to be right, and in those early days he was a firm friend of the anti-slavery movement, and an earnest worker in the temperance cause. Still, when in controversy he disagreed with others, he would often win his bitterest opponents to himself, if not to his cause by his kind words and noble bearing toward them. About ten years ago, and soon after the death of his beloved wife, with whom he had lived nearly fifty years, and whose useful life cannot be forgotten by her many friends in New Haven, he went to reside with his only daughter, Mrs. Harriet L. Dunham of New York, since which time he has lived either in New York, or with his son at the west, surrounded by loving children, grandchildren and great grandchildren who tenderly revere his memory. Although in his eighty-fifth year, unbowed by age, the wonderful beauty of his personal appearance was unimpaired. His death was like a transition; he passed in a moment from the home circle on earth to the larger company of loved ones gone before, and to the presence of the Lord and Saviour whose service on earth had been his highest joy. "Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord."

914. FANNY LEFFINGWELL, born in Norwich, Apr. 9, 1800, and united with the First Congregational church of Norwich, in 1814. She married, Sept. 1, 1829, Rev. William A. Hallock, D.D., son of Rev. Moses Hallock of Plainfield, Mass. They settled in New York city, where for forty years he was the efficient and honored secretary of the American Tract Society, and where he is still living. He was born June 2, 1794. His ancestors were: Rev. Moses, William, Noah, Peter, William, and Peter, "the pilgrim from England, who landed at Hallock's Neck, Southhold, L. I., 1640." The Hallock family has numbered many prominent names. And she was every way worthy of this connection, and, indeed, she was scarcely less honored for her zeal and efficient devotion to the Tract enterprise, than her husband. For thirty-six years she was the secretary of the female branch of the New York city Tract Society. On the occasion of her death, which occurred in New York city, Mar. 10, 1867, the board of managers of the society she had so acceptably served, paid this spontaneous tribute to her worth: "For thirty-six years the secretary of this society, she has been untiring in her labors in its behalf, and by her meek and quiet spirit has so won the hearts of all associated with her, that they feel to-day sorely afflicted." Their children all born in New York have been:

Dyer Lathrop was an old and esteemed citizen of Albany, N. Y., and was known by every one in that city, and respected as universally as he was known. He removed from Herkimer County to Albany in 1811, and commenced his life there as a merchant, remaining in business until his death, in 1855. He was of the "Old School" of men, decided in every feeling, of uncompromising integrity, and great industry. Endowed with the solid sense and virtues of the olden time, he pursued the "even tenor of his way," and after a successful career through life, died an honored man. He was benevolent of heart and the appeal of honest charity was never made to him in vain. He was one of the incorporators of the Albany Hospital, and one of the founders of that Heaven-born institution, the Asylum for Orphan and Destitute Children, and from the time of its organization, 1829, to the time of his death was one of its main supporters. He was its treasurer for nearly twenty-four years, and to his exertions and those of two or three other philanthropists, was the asylum indebted for its very existence. In the hour of trial, when it seemed inevitable that it could not be sustained, their individual means were freely given for the noble object, and thus the storm was weathered.

At a meeting of the Directors of the Albany Orphan Asylum, held April 19, 1855, the president announced the death of Mr. Dyer Lathrop, their late treasurer, and it was resolved as the sense of the Board,

"That, in the death of Mr. Lathrop, the community has lost one of its best citizens, and the Board a most valuable officer. Not often have we known so unassuming a manner united with such benevolence of heart, and such energy of action. For twenty-four years he has watched over the interests of our institution with the fidelity of a parent. With no reward but an approving conscience, he has not only during this long period been the faithful guardian of its finances, but in its many and often protracted embarrassments, when other means have failed, his credit has always been our reliance, till the exigency has been passed. It is the sentiment of every member of this Board, that a good man has gone from us, and that the orphan has lost a friend, whose place will not be easy to supply," etc., etc., etc.

"So fades the summer cloud away,
So sinks the gale when storms are o'er,
So gently shuts the eye of day,
So dies the wave along the shore."

"By order of the President, JAMES D. WASSON."

"MRS. LATHROP had been for fifty years a member of the Baptist Church, and He in whom she had believed was a comfort and solace in her long illness, and around her are the everlasting arms.

"It was fitting at the last, when earthly scenes were fading from her vision, that her eyes should be lighted up with the beautiful vision of another world, that her long and toilsome journey of life should end upon a peaceful Sabbath afternoon, and that the music of the children from the neighboring church, whence sweet strains had often come to her with soothing power, should in its flight to Heaven pass this way, and bear on its wings her released soul to the home and bosom of God. Her long life of earthly usefulness and noble example is over. Like a shock of corn, fully ripe, she has been gathered to the fathers—not lost, only departed, for

"There is no death! What seems so is transition,
This life of mortal breath
Is but a suburb of the life elysian,
Whose portal we call death.

"And I heard a voice from Heaven, saying unto me, write, Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord from henceforth; yea, saith the Spirit, that they may rest from their labors, and their works do follow them."

"He had strong religious tendencies from his youth, but his religion was something to be done every day, rather than something to be believed. To be an every day, practical Christian was his highest aim, will be the testimony of every one who knew him. He removed from Genesee, N. Y., to Milwaukee, Wis., in 1846, and a few months later settled in Green Lake, Wis. There, in the prime of his manhood, his active intellect and earnest devotion were largely instrumental in giving a healthy direction to the moral and political sentiment of the county. His presence and his encouraging voice could always be counted on, at every public gathering for the promotion of benevolent or reformatory objects. He never shrunk from duty, nor counted the cost of its performance. 'Do right' was his motto, in public as well as in private matters. He thus won the respect of even those who disagreed with him on public questions. At various times he filled responsible positions in his town. A tender, loving, and provident husband and father, a pure and high-minded man in every relation of life, he has given us the witness of a truly noble Christian life, full of faith and good works."

He was the originator of the Board of Riparian Commissioners of New Jersey, and president up to the day of his death. Perhaps one of the most important works of Mr. Lathrop was the building of the State Lunatic Asylum at Morris Plains, New Jersey. He was president of its Board of Commissioners, and took a deep interest and great pride in the institution. He had full charge of all the expenditures, and the result has been eminently satisfactory to the people of that State. Mr. Lathrop was highly esteemed for his ability and wisdom, as well as for his wonderful energy. He was kind-hearted, and liberal to the poor. "A firm friend and a tender father." Windham, and often in periods during which the church was without a pastor, the care which came upon him was scarcely less than that of a minister. He was an excellent singer, having in early life been somewhat noted as a teacher of vocal music. Mrs. Welch was remarkable for her large stores of general intelligence. Having been for many years a professing Christian, and showing in her declining years the patient resignation and assured hope of an intelligent Christian heart, she quietly passed away, July 16, 1857, at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Huntington, in Stamford. They have always lived in Windham, where Mr. Swift has been always held in very high esteem, and has served his townsmen in many positions of trust. He was a merchant, and for many years was also engaged as proprietor of the Natchaug Mills, in manufacturing. This most estimable and worthy couple are spending the quiet evening of their lives in one of the pleasantest homes it has been the writer's good fortune to know. May their sunset be as radiant and joyful as their business years were honorable and beneficent. Their children, all born in Windham, were:

Chester Hunt

CHESTER HUNT M.D.

iii. Sarah Swift, born Apr. 26, 1830, and died Sept. 1, 1835.
iv. Julia Swift, born May 21, 1832.

Mrs. Lucy Lathrop Swift died Sept. 20, 1876. This most excellent woman was one of the eight children of John and Sarah Lee Lathrop of Windham. Her grandparents on her father's side were Rev. Benjamin Lathrop, so well known in his generation, as an earnest and conscientious preacher of the Baptist faith, and Sybil Backus; and this grandmother was daughter of Sybil Whiting, who was daughter to Rev. Samuel Whiting, the first, and for a quarter of a century the very acceptable pastor of Windham. Her grandparents on her mother's side were Dr. Samuel Lee and Sarah Marsh, daughter of Dr. Marsh, the elder of Norwich. Both of these physicians were eminent surgeons, and both held commissions and rendered important service in the Revolution. Her paternal ancestry ran back from Rev. Benjamin, as above, through Benjamin a sturdy pioneer quite early in the Windham settlement; Hope, a Barnstable farmer, thrifty and enterprising in early life, and later an emigrant to eastern Connecticut; and Joseph, the boy-emigrant from London, to become an honored citizen here in Barnstable, Mass., where he was to endear himself to the people for his strong sense, and his sterling social and Christian qualities; to that Rev. John Lothropp, the pioneer of this family in America. First, as a curate in the English Church; secondly, as a leader among the Independents in London, and the second pastor of the oldest Congregational Church there; and thirdly, as the faithful and laborious minister of Scituate and Barnstable, Mass., he left a record of scholarship, and piety, and practical work, for which his descendants to the latest generations may well hold him in honor.

1819. LUCRETIA, born in Windham, July 9, 1801, and married as his second wife, Mar. 6, 1825, Chester Hunt, M.D., of Windham. Dr. Hunt was son of Eldad and Huldah (Benton) Hunt of Columbia, Conn., where he was born, Feb. 24, 1789. For more than half a century he was successfully engaged in the practice of his profession in Windham, and for most of that period his practice extended very widely into the neighboring towns of Lebanon, Columbia, Coventry, Mansfield, Hampton, and Franklin. No physician of the vicinity enjoyed, more than he, the confidence of the community, or of the medical faculty. Besides his own circle of practice, he was oftener than any other physician of the neighborhood, called upon in doubtful and difficult cases, and his judgment was uniformly found to be well considered and reliable. In addition to his medical practice, Dr. Hunt performed a great amount of public service. As deputy sheriff of the county he proved a most efficient officer, and in the discharge of official and professional duties the amount of work done by him was often almost incredible. His exposures and protracted work at length told upon his strength. Disease attacked his lungs, and for several years it seemed to his friends that he could stand it but a few weeks longer at the most. Though nearly laid aside at one time for months, he had so far recovered strength as to attend to professional calls again, and was really in the harness when he at last fell. Few professional men, even, are more missed at death than he, and in few did the community ever sustain greater loss. Dr. Hunt was a lineal descendant in the fourth degree from Dea.

Jonathan and Clemence (Hosmer) Hunt of Farmington. Their son Ebenezer married Hannah, daughter of William Clark, and had a son, William, born in 1705. This William married Sarah Lyman, and had a son Eldad, born in Lebanon, in 1742. Dr. Chester Hunt was the eleventh child of this Eldad, and was the son of his second wife, Huldah Benton. Two of his brothers were also physicians, Dr. Orrin Hunt of Bolton, Conn., and Dr. Simon Hunt of Rochester, N. Y. All of these brothers attained distinction in the profession. They all possessed sharp discernment, and a sort of intuition which grasped at once the origin and seat of disease, and gave them great promptness in their diagnosis and treatment. Dr. Chester Hunt received his diploma in medicine, in 1815, and the same year was married to Lucina Barstow of Columbia, who died in 1821, leaving one daughter, Delia Benton Hunt, born May 3, 1817, and married to James M. Hebard of Windham, Nov. 26, 1845. He married as his second wife, Lucretia Lathrop as above. The second Mrs. Hunt was one of the most queenly of women in her figure and manner. She died in Windham, Aug. 2, 1863, and he, of consumption, Aug. 20, 1869. Their children, all born in Windham, were:

i. Sarah Louisa Hunt, born Mar. 3, 1827, and died Apr. 6, 1828.
ii. Chester Darwin Hunt, born Aug. 11, 1829, and died Aug. 28, 1835.
iii. Elizabeth Adelaide Hunt, born Mar. 22, 1831, and died Aug. 9, 1835.
iv. Thomas Chester Hunt, born Dec. 10, 1832, and died Jan. 23, 1844.
v. Charles Webb Hunt, born Dec. 26, 1834, and died Feb. 7, 1835.

The only surviving child of Dr. Hunt is, therefore, Mrs. Hebard, as above, now residing in Windham, and to her we are indebted for the excellent engraving of her father which appears in this work.

After the introduction of railroads he removed from the village of Windham to Willimantic, and was stationed there as depot-master. He died in Willimantic, Dec. 18, 1863, very suddenly, and deeply regretted by the community whom he so faithfully and acceptably served. His widow still resides at Willimantic.

For many years she resided at the south as teacher and matron. Her record is that of a true and faithful Christian woman She is now (1873) residing with her youngest sister, Mrs. Ramsdell, in Windham. They had but one child:

Benjamin Lathrop Greaves, born in Windham, Mar. 6, 1832, and died in New York City, Aug. 10, 1868, leaving a wife to whom he had been married but a few months. For account of the military service he rendered during the recent war, as soldier and officer, see Stamford Soldiers' Memorial.

1323. Mary Elizabeth, born in Windham, Oct. 28, 1812, and married, Apr. 2, 1833, Thomas, son of Isaiah and Clarissa Collins Ramsdell of Mansfield, where he was born Feb. 1, 1807. Later he removed to Mansfield, and became through great success in his financial ventures one of the skillful financiers of Windham and Tolland County. Here he showed himself a faithful and zealous pastor, and won for himself the reputation of an able preacher. In 1834 he had attracted the attention of the Brattle Square Church in Boston, and was soon induced to accept its pastorate. It is no slight testimonial to his power that he has for so many years occupied the pulpit of a society which had such preachers as Colman, and Cooper, and Thacher, and Buckminster, and Everett, and Palfrey. As Alderman and Mayor of Utica, as Treasurer of New York State Lunatic Asylum, as School Commissioner of the State, and as Trustee of Hamilton College, his Alma Mater, his labors have been invaluable. Of Mrs. Wetmore we have in the Wetmore Family the following: "She has largely inherited the virtues and accomplishments of her ancestry, and she has cultivated her inheritance with a diligent assiduity. During her minority she enjoyed the benefits of education and society in Cambridge, the seat of Harvard University; her uncle, John Thornton Kirkland, D.D., LL.D., being at that time president of that institution, gave her an unusual opportunity to acquire useful knowledge and accomplishments pertaining to a highly cultivated and refined society. In society she has ever been a valued member and an ornament; by her fireside have her virtues been the most conspicuous; there that which graces the family circle has always been found."

1883. Horace, born in Hartford, N. Y., Jan. 20, 1800. The following sketch is from a very appreciative obituary notice printed in the Ohio State Journal, Columbus, Nov. 8, 1849:

"He enjoyed the advantages of academical training and discipline, in the village of Montgomery, N. Y., where he exhibited a maturity of mind beyond his years. At the age of nineteen he left his father's house, and sought a western home. He manifested great energy, and decision of character, and enterprise, in thus early casting himself forth to win his way in the world. He first settled in Waynesville, Ohio, where he spent eleven years in the study and practice of medicine. He later spent two winter sessions at the University of Pennsylvania, perfecting himself in the various branches of medicine and surgery. He then removed to Columbus, and settled upon the spot where he last lived. In 1846 he received the appointment of physician to the Ohio penitentiary, the duties of which he discharged with great fidelity and ability till his death. When the cholera broke out in the penitentiary in June last, he met the demands upon his exertions and professional skill with great promptitude and alacrity. At length he himself became its victim. He fell at the post of duty, the more honorable as it was foreseen by him as a post of danger. As a professional man he aimed to merit and reach a high point of professional distinction, and so successful was he that few at his age have excelled him in scientific and professional attainments. His jealousy for the honor of his profession, his impatience with medical charlatanry, his upright professional walk, his refusal to pander to popular and vague theories, may, to some extent, have contracted the sphere of his professional labors, but these estimable qualities have given him a place in the affections of an enlightened community; and his memory will long be cherished as one who was an honor to the medical profession." He married Jane, daughter of John and Sarah Worrel.

She was born at Eagle Village, Onondaga Co., and was in her twentieth year at the time of her marriage. He grew up in the wilderness amid pioneer experiences, including the deprivations and hardships suffered by settlers in a new country. His devoted mother, who was always the theme of his heartiest praise, feeling a noble ambition for the education of her son, took time from the absorbing duties incident to her circumstances to teach him the rudiments of learning; and when, at the age of eight he was sent to his grandfather's in Malta for a year's schooling, he was prepared to read with the highest class in the "Columbian Orator," and in his first day at school went from the foot to the head of a long spelling class. After his return to Sullivan he occasionally attended a short winter term until he was seventeen or eighteen years of age, and then taught three terms there and at Manlius, Onondaga County. This was the extent of his school privileges, but his subsequent private studies and taste for good reading, aided by native ability and a retentive memory, gave him the equivalent of a thorough education. He remained on the homestead until 1832, when he removed, via the Erie Canal and Lake Erie, to Chautauqua County, N. Y., where he had bought a forest-covered tract of seventy acres. On this he built a log-house, and laboring with the tireless industry which characterized him through life, cleared twenty acres with his own hands. In 1836 he returned to Sullivan and took charge of the homestead and a barrel and stave factory connected with it, the latter containing the first stave machine in the State of the modern pattern, invented by his brother-in-law,

Mr. George Pack. In the same year he entered the local ministry of the Methodist Episcopal Church, of which he had become a member in 1831, and in 1840 joined the Black River Conference and was appointed to Clay, Onondaga County. From that time for twenty-six consecutive years he labored faithfully in Onondaga, Cayuga, Jefferson, Lewis, Wayne, and Oswego Counties, N. Y., on circuits of which a single one in some cases now forms five or six independent charges. He was earnest and effective in his discourses, and judicious in counsel and administration. In April, 1866, he retired from the active ministry and settled on a farm near Fulton Oswego County, where he lived to advanced age, enjoying the highest esteem of his neighbors and acquaintances for his intelligence, integrity, and agreeable, social qualities.

Improvement in health, which had become somewhat impaired by close and unremitting application to professional business, was one of the objects sought in these travels. He seemed to have attained it in a good measure, but a silent, concealed foe has thus suddenly in an hour, almost in a moment, sapped the foundations of life, and removed an honored and beloved citizen. Mr. Lathrope's age at the time of his death was about sixty-two years.

They lived a few years in Burlington, Vt., after their marriage, and then removed to Albany. He was a pioneer in the great steamboat enterprise in this country, and was a deservedly popular captain, both on Lake Champlain and on the Hudson. He will especially long be remembered as the courteous and efficient captain of the North America, running between New York and Albany. He removed to Stockport, Columbia County, N. Y., where he still resides (1873).

In 1832, he was in command of the Phœnix on Lake Champlain, between Whitehall and St. Johns, in Canada, and the first case of the cholera in this part of the country, appeared on his boat. Such was the terror of the announcement that everybody fled from the boat excepting the physician who had been called and the captain. These two men alone stayed with the victim till his death, and with such help as they could get, buried him on an island near the wharf.

846. STEPHEN PEARL. Middlebury, Vt.

1662. Florella G., born in Burlington, Vt., July 31, 1813, and married A. E. Frink, in Rutland, Vt.

1663. Stephen Pearl, Jr., born in Shelburne, Vt., Sept. 20, 1816, and married in Andover, Vt., Mar. 20, 1844, Lucy Gibson Warner, who was born in Andover, Vt., Dec. 15, 1823, and died in Middlebury, Jan. 3, 1848. Married (2), Martha Hemingway Clements, April 9, 1849, daughter of Rev. John C. Clements of Woodstock, Vt. He died Dec. 25, 1854.

He graduated at Middlebury College, Vt., in 1829, and received the degree of M.D. in 1848. His taste leading him to the study of the physical sciences, he soon left the practice of medicine and engaged in the prosecution of scientific engagements in his native State. In 1849, being chosen Professor of Physical and Natural Science in Beloit College, Wis., he removed to Beloit, and at the time of his death was connected with the State University at Madison as Professor of Chemistry and Natural Philosophy. "Dr. Lathrop was an accurate and distinguished scholar, a successful instructor, and a faithful Christian man."

1664. CHARLES COAN, born in Shelburne, Vt., Feb. 27, 1818, and married, Oct. 3, 1841, Harriet Elizabeth Nichols, who was born in Middlebury, Vt., Nov. 21, 1819, daughter of David Nichols of Middlebury. We find him in boyhood, like so many of our better New England youth, securing his education by strenuous personal efforts, and giving up his intention of a professional career only upon the entreaties of his friends, who found that his health was already impaired by his labors and severe application. The succeeding years find him an honored citizen of Florida and Louisiana, whither he had gone in the pursuit of health and business. Enlisting heartily in every work for the public good,—political, sanitary, reformatory, and religious,—we find him spoken of as "a leading and influential member of the Legislature of Louisiana, and various other representative positions before the civil war, and in character, remarkable for benevolence and open-handed generosity. It has been his habit during his residence in New Orleans to visit often the prisons and hospitals for the purpose of scattering knowledge and administering consolation to the afflicted. His readiness of speech, quickness of perception, open, frank, and fascinating manners attract popular confidence and attention. He is prompt and off-hand in his dealings, kind and courteous in his demeanor, shrewd and practical in his ideas. Indeed he is a fair type of that large and most useful class of our population, who bring to our sunny clime, those hardy virtues which the Pilgrims of Plymouth have bequeathed to their descendants, and before whom all the obstacles of nature disappear." He was of the "firm conviction that slavery was a moral wrong and a political evil, and that it must cease, sooner or later. He believed it to be the duty of every good citizen, and especially of every Christian, to labor to hasten that day, or God's judgment would be poured out upon the nation. He educated, as far as he was able, (their education being contrary to the laws of Louisiana,) his own slaves, and adopted a system by which they could work out their freedom. He even purchased slaves to give them this opportunity, and thus aided them in gaining their liberty." To avoid the influence of slavery in his own family he moved North in 1856, and after a short residence in Philadelphia, Pa., and Delanco, New Jersey, he settled in Newark, entering, as was his habit, into every philanthropic work that opened before him. He was an active member of the New Jersey Legislature during the civil war; was appointed collector of the Port of New Orleans by Lincoln, (which he declined); gave material aid to the Government during the war; was appointed aid on Governor Butler's staff (which he also declined); was President of Insurance and Trust Companies; of the State Sunday School Association,

Be it Resolved, That we feel in the death of Henry E. Lathrop, our late Superintendent, we have lost a sincere friend, and the community one of its best and most exemplary members. That during the fifteen years with which he was connected with the company (a part of the time as Superintendent) his intercourse with all was always marked by kindness and consideration. 1745. GEORGE HOWLAND, born in Elyria, O., March 13, 1825, and married May 21, 1851, Cornelia D. Turner, of Jackson, Mich., where they are settled.

The Bible brought from England by the Puritan Immigrants is now owned by Mr. George H. Lathrop, of Jackson, Mich., having descended to him from his father, the Rev. Daniel W. Lathrop. It was accompanied by the following memorandum:

This copy of the "Bishop's Bible" in the old English text was printed by Robert Barker in the city of London in 1605, in the early part of the reign of James I. It was brought to this country in September, 1634, by the Rev. John Lothropp, or Lathrop, the pastor of the first Independent church in London, shortly after his release from the imprisonment of two years which he suffered for the faith he professed.

Soon after his arrival in this country he became pastor of the first church in Scituate and in 1639 of the church in Barnstable, Mass. This Bible was brought to Norwich, Conn., by his son, Samuel Lathrop, in 1668, eight years after the settlement of the town.

The book passed into the possession of a line of his descendants residing here (Samuel 2d, Nathaniel, and Azariah), to Deacon Charles Lathrop of the sixth generation, father of the writer. During the voyage to this country Mr. Lothropp dropped on one of its pages a spark of fire while reading at his evening devotions. Unaware of the accident he fell asleep with the book partially closed, his fingers between the leaves. At length, awakened by the heat, he found that a hole had been burned through several pages of the sacred Book, the only copy on the ship. Before the voyage was completed the space thus burned was carefully filled, and the missing words on most of the pages supplied from memory with pen and ink in the old English text in which they had been printed. The interest of the Book is therefore enhanced not only by the antiquity of its imprint and other facts of its early history when it was the companion of Mr. Lothropp during his imprisonment, but also by this unique memento of its appreciation by the venerable servant of Christ, from whom descended so many families of different and respected names who for generations have dwelt on the plains and among the hills and vales of this beautiful town, and so many who have gone hence, an honor to various professions and employments in every portion of our country, and who have borne the light of science and the glad tidings of salvation to distant portions of the world.

At the bi-centennial celebration in Norwich (September, 1859,) the scriptures were read from this Book, and the foregoing history was given, being principally from my recollection of the statements made to me by my grandfather, Azariah Lathrop.

Mr. Lathrop received his early education at the Albany Academy, and at a boarding school kept by Rev. Mr. Bulkley in Rensselaer County. He early entered into mercantile life, at first with his father, and later in various positions in which he received a thorough and practical business training. While still a young man, in 1850, he was appointed by the Common Council, one of the Aldermen of his native city. But while he always had an intelligent interest in municipal and general politics, he was not to be drawn away by them from his chosen pursuits. He was a commercial man, and as such he was chiefly known and esteemed. In 1855 he became a partner in the well-known house of Thatcher, Lathrop & Co. Mr. Lathrop was not satisfied with the mere routine and drudgery of his calling, but mastered its principles; he was a merchant and not a tradesman. He was possessed of those virtues which ennobled the man as well as the business; of that strict probity and integrity which made his word as good as his bond, wherever he was known. His methods of business were prudent and safe, he followed its legitimate channels and never engaged in those dangerous speculations which so often make commercial wrecks. If crises and panics came, Thatcher, Lathrop & Co. hardly had occasion to change their course or take in sail; they enjoyed the character which wisdom and prudence deserve and gain. He exercised the same care in his personal investments and took all his steps advisedly; if he bought stock in a railway, it was because he had thoroughly studied it, and the system with which it was connected. The wealth which he acquired was the tribute to his judgment and ability, and to that providence and wisdom which fitted him, not only to act for himself, but to be the adviser of others. But while Mr. Lathrop was a business man, that was not all; he took time to cultivate his mind, to study political economy, to understand the history and progress of his country, to visit its remote borders, to indulge in recreation as a relief from business cares. He was particularly interested in the horse, and in many ways he sought its development, and to make it more serviceable to men. Mr. Lathrop was a merchant, and found the rewards of his profession in the accumulation of wealth; but he loved wealth not for itself but for its uses. His heart and his hand were ever open to those who were in want, and no man had more friends among the poor whom he had befriended; when his death came, they felt it as a personal loss. He had been not only their benefactor but their friend. In a tribute to his memory, to which we are indebted, it is said: "His benevolence did not have its rise in the annoyance which comes from importunity, but from deep and quick sympathy with the unfortunate, and his abiding reverence for the Divine Commandments which encircle duty." He was a man of good appearance, with a strong understanding, fine social qualities, an excellent conversationalist, and when he died, February 13th, 1883, he was mourned not only by his family, but by the community in which all his years had been passed, as a good man and true.

2008. JAMES B., born Feb. 22, 1812; married; died in Arkansas in 1851.

2009. BENJAMIN GORDON, born in Canaan, New Hampshire July 6, 1815. He removed, while still a child, with his parents to South Carolina, and there received such advantages of a common school education as that State then afforded. He early inclined to a mercantile life, and in 1832 we find him in Montgomery, Alabama, engaged in general merchandise as a clerk. He was given charge of a trading post well up in the Indian country, and, such was his ability and integrity, that he soon became a partner in the house where he had been a clerk. It was at this time that he had his first experience in the Indian wars. He was a Lieutenant-Colonel and Division Inspector on the staff of Major-General Taliaferro, but, waiving his rank, he entered into active service as a private in the company of Captain Whitmore. The war ended, large bodies of lands became subject o sale, and Mr. Lathrop engaged extensively in the business of buying and selling lands, and at the same time acquired a controlling interest in a bank in Montgomery with a branch in Georgia. The growth of Montgomery was rapid, and upon its organization as a city, Mr. Lathrop was elected one of its first aldermen. But he was naturally a pioneer, and he soon moved from Alabama to the wilds of Arkansas, and for a while entered upon a business career in that State. He did not long remain there, however. In 1849, after the discovery of the gold mines on the Pacific coast, he was taken with what was known as the California fever. He organized a little band of fifteen men, white and black, and with them undertook the dangerous and difficult over-land journey. Beside the ordinary difficulties of the way there were hostile Indians to encounter, but his military experience stood him in good stead, and he brought his little band safely through. He now engaged in mining and in other business pursuits, and as in the east, so in the extreme west, by his energy, industry and integrity he secured the respect of all men. In the days of the Vigilance Committee, his home was in San Francisco county, where lawlessness was resorted to to put down lawlessness, and rogues with a short shrift were made to dangle at the end of a rope. Mr. Lathrop, with firm courage and a wise head, was always found upon the side of justice and right. When San Mateo county was set off from San Francisco county, in 1856, he was chosen County Clerk and Recorder, and filled the position until 1864. He also was chosen to the office of Supervisor and was made Chairman of the Board. Subsequently he engaged again in mining in Shasta county, and in farming in Sonoma county, but, while we write (1884), resides in San Francisco in the enjoyment of the fruits of a well-spent life. Wherever Mr. Lathrop has lived he has been prominent in all affairs, making no enemies except on the part of those whose friendship would have been a disgrace. He has been a progressive man, was an original incorporator of the Southern Pacific Railroad, and he was not the least distinguished of the men of '49, the pioneers of the Golden State. He is a man whose integrity was never impeached, with a deep sense of justice and right, bold to plan, resolute to act, and his life has been alike honorable to himself and to the family of Lathrops of which he is an honored son.

He received an appointment to the Rainsford Island Hospital, where he made ample proof of his fitness for his professional life. In 1858, he removed to Buffalo, where he entered upon the practice of medicine, and soon won a large place equally in the hearts of the families whose physician he became and in the confidence, and esteem, and hopes of the medical fraternity.

He died in Plymouth, Mass., July 22, 1869. He has an elegant monument erected over his remains in the new cemetery in Plymouth, on which is the simple yet eloquent motto, "THE BELOVED PHYSICIAN." And another inscription, not less expressive, testifies that his life had not been in vain: "Erected by his friends in Buffalo."

He had no children. His widow now lives with her mother in Plymouth.

Few young men in any family have left behind them, at their deaths, more sincere mourners. The abundant testimonials which the occasion called out bear witness both to his marked ability in the profession which he so singularly adorned, and to the loveliness of his private character and life, which was so conspicuous. Dr. Miner, editor of the Buffalo Medical Journal, and also president of the Erie County Medical Society, at the meeting of the society called to express their sense of their loss in his death, thus testifies to his character and position among them: "As you know, he has been connected with our public institutions during his entire life among us, and in all the duties of the most responsible positions has shown himself wise and faithful. During the three years' absence in Europe of Prof. Charles A. Lee, Dr. Lothrop occupied the chair of Materia Medica in the Buffalo Medical College, and proved himself a teacher of rare scholarship, of extensive and varied knowledge. As surgeon to the Buffalo General Hospital, he won for himself much professional reputation, and has left a record of faithfulness and worth, worthy the highest ambition. He was president of that society in 1867, and has received many tokens of respect and favor from the profession, who have always delighted to do him honor. He was greatly beloved and admired by the families who received his professional attendance, and those who knew him best loved him most.

"Dr. Lothrop was a man of great mind, an original, independent thinker, a true philosopher. He had canvassed the whole field of human knowledge with great care, and rested his beliefs upon the firmest rocks. He said, on my taking leave of him, 'I am not anxious for the future. I only fear a long invalidism.' He had a true, generous, unselfish nature, and his pure life and character require no eulogy."

Dr. J. P. White, after endorsing fully the testimony thus given in the resolutions which he introduced, and which were passed by the society, thus speaks of Dr. Lothrop, "whom we honored for his professional skill, and loved for his gentleness, modesty, and unvarying kindness, and who, in a comparatively brief period, had established in this city a high professional character, and won the friendship of all his brother practitioners, and whose memory is especially endeared to the younger members of the profession as a judicious counselor and faithful friend."

Others of the society expressed themselves in the warmest terms of admiration of the personal friend whose loss they all so deeply mourned.

Similar testimonials of confidence and esteem are given in the action of the Board of Trustees of the Buffalo General Hospital. They say: "From his earliest association with this institution, his services were rendered with singular assiduity and self-abnegation, and the success which attended his efforts is the best testimony to the skill and attention which he devoted wholly and unweariedly to those entrusted to his care." "He has left a record which is his most fitting memorial, and of which any physician might well be proud."

The following testimonial is from his class-mate and personal friend, Harvey

Jewell of Boston: "I should like to speak of him as an honor to his native town, of his modesty, of his learning in letters, of his thorough mastery of his profession, of his success in reaching the highest reputation, of the depth of attachment felt for him by the friends who surrounded him in his new home, and of the grief which wrung their hearts when the good physician was called away. What treasures has any town like the character and reputation of such a man?"

It is especially grateful to note the deep affection with which his younger brethren in the profession seem to have been drawn to him. The fact speaks more than words can tell of those personal qualities of heart and mind which must have been his best gifts. In a letter of condolence which these confreres addressed to his stricken family, they say: "We all feel that, in his death, we have lost a friend. The universality of this sentiment is the best explanation of the character of his friendship. * * * He has left us a noble example. He was an honest man, a Christian gentleman, a ripe scholar, a good physician. Had he lived, a very eminent career was before him. But he has taught us many things, not the least, that a man may be unassuming, and yet attain appreciation according to his deserts; that he may be just to others, and yet obtain that which is due to himself."

2402. JOHN QUINCY ADAMS, born in Cohasset, Oct. 14, 1824, and married Nov. 30, 1848, Eunice B., daughter of Samuel and Joanna Bates of Cohasset. Mr. Lothrop began life as a merchant with his father, but has been gradually drawn into official service by his town and state, and by the national government. Few of his townsmen have been more in the public service than he, and few have rendered more acceptable service. A recent illustration of the demands made upon him on extra occasions, as well as habitually, occurred at the interesting Centennial Anniversary of his native town, in 1870, of which he was called to be the president. He has been twice the representative of the town in the General Court. He has, since 1862, been the United States Department Collector and Inspector of the port of Cohasset, and, at the same time, selectman and assessor, and one of the overseers of the poor. He is also secretary of the Cohasset Fire Insurance Company. During the recent war, he was actively employed as recruiting officer for the town.

He has represented his town in the State Legislature, and been one of the inspectors of the State Almshouse in Bridgewater for several years. Mrs. Thaxter died Feb. 27, 1850. They had one son:

Daniel Thaxter, born in Hingham, July 28, 1849, and died Jan. 26, 1850.

For one of these, the 159th, he was chosen and commissioned adjutant, and the regiment was assigned to the Banks expedition. 2680. FRANCIS AUGUSTUS, born at sea, June 29, 1849, on the Pacific Ocean, three days out from the Sandwich Islands, latitude 20° 39′ and west longitude 152° 25′.

2681. GEORGE PARSONS, born on the island of Oahu, Hawaiian Islands, Aug. 25, 1851, his father being a physician of large practice there and also United States Consul, which post he retained until his final return to this country in 1858. The son pursued the earliest studies from the last date until 1867, at Oswego, New York, in private schools and under tutors, with an interval in 1862, during which the family traveled in England, France, Germany, and Italy. In 1867 the subject of this sketch went to Dresden, Germany, and at private gymnasia accomplished a partial college course. Returning to the United States in 1870 he entered the law school of Columbia College in New York, and upon finishing his studies found for a short time a place in the office of Evarts, Southmayd & Choate. His health, however, would not permit his making a profession of the law, and he decided to devote himself to literature, not as less laborious, but as affording more frequent opportunities for rest and recreation. He was but seven years old when he first saw a theatrical performance, and in consequence, began to read Shakespeare and undertook to write a play, which unhappily is lost to the world. Though fond of outdoor life, he had from these early days cherished a literary ambition, and had practiced writing in various lines. Reading Virgil in the original first awakened his taste for poetry when he was about sixteen, and he became an occasional contributor to the press. In 1871 he went to London, and Sept. 11, married Rose, the younger daughter of Nathaniel Hawthorne, in St. Peter's Church, Chelsea, where Charles Dickens had been married many years before. After his marriage he settled in Cambridge, Mass., and lived there and in Concord for eleven years, purchasing the "Wayside" in Concord, Hawthorne's former home, in 1879. In 1883 he sold it and removed to the city of New York. In the meantime he had, in 1881, made a short trip to Spain, and he wrote a series of articles upon that country for Harper's Monthly, which were afterwards published in book form. Mr. Lathrop has been a widely known contributor to the newspaper and periodical press as a correspondent and poet and in editorial columns. Some of his poetical contributions may be found in Epes Sargent's Collection of Poets, and in Bryant's Household Library of Poetry, but the greater part of his poems, short stories, reviews and critical essays have not as yet been collected. Of his poems, perhaps the most popular is "Keenan's Charge," founded on an incident of the war. It has been widely copied and used for public recitation. Literature has been indebted to Mr. Lathrop for a study of Hawthorne (1876), a semi-biographical and critical memoir, and also for a new edition of Hawthorne's works, containing a new biographical sketch of that author, and a short story found by Mr. Lathrop in an old annual. In 1878 Mr. Lathrop contributed to and edited a Masque of Poets, made up of new poems by English and American authors. In 1883 he published the history of the Union League of Philadelphia, and in 1884 Newport appeared, a novel which is at this writing in the hands of the critics, and is receiving favorable comment. Among the magazines and papers to which Mr. Lathrop has chiefly contributed papers may be mentioned The Atlantic, Harper's, Appleton's Journal, Scribner's, The Century, The Manhattan, The Christian Union, The Independent, and Boston Courier. In the summer of 1883 Mr. Lathrop was instrumental in organizing the American Copy-right League, which now embraces six hundred authors and journalists. The object of this is to establish international copy-right between the United States and other countries. As Secretary of the League, Mr. Lathrop has exerted a wide influence upon the subject, and the prospect is that its object will soon be attained. The subject of this sketch is still young, and has before him many years of full promise, and by his native ability and his well-directed industry, will, without doubt, win a name and place in the Valhalla of American literature.

MARK—THE PIONEER.
MARK LOTHROP—PIONEER.

MARK LOTHROP may be considered the second pioneer of the Lothrop-Lathrop family in this country.

The following items relating to him are found on the town records of Salem, Mass. :

"At a meeting of the 7 men on the 11th day of the 10th month 1643, Marke Lothrop is receaved an inhabitant, and hath a request for some ground neer to his kinsman, Thos. Lothrop."

"At a meeting of the selectmen, the 17th 3rd mo. 1652, granted to Hugh Woodberrie, Marke Lothrop and Thomas Priton a spot of medoe, lying between Benjamin Felton's medoe and the Great Swamp, near Wenham, to be equally divided between them."

As his name does not appear on any town records previous to 1648, it is probable that he settled in Salem immediately after his arrival in this country. It is uncertain how long he remained there. In 1656, we find him living in Bridgewater, Mass., and one of the proprietors of the town. In 1657, he took the "Oath of Fidelitie," and in 1658 was elected constable, and for about twenty-five years held a prominent place in town affairs. He was often elected one of the jury for trials, a grand juror, and surveyor of highways, and was one of the committee appointed "to lay out all the waies requisett in the township of Bridgewater."

The records also indicate that he took an active part in the affairs of the church.

He died Oct. 25, 1685. His son Samuel was appointed administrator on his estate March 2, 1686.

The following is a copy of the inventory of his property:

> He left his brothers at his country's call,
> In that first conflict he, with little pay,
> Spent his first youth for what we fight to-day.

To the mother of these brothers he pays this filial tribute:

> They had a mother, with the best of skill,
> Who taught and trained them . . .
>
> . . . .
>
> Not one of these, while living, can forget
> That tender watch-care.

He was a natural-born civil engineer and architect, and his first contract was on the Erie Canal, embanking the Irondequoit valley and stream, one mile east of Pittsford, N. Y. He also had a contract at Akron, O. In 1828, he became engaged in the iron business at Pittburgh, Pa., and built the third rolling-mill there. (See History of Monroe Co., N. Y.) He married (1), at Pittsford, N. Y., in 1822, Caroline Clayus. She died in 1829 childless. Married (2), at Allegheny, Pa., in 1831, Eliza Alden Stockton, and died there in 1861, leaving six children. The following extract from the St. Louis Republican of July 5, 1874, pays a just tribute to Mr. Lothrop:

"In the year 1836, a writer, over the signature of 'Progress,' contributed to the newspapers several articles on the subject of bridging the Mississippi river. This was the first attempt made to discuss the feasibility of bridging the mighty stream at St. Louis. Little attention seems to have been given to the project of 'Progress,' and, in the light of the present, we cannot say that his ideas were very deserving of consideration.

"A few years later, Sylvanus Lothrop, of Pittsburgh, Pa., an engineer of national, if not world-wide reputation, noted for the originality of his conceptions and the boldness of his plans, came here and made a thorough examination of the locality, and a scientific calculation of the work. He pronounced the project entirely feasible, and drew plans for the execution of the work. But the conception was too great, and the undertaking of too stupendous a nature, to lay hold upon the people. The vast sum of money required to carry out Mr. Lothrop's plans was not at all attainable at that time, and so the whole matter was remanded to silence. Mr. Lothrop went away, and the problem remained unsolved. But the documents Sylvanus Lothrop had prepared, the facts he first made accessible, served as a basis for discussion of the project for many years. The starting-point of practical discussion of the subject of the St. Louis bridge, opened to the public July 4, 1874, dates from Mr. Lothrop's examinations."

He married, Dec. 22, 1831, Hannah R., daughter of Rev. Benjamin and Mary Taylor, who was a native of Swansey, Mass. He removed from his farm to Three Rivers, Mich., in 1855, where he has since then resided. He has been considerably employed in public life, and has represented his town in the legislature, in which, in 1844, he was Speaker of the House of Representatives. He has been, also, president of the State Board of Internal Improvement. He died Feb. 17, 1874, and the following tributes, taken from the local papers, testify to his worth:

"The funeral of the late Hon. E. H. Lothrop took place at Three Rivers, February 20th, and in its character seemed a most eloquent tribute to the virtues of the deceased. Several prominent citizens of Kalamazoo were present, and the burial service was performed by Rev. J. F. Conover of this place. Arrived at Three Rivers, it was found that all business had been suspended, and the people gave themselves up to the duty of paying their last respects to the dead. It was the intention to hold the services in Trinity Episcopal Church, of which the deceased had been a member, but it was found entirely inadequate. The Presbyterians very kindly offered the use of their house of worship. Rev. Mr. McCord accompanied Rev. Mr. Conover and the cortege to the church, and sat in the pulpit. The beautiful and impressive burial service of the Episcopal church was read, and the choir of Trinity church sang a part of the 33d psalm, concluding with the verses of 'I would not live always.' The house was filled, and hundreds were unable to get in. The coffin was an elegant one, and resting upon the cover was a large and magnificent floral cross. The pall-bearers were as follows: Judge Dyckman, E. L. Brown, Jonas Allen, Dr. N. M. Thomas, of Schoolcraft; Hon. E. S. Moore, Hon. A. C. Prutzman, Mr. Millard, and Mr. McComber, of Three Rivers. A large number of those within the church were old pioneers, people from Kalamazoo, Schoolcraft, Three Rivers, Mendon, Centreville, Constantine, and many other places. Mr. Conover, though wholly unprepared for any such service, officiated in a most impressive manner. He gave a brief sketch of the deceased, and showed how useful his life had been. He was one of the State Commissioners at an early day. He had been Speaker of the House in 1844, and had served in various legislative positions. He was always esteemed for his integrity, for his love of peace, and for his generosity to those in trouble. This demonstration was the best of eulogies. After the services, which began at half-past one and lasted for about an hour and a half, were over, a special train took the remains and funeral party to Schoolcraft. Here an immense number of people were gathered, business was suspended, and the remains were followed by a great concourse of people to the cemetery, where the last of earth of this old pioneer and useful citizen was deposited in its last earthly resting-place. Hon. G. V. N. Lothrop and family were present from Detroit."

"Special dispatch to the Detroit Tribune.

"SCHOOLCRAFT, Feb. 20.—Hon. E. H. Lothrop was buried here to-day. A special train brought the remains from Three Rivers, together with the relatives and a large number of friends of the deceased. Business was entirely suspended here during the ceremonies. The citizens turned out en masse, and followed the remains to the grave. It is closely estimated that 1,500 persons were in the procession. Rev. J. F. Conover, of St. Luke's church, Kalamazoo, officiated. Mrs. Lothrop was too ill to attend the remains here."

Mr. Lothrop is, as from the first, its sole manager.

In 1848, the three brothers, James E., John C., and Daniel, formed the partnership which has continued, without interruption, for thirty-six years. Although each brother is engaged in a different business in the city in which he resides, their interests are one, and the unanimity of feeling perfect.

623. THOMAS JACKSON, born Mar. 2, 1834, and married, Aug. 24, 1858, Catherine Prescott, daughter of Prof. John W. and Harriet Hickling Webster of Cambridge, Mass. He attended country schools until about thirteen years of age, fitted for college at Bristol Academy, in Taunton, and entered Harvard in July, 1850. While in college, he taught school in Taunton three winters. He graduated in 1854, and immediately sailed from Boston for Fayal, where he remained nearly three years as private tutor in the family of Frederick Dabney, American Vice-Consul for the Azores. He returned to Taunton in May, 1857, studied law and was admitted to the bar in September, 1858. In May, 1859, he formed a law partnership with Hon. John Daggett of Attleboro', who was then Register of Probate and Insolvency for Bristol County. In the autumn of 1861, he joined the "Taunton Light Guard," one of the companies of the 4th Mass. regiment. Sept. 2, 1862, was appointed quartermaster of the regiment, and soon afterwards post quartermaster for Camp "Joe Hooker," Lakeville, Mass. In December, 1862, he was re-appointed quartermaster, and left camp with the regiment above named, which formed a part of the "Banks Expedition" to Louisiana. While in Louisiana, he was detailed for a time to act as port commissary at Brashear City. He returned to Massachusetts with the regiment in August, 1863. In November, 1863, he was elected a representative from Taunton to the Legislature of Massachusetts, and in November, 1864, was elected treasurer of Bristol County, and held the office nine years. He was for several years treasurer of the Old Colony Historical Society, and for eighteen years a member of the School Committee of Taunton, having been elected first in 1859. In June, 1867, he was chosen treasurer of the Taunton Tack Company, and in June, 1868, was made agent, as well as treasurer, and since that time has had the general management of the company. He is a commissioner to qualify civil officers, a trustee of the Bristol County Savings Bank, and a director and one of the managing committee of the Central Manufacturing Company of Boston. He has also been an active member of the Massachusetts and New England Woman Suffrage Associations, and was one of the originators of the Prohibitory party of Massachusetts.

APPENDIX.

UNCONNECTED IMMIGRANTS.

I.

Capt. THOMAS LOTHROP.

Of the parentage of this famous pioneer in early Massachusetts history, we have not been able to learn. He probably was a near kinsman of Rev. John of Barnstable, and had preceded him, by some months certainly, to his American home. The first record of his presence here yet found is that which reports him in Salem, Mass., when he was admitted freeman, May 14, 1634. That he was prominent among the citizens of Salem, and later at Beverly, which was set off from Salem in 1664, is evident from his public services rendered. In military and in civil life he seems to have been equally prominent. Of his age we have no record. He married in Salem, Bethia Rea, or Ray, daughter of Daniel and Bethia Ray of Salem. As this Daniel Ray was admitted freeman at the same date with Mr. Lothrop, it is not unlikely that they had come together, settling first in Plymouth, where Mr. Ray is reported in 1631.

Of the character and life of Mr. Lothrop we have a very pleasant account in that elaborate sketch of "Salem Village," with which Upham has introduced his "History of Witchcraft":

"Thomas Lothrop originally lived in the town between Collins Cove and North River. He became a member of the First church in Salem, and was admitted a freeman in 1634. He soon removed to the Farms, and his name appears among the rate-payers at the formation of the village parish. For many years he was deputy from Salem to the General Court; and after Beverly was set off, as his residence was at the time on that side of the line, he was always in the General Court as deputy from the new town, when his other public employments permitted. No man was ever more identified with the history of Salem Farms. He contributed to form the structure of its society and the character of its population by all that a wise and good man could do. During his whole life in America he was more or less engaged in the military service, in arduous, difficult, and dangerous positions and operations, acting sometimes against Indians, and sometimes against the French, or, as was usually the case, against both combined. He was occasionally sent to distant posts, commanding expeditions to the eastward as far as Acadia. He was at one time in charge of a force at Port Royal, Nova Scotia."

But the hazardous enterprise in which he last engaged, and which proved fatal to himself and to so many of the "flower of Essex," who were in his command, we shall allow the old historians of the events to narrate. Under date of Sept. 18, 1675, we find in Baylie's "Memoir of Plymouth Colonies" the following account of the disaster:

"At Deerfield there were about 3,000 bushels of corn in stacks. It was thought expedient to bring it away. On this service, Captain Lothrop volunteered to go with eighty men to guard the teams. On the 18th of September, while on an easy march, not apprehending the least danger, he was suddenly assailed by a numerous body of Indians, and, after maintaining an unequal contest for several hours, was totally defeated and slain. Ninety men, including the drivers, fell in this disastrous fight, and only seven or eight escaped. Lothrop was a young man of great promise, of intrepid courage, and of competent skill in the art of war, but a theorist. He had adopted an opinion that the Indians could be the most effectually encountered in their own mode, and that during a fight every soldier should gain the shelter of a tree. . . . Lothrop's company comprised the flower of the youth of the county of Essex, all having been selected for their courage, strength, activity, and enterprise."—Baylie's Memoir, Part III, p. 69.

In Hubbard's "Indian Wars" we have this version of the disaster:

"It came to Capt. Lothrop's turn, or rather it was his choice, with about eighty men to guard several carts laden with corn and other goods. . . .

"But, upon September 18th, that most fatal day, the saddest that ever befell New England, as the company were marching along with the carts, it may be, too securely, never apprehending danger so near, they were suddenly set upon, and almost all cut off, not above seven or eight escaping, which great defeat came to pass by the unadvised proceeding of the captain, who was himself slain in the first assault, although he wanted neither courage nor skill to lead his soldiers."

In Drake's old "Indian Chronicle," we find this apology for the captain:

"Yet, let not the world censure too much Capt. Lothrop. He, in the Pequot wars, had done exploits; nor in this would he have been behindhand, if the narrow passage or causes, when his unexpected enemies set on him, would have given him leave to have drawn up his men."—p. 318.

From Mr. Upham's "Salem Village," we give this sketch of the "Bloody Brook" engagement, which completes our account of the military career of one of the worthiest of the New England pioneers:

"When the last decisive struggle with King Philip was approaching, and aid was needed from the eastern part of the colony to rescue the settlements on the Connecticut river from utter destruction, the 'flower of Essex' was summoned to the field. It was a choice body of efficient men, 'all called out of the towns belonging to this county,' numbering about one hundred men. Lothrop, of course, was their captain. In August, 1675, they were on the ground at Hadley, the place of rendezvous. On the 26th of that month, Capt. Lothrop with his company, and Capt. Beers of Watertown, with his, after a vigorous pursuit, attacked the Indians in a swamp about ten miles from Hatfield, at the foot of 'Sugar Loaf Hill.' Ten were killed on the side of the English, and twenty-six on the side of the Indians, who were driven from the swamp, and scattered in their flight, to fall, as was their custom, upon detached settlements, and continue to waste and destroy, by fire and sword, with hatchet, scalping-knife, torch, and gun. On the 18th of September, Lothrop, with his company, started from Deerfield, to convoy a train of eighteen wagons, loaded with grain and furniture of the inhabitants seeking refuge from danger, with teamsters and others. Mosely, with his men, remained behind, to scout the woods and give notice of the approach of Indians; but the stealthy savages succeeded in effecting a complete surprise, and fell upon Lothrop as his wagons were crossing a stream. They poured in a destructive fire from the woods in all directions. They were seven to one. A perfect carnage ensued. Lothrop fell early in the unequal fight, and only seven or eight of his whole party were left to tell the story of the fatal scene. The locality of this disastrous* and sanguinary tragedy has ever since been known as 'Bloody Brook.' In the list of those who perished by bullet, tomahawk, or arrow on that fearful morning, we read the names of many village neighbors of the brave and lamented commander," or, as Mr. Mather has eulogized him, "the godly and courageous commander."

Of the personal character of the home life of Capt. Lothrop we are happy to report this sketch by Mr. Upham:

"Capt. Lothrop was as remarkable for the benevolence of his spirit and the tenderness of his nature as for his wisdom in council, energy in command, or gallantry in battle. Indeed, his character in private life was so beautiful and lovable that I cannot refrain from leading you into the recesses of his domestic circle. It presents a picture of rare attractions. He had no children. His wife was a kind and amiable person. They longed for objects upon which to gratify the yearning of their affectionate hearts. He had a large estate. If there were an occurrence calling for commiseration anywhere in the vicinity, it was managed to bring it to his notice. Orphan children were received into his household, and brought up with parental care and tenderness. Many were in this way the objects of his charity and affections. . . . I know not where to find a more perfect union of the hero and the Christian, of all that is manly and chivalrous with all that is tender, benevolent, and devout."

Owing to the important place Thomas Lothrop occupies in the early history of New England, we append to this sketch a liberal extract from the Rev. Mr. Thayer's bi-centennial address:

"Of his leading associate in their establishment (Lothrop) I could not, in view of his sincere, upright, and honorable character, and restrained, no less than moved by that, speak in terms of extravagant eulogy. Brave and gentle, generous and just, confiding, yet cautious and wise, of large estate for the time, bountifully and skillfully administered, never sparing of his own exertions, but always ready for every good word or work, he had a rare and remarkable hold on the confidence and affection of the community in which he lived. Not sustaining in strictness the parental relation, he bore the best attributes, sympathies, and adornments of the parental heart, thus resembling him who, having discharged in private the duties of a loving and faithful parent to children not his own, came at length to be universally acknowledged the father of his country. He was a father of the fatherless, the widow's friend and support, and the helper of any who had none else to abet or plead their cause.

"As a military man, he had what seems, amid the hardships, perils, servitudes, and fierce conflicts of war, an unnatural combination of qualities, which, if seldom, are sometimes seen—of gentleness and bravery, of stern, inflexible purpose, with kindness and generosity, of unwavering determination with tenderest sympathy, of mild forbearance with exalted courage, of persevering, unfaltering energy, with true magnanimity. Says one who, from thorough investigation, could be relied on, 'He was the friend of all. I know not where to find a more perfect union of the hero and the Christian, of all that is manly and chivalrous with all that is tender, benevolent, and devout.'

"His house was not only the abode of a liberal hospitality, but an asylum for the orphan and the distressed. As objects of his bounty arose and multiplied, his dwelling, as his heart, seemed to expand, and he, who otherwise had been solitary, was, in the exercise of his kindly spirit, surrounded by a numerous family. Among those who shared his fostering care was a younger sister, Ellen, whom he brought with him on his return from a visit to England, who fulfilled his fondest wishes, and to whom he was ever afterward as both father and elder brother. . . . Lothrop, having in early manhood emigrated from England, settled in what is now the city of Salem; but, a few years after, he received a grant of land on this shore, near the Cove, where is a continuation of the most populous part of the town, and there fixed his residence for the remainder of his life. There he lived for about forty years, a model of fidelity to all his public and private relations. Nothing of the kind can exceed the charming picture of his domestic life which has been handed down to us, and been of late most skillfully and appreciatively drawn. To his ever-ready sympathy as a man, a neighbor, counsellor, friend, there is abundant witness. Various, almost innumerable, were the calls made on him for advice, for consolation, for attesting, drafting, and executing wills, for appraisal of estates, as trustee and guardian. For several years he was deputy to the General Court, first from Salem, then from this town, and a selectman of it all the time after its incorporation till his death. This last office was sometimes dignified with the title of 'townsman'; and comprehending, as it then did, the powers and duties of overseer of the poor, assessor of taxes, surveyor of highways, and police judge, without specifying others, we may conclude that it was no sinecure, and that its incumbent might have been entitled also the 'man-of-all-work.'

"His interest and activity in ecclesiastical were no less than in secular affairs. Soon after his arrival, when quite a young man, he became a member of the Salem church, with which he continued for a long time to worship and commune. When, in consequence of the increased population on this side, and the inconveniences of distance and crossing the intervening ferry, it was felt that new accommodations must be provided for the worshippers resident here, he took an active part in all the measures which resulted first in temporary arrangements for religious services, and ultimately—though not till about twenty years after their inception—in the complete organization of this society. Toward its establishment and primitive prosperity, his character, so high, pure, trusted, efficient, and altogether worthy, greatly contributed, especially connected, as it was in the general esteem, with that of Conant, his elder companion in the undertaking. The characters of the two, taken together, constituted a tower of strength and an indubitable pledge for the success, the stability, and spiritual growth of the embryo parish. That when absent on distant expeditions, and even amidst the din and stress of war, he was not unmindful of his parochial relations, and of the ties, religious as well as social, which bound him to his home, is evinced by the fact, that on his return from the attack of St. Johns and Port Royal, where he held an important command, and the capture of which he materially aided, he brought from the latter place, now Annapolis, and presented to the parish, a bell which had been in use on a friary there. . . . .

"But the end of all this life of activity, energy, and usefulness was drawing on. A fearful tragedy was at hand, in which he was to act the most conspicuous part, to suffer, and fall a sacrifice. King Philip, foremost of Indian chiefs in this quarter, subtle as powerful, had roused his own and neighboring tribes to the determination of desperate warfare—of nothing less than a life or death struggle between them and the colonists. . . . Meantime, Lothrop—who had raised a company of a hundred men in his county, that, from their being of the young and most promising, might well be styled its 'flower,' and who, from his varied experience and tried courage and valor, was, of course, to take the command—pressed on, and joined the forces under Willard at Hadley. Being charged by the latter with the transport of supplies of provisions from Deerfield, he. with his company, was on the route thence, and feeling no apprehension of immediate danger, they had laid aside their arms, and paused to regale themselves from the clusters of grapes which hung by the wayside, when the coveted fruit turned to ashes in their grasp, and its sweetness was changed to the gall and bitterness of death. Volleys from hundreds of savages in ambush were poured upon them, like lightning from a clear sky. Their gallant and beloved commander fell at the outset. They fought bravely, as best they could, with the pall of death over them. But few survived to tell the tale, which, from that time, gave to the little stream they were crossing, which proved to so many 'the narrow stream of death,' the sad name of 'Bloody Brook.'

"This catastrophe sent a thrill of terror and dismay through all the New England colonies. Especially did the news of it come with appalling force to this county, from which its choicest flowers, 'all culled out of its towns,' and blooming so lately in manly strength and beauty, had been thus suddenly cut down and withered, as by an untimely, killing frost. Throughout its length and breadth, scarcely was there a village or hamlet left unscathed by this great calamity,

> 'No flock, however watched and tended,
> But one dead lamb was there.'

More particularly, and with stunning effect, did the blow fall here, where, beside several that were deeply lamented, the fallen chief was best known, and for that reason most respected, trusted, and loved. Writers at or near the time do but express the feeling generally prevalent, whether in wider or more restricted circles, while they accumulate, almost without limit, the phrases descriptive of sorrow, agony, and horror, such as, 'a dismal and fatal blow,' 'a sadder rebuke of Providence than anything that had hitherto been,' 'a black and fatal day,' 'the saddest that ever befell New England.'

"Edward Everett, the Cicero of our country and age, said, in conclusion of his eloquent address at the laying of the corner-stone of the Bloody Brook monument, with his own peculiar felicity, 'The flower of Essex shall bloom in undying remembrance, as the lapse of time shall continually develop, in richer abundance, the fruits of what was done and suffered by our fathers.'"

We also give some court proceedings in reference to the estate of Thomas Lothrop, which we find printed in connection with Mr. Hassam's excellent monograph upon Ezekiel Cheever. It will throw some light upon the family relations of Mr. Lothrop:

"At a court held at Salem, 22d, 10, 1675, administration on the estate of Capt. Thomas Lathrop of Beverly, 'who latelye dyed in the warrs betwixt the English and the heathen,' was granted to his widow, Bethiah Lathrop, who offered for probate a nuncupative will, in favor of herself and her relatives, and Sarah Gott, an adopted daughter. This decree occasioned the following petition: 'To the Honoured County Court, now sitting at Salem. The humble petic̃on of Ezekiel Cheever, Schoolmaster, sheweth, that whereas Capt. Thomas Lowthrop, who lately lost his life in ye service & cause of God & his countrey, being his wives own, dear, naturall brother, dying intestate & without issue, he humbly conceives himself on ye behalf of his wife to be ye true, naturall, proper heir of his estate left, & therefore his duty to make his humble address to this Honored Court, that he may declare & legally plead ye same—To which end he came & attended ye Court neer a weeks space. But ye Court by publick occasions of ye Countrey being necessarily adjourned, he was forced to return home, and resolved (God willing) to attend ye Court, ye time appointed. But by ye providence of God, ye season being extraordinarily stormy & himself under bodily infirmity, he could not possibly come without apparent hazard of life, limb, or health. Yet had cautiously left order, & instructions for his son to appear for him in such an exigence. Which accordingly he did, though not in season, being by the same providence hindered. So that the Honored Court (no heir appearing) granted Administration to his sister Lowthrop, according to what then appeared. But seeing ye estate was not then setled, nor ye case fully issued, many things alledged being dark and dubious, & nothing legally proved, he hath much to say, to invalidate yt very writing given in, & ye seeming force of it. He humbly requests this Honoured Court, that being a party so neerly concerned and interested, he may have ye liberty of making, & pleading his claime, & title according to law. And for ye better securing of what shall be judged his right, he may be joyned together with his sister Lathrop in administration of ye said estate. And he shall as in duty bound, pray, &c.'"

From one of the papers on file in this case, the following extract is made:

"6. The matter which they testify is so unjust and unreasonable, that none that knew my brothers goodness and love, will believe, that my brother would be so unnaturall as to preferr strangers before his owne naturall Sister and her children, whom he so dearly loved, as many that knew them both can abundantly testify. 7. My Brother, when he brought his sister from England with him from all her friends and relations very loth to part with her, used this as a great argument with her Mother to perswade her, viz.: that he had no children of his own, nor was likely to have any: otherwise he must give what he had to strangers. And her mother told this to friends in her hearing, that that was a great motive that induced her to be willing to part with her; and commited her to the love and care of her brother as a Father, with great confidence and assurance of his tenderness toward her. 8. His sister by coming over, lost the value of twenty-five pound, beside what her mother would have given her at her decease." "These are to signify that Capt. Lathrop & myself being well acquainted, I being frequently at his house did at severall times observe that he did bring up divers children that were neither his owne nor the children of his sister Cheever, I asked him why he did not rather bring up some of his sister Cheever's children, they having many & their condition but low, his answer was at several times to this effect that he intended in time to doe more for her & her children than for any other, telling me the story (how when he was in England having land of some value he disposed of it for the benefit of his brother or sister there), & having brought over his sister Cheever hither he intended in time to doe something that should be for the benefit of her children. These things in general I doe well remember but for particular words or expressions I cannot say. John Higginson Sen." The decree of the Court, 27: 4: 1676, in favor of the widow, concludes as follows: "This division & ppconing of the said estate wee iudge equall & iust according to the mynde of the deceased. Wch wee submitt to the honor'd general Court further appbacon and confirmacon." The decision of the court was confirmed at a General Court held at Boston, Oct. 15, 1679.

ELLEN, a sister of the Captain Lothrop reported above, came to this country about the year 1650. Her death occurred Sept. 10, 1706.
